THREE THINGS interest human beings now, interested them 10,000 years ago, will interest them 1,000,000 years hence — WEATHER, MONEY AND AMUSEMENT.

Of the three there are many kinds. In winter we complain of cold. In spring we complain of summer's delay. Real summer comes and we complain.

Reading a few pages in Jeans' book of astronomical physics would comfort us.

Inside the sun the temperature is 50,000,000 degrees centigrade, above. A few miles above our heads, outside of the atmosphere and the ether, there is just absolute zero, 217 degrees centigrade, below.

And miraculously, our blood is kept at 98 degrees at the equator or at the North Pole. Be grateful for our earth-hot house.

THERE ARE many kinds of money, honest and dishonest, made and lost by gambling, or accumulated by hard work.

Of the nation's $90,000,000,000 annual income at least $80,000,000,000 represents fairly honest money. Not bad for our kind of civilization.

THE HISTORY of mankind can be written in a history of his innumerable amusements. Some watch prize fights, some play miniature golf, a few contemplate the starry heavens.

MR. SPEAR, of New York Standard Oil, asking permission to combine with the Vacuum Oil Company, says his company wants "a nationwide company engaged in the distribution of all petroleum products."

IF THE GOVERNMENT prevents it, the government is silly. It allows the energetic and brilliant Sir Henri Deterding, head of the Dutch-British "Shell" Company, to have "a nationwide distribution of all petroleum products." No American concern equals the foreign "Shell" company, as a nationwide distributor. More honor to Deterding and his energetic assistants.

But, why not allow an American concern, even if it is called "Standard Oil," to do what a foreign company is allowed to do?

IN HOT WEATHER, be careful, beware of tainted food, meat especially.

That warning was sent from Washington by Surgeon General Cumming, of the Public Health Service, on Monday. Yesterday 36 nurses were poisoned in New York's Parker Hospital, presumably by ptomaines in tainted veal.

Keep your hat on in sunshine. Actinic rays are bad for the brain. Protect your spinal cord. Don't expose it to hot sunlight too long at a time.

Drink much cool, not iced water.

IT WILL PLEASE Calvin Coolidge's millions of admirers to know that regardless of weather he always wakes up smiling. He inherited and served through the period of gigantic prosperity, caused by the pouring out of war billions. Then he handed the job to Mr. Hoover.

And, now for writing 150 words a day, telling Mr. Hoover to keep cheerful and the people to support him, Mr. Coolidge is paid $150,000 a year, at least, twice what the people pay to Mr. Hoover to worry. What wise words:

"I do not choose."

EGYPT, "oldest civilization in the world" except perhaps Mesopotamia, acts through the anger of the mob just as savage nations act.

Ingeniously rioters seek out leaks in gas mains, set fire to the leaks and blow up mains, destroy many houses.

The BRITISH stand such nonsense well. If Egyptians insist on burning Egyptians what can you do?

But when the fighting spreads to the Suez Canal, that is something else. Britain will not ignore a request for reinforcements there.

His jugular vein is to the British prime minister what the Suez Canal, with its short cut for ships, is to the British empire.

A COMMITTEE of congressmen went to inspect "dangerous reds" in the hot sunshine at their summer camp.

The congressmen looked wise, the Communists, dressed in "shorts," according to reporters, yelled "murderers! capitalists!" at the committee, which contained no murderer and no capitalist of any importance.

IF "REDS" could get rid of the "capitalists" that worried Karl Marx, how would they feel? There would be no more bath tubs, automobiles, "movies," ready-made "shorts," or good payrolls.

All those things are the products of "capitalists."

300 ITALIANS KILLED BY QUAKES

Toll Mounts as Reports Trickle in From Area Devastated by Temblors

By GUGLIELMO EMANUEL.
International News Service.

ROME, July 23.—An appalling death toll of at least 300 persons was taken today by a series of violent earthquakes which rocked a vast area of the Italian peninsula, demolishing villages and towns and ravaging the southern portion of the "boot" from Rome to Sicily.

An adequate estimate of the injured is impossible. On the basis of reports thus far received, it appears that the number of injured will reach 1,000.

DEATH POLL

Death figures this afternoon follow:

Melfi, 100; Montecaldo, 50; Rapola, 20; Sannicola, 14; Arianno, 10; Rionero, 11; Bisaccia, 6; Zugoli, 10; Apice, 4; Sorrento, 2; Salerno, 7; other places, at least 50 dead.

During the early afternoon reports continued to dribble in from scores of towns and villages in the stricken area, each community reporting one or two or more deaths, causing the total casualty list to grow steadily.

Shortly before 4 o'clock it was estimated that the number of dead would exceed 300, with between 1,000 and 1,500 injured.

Premier Benito Mussolini took prompt measures to afford relief to the earthquake sufferers. He commissioned Senator Cremonesi, president of the Italian Red Cross, to take charge of relief work.

Cremonesi, accompanied by the under secretary of public works, departed aboard a special train for the quake zone, carrying medicines and other relief supplies.

The quake was the worst in the

SAFETY FENCE CONTRACTS LET

Contracts were let by the city today for fences and reinforced curbs on the Boulevard of the Allies, Manfield avenue and Grandview avenue.

Booth & Flinn were awarded a contract for building of reinforced curbs on the Boulevard of the Allies, to be finished in 35 days. The contract price was announced as $15,162.

For a curb and wall on Mansfield avenue, south of South Main street, McDonough & O'Toole, contractors, will get $4,724.

While the Booth & Flynn award covered the curbing along the boulevard proper, a second contract was awarded for reinforced curbing on the viaduct at the Liberty Bridge. The Welsh Construction Company was given this contract at $3,680.

Contract for a fence on Grandview avenue, between Shaler and Oneida streets, was awarded the Fort Pitt Malleable Iron Company, for $15,989. This work will be completed in 128 days.

'Chute Saves Officer Thrown From Plane

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., July 23.—(INS.)—Catapulted from his plane when his safety belt broke as he attempted a loop, Lieut. Frederick H. Smith, Jr., of Kelly Field, floated safely to earth with his parachute here today.

FATHER, SLAYER OF 3, SANE

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., July 23.—Taylor W. Hott, 36, who confessed, police say, to slaying his three children, is sane though "noticeably uneducated," according to sanity commissions which examined him at the state's request.

The three children—Gertrude, 7; Calvin, 6, and Floyd, 5—whose bodies were found in a quarry pool Monday, were buried this afternoon in one grave.

Hott has been formally charged with murder. At the preliminary hearing when asked whether he wanted a preliminary hearing, he said, "I killed them."

Police say they believe quarrels between Hott and his wife led him to a determination to kill his children. She had left him recently after a dispute over her alleged relations with another man. Sunday she refused to take a walk with him and the children, according to police.

Plane on Commercial One-Stop U. S. Flight

PORTLAND, Ore., July 23.—(AP.)—Carrying messages to President Hoover, Gov. Roosevelt, of New York state, and Mayor Walker, of New York city, and a load of merchandise, Maj. Gilbert H. Eckerson took off here last night on the first projected commercial one-stop flight across the continent.

Wedding of Princess, 73, To Corey Don Fought

PARIS, July 23.—(AP.)—Whether the Princess Amedee de Broglie, aged 73, can legally marry Don Luis de Bourbon, 42-year old son of the Infanta Eulalia of Spain, will be decided by the tribunal of the Seine Friday.

Don Luis, a cousin of the Spanish monarch and once reported engaged to Mrs. W. E. Corey, of Pittsburgh, was last reported to have gone to his villa at San Remo.

The Duke de Brissac, nephew of Princess Amedee, has formally filed objections to the match on account of the age of the Princess. He also complained of prodigalities by the Princess, alleging she has squandered huge sums in the past few years. He asked that a judicial council be named to adminster her property.

MADRID, July 23.—(INS.)—In a royal decree approved by the Council of Ministers, Spain today increased duties on a number of articles, but chiefly on automobiles, tires and safety blades.

Although the minister of economy issued a statement to the contrary, it was generally felt that the tariff increases were aimed directly at the United States as a retaliatory measure.

HOLD LOTTERY AGENTS—PARK

Parts of the local law enforcement machinery have begun to move toward abolishment of the Clearing House pool "numbers racket."

Developments today were:

1. Call made, in a letter from District Attorney Andrew T. Park, upon aldermen, justices of the peace and Director of Public Safety James M. Clark to increase the bail for lottery operators arrested in raids from $1,000 to $2,500.

2. Clark orders investigation by "personal representatives" of lottery operations in South Side district.

3. Raids by county detectives in Hill District and Millvale in effort to apprehend sellers of tickets to Antonio Bancale, 64, tailor, whose suicide was attributed to playing the numbers.

DEMANDS HIGHER BAIL

War on the numbers racket resulted today in District Attorney Park calling on committing magistrates to require $2,500 bail for pool operators and Director of Public Safety Clark announcing that he has ordered a personal investigation of reported pool operations in the South Side.

Following the regular police trial board, hearing this morning Clark and Supt. of Police P. P.

Curtiss, Early Plane Builder, Dies at 52

MRS. CURTISS GLENN H. CURTISS

Mr. Curtiss, aviation pioneer and plane-builder, with his widow in one of the latest pictures made of him. He died today in a Buffalo hospital following a recent operation for appendicitis.

Noted Inventor Constructed First Flying Boat, Radial Engine

BUFFALO, July 23.—(AP.)—Glenn H. Curtiss, widely known aviation pioneer, died in the General Hospital here today.

Mr. Curtiss was brought to the hospital several days ago from his home at Hammondsport, N. Y., to undergo an operation for appendicitis. The operation was said to have been successful and he was reported recovering rapidly.

WIFE TOO LATE

Mrs. Curtiss came here with her husband and has been almost constantly at his bedside. As his condition began to improve she spent her nights at a downtown hotel. She was hastily summoned when the aviator became unconscious this morning, but arrived after his death.

Hospital authorities stated that death was due to pulmonary embolus, caused by a blood clot on one of the main arteries leading out of the heart.

NURTURED AVIATION

NEW YORK, July 23.—(AP.)—Glenn H. Curtiss nurtured the young science of aviation in the middle years of its development when fainter hearts had grown discouraged.

His native town of Hammondsport, in upstate New York, where he was born on May 21, 1878, is now called by the Chamber of

Morris Bars Wife From Geneva Stage

GENEVA, July 23.—(AP.)—Nelson Morris, Chicago millionaire, has taken another trick from his French actress wife, Jean Aubert, whose divorce suit has been complicated by a series of legal wrangles.

A Swiss court refused to let her appear on the stage here, after her husband had forbidden it, as he did in France.

Mears May Launch Globe Hop Thursday

NEW YORK, July 23.—(INS.)—Seeking to better the record time made by the Graf Zeppelin in its flight around the world, John H. Mears today said he may hop off Thursday or Friday in his Lockheed-Vega monoplane. Henry J. Brown will pilot the plane.

BOULTONS SEEK GIANT SABLE

Rudyerd Boulton, assistant curator of birds at Carnegie Museum, and his wife, Laura Boulton, recently returned from an expedition to Africa are going back—this time in search of Africa's most elusive animal, the giant sable.

The Boultons have been persuaded to return by Ralph Pulitzer, New York newspaper publisher. Pulitzer, Mrs. Pulitzer and their son will be the other members of the party. They sail the first week in August for Angola territory.

Boulton has planned an excursion which he believes no other white man has ever made—down the Okavango river, through the Chobe swamp to Victoria Falls, where he hopes to locate a white rhinoceros.

China Seeking Radio Service to America

NANKING, July 23.—(AP.)—The Ministry of Communications today announced negotiations are proceeding with the Radio Corporation of America toward the establishment of radio telephone service between the United States and China.

SHOOTING FOLLOWS RECALL

Governor Flies to Scene To Head Probe; Finds One Suspect in Custody

DETROIT, July 23.—Gerald 7. (Jerry) Buckley, millionaire manager of Radio Station WMBC, was shot and killed by three men in the lobby of the La Salle Hotel at 1:50 a. m. today, two and a half hours after he had announced over the radio the recall of Mayor Charles Bowles.

Buckley had taken an active part in the campaign against Bowles. He had long been a critic of the mayor's administration.

Buckley, scion of a wealthy family here, was "put on the spot" as he sat in the lobby of the hotel.

REWARD POSTED

A reward of $5,000 for the arrest and conviction of the killers, "and those back of the killing who instigated it," was posted by the City Council.

The possibility of another $5,000 reward was seen in the drafting by James E. Chenot, prosecuting attorney, of a letter to the Board of County Auditors recommending that it be posted.

John C. Nagel, president of the Council, made the motion for the reward. He said:

"This slaying was not the work entirely of the men who did the shooting. They were just killers. There was somebody behind them who hired them to do it."

SUSPECT ARRESTED

Gov. Fred W. Green and Col. John Bersey, commander of the Michigan National Guard, arrived here by airplane today to assume charge of the probe into the murder.

Millionaire Kenny Made N. Y. Fireman

NEW YORK, July 23.—(AP.)—Edward J. Kenny, millionaire "buff," today is a full-fledged member of the fire department with the title of deputy fire commissioner in charge of Brooklyn.

In the lexicon of the fire house, a "buff" is a private citizen with a penchant for chasing to fires. Kenny's brother William F., told a Senate committee he would "give his shirt to see Al Smith elected President."

Carlisle Capitalist Dies, Heat Victim

CARLISLE, Pa., July 23.—(AP.)—George Metzger Hays, capitalist and prominent socially, died at Albion Point, his estate here, of a heart attack today. The intense heat was blamed. Hays was a descendant of Iprian Blain, prominent during the Revolutionary War, and was connected with the Rhinelander and Kip families of New York.

Woman Who Heard Lincoln Dies at 82

Self-Denial Causes Death Of 'Millionaire Hobo'

STAUNTON, Va., July 23.—(AP.)—James Eads How, the "millionaire hobo," is dead as the result of 15 years of self-denial.

Physicians attending him when he succumbed in a hospital here yesterday said death was due to pneumonia, evidently superinduced by starvation. He was 56 years old.

Nicholas Klein, for 25 years his friend and attorney, announced today in Cincinnati that How drew up his will there 10 days ago and left an estate of from $500,000 to $1,000,000.

Despite a bequest of $500,000 from his mother, Mrs. Eliza Eads How, in 1915, he had denied himself the necessities of life to aid unfortunates, especially hoboes. His time and energy, as well as his fortune, were spent in the interest of migratory workers. He was the financial "angel" of the International Brotherhood Welfare Association, with hobo shelters in 16 cities.

How was the son of a distinguished St. Louis family and was well educated. John How, his paternal grandfather, was mayor of St. Louis several terms before the Civil War, and his father, the late James F. How, was vice president and general manager of the Wabash Railroad. His mother's father was James Buchanan Eads, builder of Eads Bridge across the Mississippi River at St. Louis.

The millionaire hobo studied at Harvard and became a licensed physician, but never practiced.

U. S. MAY FOREGO BUILDING NAVY UP TO TREATY LIMIT

BIG PROGRAM NECESSARY FOR PARITY

General Attitude of Apathy Noted to Plans for Big Tonnage Expenditures

By WILLIAM B. HUTCHINSON
International News Service

WASHINGTON, July 23.—In spite of the Senate's overwhelming ratification of the London naval pact, negotiated to give the United States actual parity with Great Britain, there were intimations on Capitol Hill today that America may be content with an "inferior navy" throughout the life of the treaty.

The United States must engage in a tremendous naval construction program during the next few years to achieve anything like parity with the British.

There were hints that large blocs in Congress as well as the Hoover administration itself would be apathetic or antagonistic to any substantial expenditures on new warships.

OTHERS WANT LIMIT

One real impetus toward a building program was the desire of administration leaders to give the United States a navy strong enough by 1935 to inspire a desire in England and Japan for a real reduction in naval armaments.

It was felt that if the United States did not build its navy up to the treaty limits, the 1935 conference will prove a complete failure. With this in view, some factions may make a real effort to construct a navy up to the treaty limits.

To achieve real parity with the British, America must build, or complete, 14 10,000-ton eight-inch gun cruisers by 1935, and three more by 1936, between 60,000 and 70,000 tons of six-inch gun cruisers and numerous replacements in submarines and destroyers. This would entail expenditures running into hundreds of millions.

STRONG OPPOSITION

There were indications strong opposition would be launched against so extensive a program. Indeed both "little navy" and "big navy" leaders expressed opposition to building any of the six-inch gun cruisers. The eight-inch gun cruisers presented a different problem, since Congress already has authorized the construction of 23 such cruisers under its old program, and already has appropriated for eight of them.

President Hoover signed the American instrument of ratification late yesterday in a brief ceremony attended by several delegates to the London conference, and by leaders of the Senate.

SPROUL 'ON AIR' 90 DAYS MORE

Evangelist John W. Sproul today was given 90 days in which to prove his broadcasting station WMBJ, on Frankstown road, was operated in the public interest and that the license should be renewed.

After Sproul's station equipment had been sold at auction to satisfy debts, the evengelist immediately obtained new broadcasting paraphernalia and resumed operations. The Federal Radio Commission listed the station in Washington today with 30 others for 90-day renewals from August 1, stipulating that its usefulness must be shown.

Sproul, convicted on five bad check charges, recently closed his latest "glory barn" in Munhall and sought to conduct a campaign at Clarksburg, W. Va. The city council there ordered him to submit a petition signed by residents before granting a license.

Two Held for Court As Barbecue Robbers

Alleged to have participated in the holdup of Frank Ward's barbecue stand, in Camp Horne road July 9, during which Jack McCall, 30, of Cleveland, a diner, was shot in the left side, Edward J. Sullivan, 33, of 3520 Butler street, and Thomas Daugherty, 25, of 333 Thirty-sixth street, were held for court following a hearing before Justice of the Peace, A. A. Davis, of Emsworth.

HOLD LOTTERY AGENTS—PARK

Walsh conferred on charges that Police Inspector P. J. McArdle had been permitting operation of the lottery in the South Side. After the conference Clark said:

"I have appointed personal representatives to make a thorough investigation and spare nothing to bring me the facts. The result of this investigation will determine my future actions. I am absolutely opposed to gambling in any form and particularly the clearing house pool."

McARDLE SUMMONED

Inspector McArdle was called into the conference. He afterwards said, referring to a newspaper article:

"What they write doesn't hurt me if it is the truth. Let them go ahead."

County detectives raided two alleged pool headquarters at 1540 Wylie avenue and No. 7 Sedgwick street, Millvale. Lottery tickets, adding machines and other lottery paraphenalia were confiscated. The Wylie avenue place was deserted when the sleuths arrived.

George Siegel, alleged proprietor of the Millvale place, was released in $2,500 bail, the first person to be caught under Park's request for heavier bonds.

RAIDS FOLLOW PROBE

The raids were said to be the result of the investigation of the Bancale suicide. Bancale was known to have played the pool in widely separated parts of the city and county.

Prosecutor Park sent a letter to justices of the peace, aldermen and Director Clark, asking for the increase in bond money.

He said that by increasing the amount of bail required he believes the practice of the operator of the pool putting up bond for his employes will be broken up.

Heretofore it has been comparatively easy for an operator to put up bond for himself and several writers when they were arrested. Park was expecting today to receive a full report from detectives assigned to investigate the Bancale case. Bancale shot himself to death Saturday on a park bench in front of the Allegheny General Hospital.

CURTISS, PLANE BUILDER, DEAD

TOMATO CAN CARBURETOR

With a tomato can for a carburetor, Curtiss built his first motor bicycle in 1901. He continued to experiment with light weight motors and evolved his famous V-type motor, a departure in design reflected in the radial airplane engines of today.

His fame spread and drew the attention of the late Maj. Thomas Scott Baldwin, builder and operator of balloons. In 1904 the two men met in Hammondsport and installed a Curtiss motor in Baldwin's baloon, the California Arrow. With this machine they made a circular flight at Oakland, Cal., in August, 1904, first to fly that way.

LINKED TO AVIATION

From that time on the name of Curtiss has been as closely linked with airplane as horse with buggy, ship with sea.

He worked and labored, tested, tore up, built anew. In 1911 he established a camp at North Island, near San Diego, Cal., and with Lieut. Ellyson, of the Navy, and Capt. Beck, of the Army, set out to master taking-off from the water. He succeeded and had America's first hydro-aeroplane.

Golf Fiend Ignores Heat, Plays All Day

SOUND BEACH, Conn., July 23.—(AP.)—T. Ward Ritchie loves to play golf. Hunger, thirst and heat will not stop him. On the hottest day of the year he played 170 holes in 15 hours, starting at 4:30 a. m. and keeping at it till darkness.

Death of Rich N. Y. Woman Recluse Veiled in Secrecy

NEW YORK, July 23.—(AP.)—Mrs. Rebecca Wendel Swope, whose brick mansion surviving among business buildings at Thirty-ninth street and Fifth avenue is one of the landmarks of New York, died on Sunday at Quogue, Long Island. She was 87 years old.

The death of Mrs. Swope was not announced, for she and her sister, Miss Ella Wendel, had avoided public mention for many years. Funeral services were held yesterday and interment made in Trinity Cemetery.

Mrs. Swope and Miss Wendel inherited the $50,000,000 to $100,000,000 estate of their sister, Georgiana G. B. Wendel, who died in a sanitarium. When Miss Wendel died in January, 1927, no announcement was made and it was a month before it became known.

Mrs. Swope was said to have been the only one of the sisters ever seen in public. She visited, at long intervals, the opera or the theater.

Originally there were six sisters and a brother. The passing last year of Georgianna Wendel and now of Mrs. Swope leaves Miss Ella Wendel the only surviving member of the family.

The fortune was founded by John G. Wendel, grandfather of the women, who was a contemporary of John Jacob Astor in the fur business and who used his profits to buy real estate. It was his principle to invest his money in real estate, but never to sell a parcel once acquired, and this principle was adhered to by his heirs.

BILLINGS TO GET 'RETRIAL,' HIGH COURT RULES

Star Witness Next Tuesday Will Be Admitted Perjurer; Row Enlivens Preparations

Universal Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 23.—From a day's startling developments, spectacular as any that yet have enlivened the spectacular cases of Thomas J. Mooney and Warren K. Billings, one salient fact stood out boldly today.

In proceedings without precedent in California, judges of the State Supreme Court will virtually re-try Billings next Tuesday with John MacDonald, admitted perjurer, as the star witness and with the entire defense and prosecution present.

That was the startling conclusion that marked the fourteenth anniversary of the Preparedness Day bomb explosion yesterday—a day in which bomb-like episodes exploded frequently in the state building.

There was the meeting of MacDonald with Gov. C. C. Young and the Governor's flat refusal to hear him. There were secret conferences: violent verbal rows between the Governor and counsel; dashes by all concerned through the corridors, and strange "back-stairs" flittings by the Governor and other officials.

ROW OVER TRANSCRIPT

And a fierce row broke out over the transcript of what went on when the Governor met MacDonald and attorneys behind closed doors.

The decision of the Supreme Court to hear MacDonald Tuesday followed two "closed" conferences between Gov. Young and Chief Justice Waste, between which the Governor sandwiched his afternoon session with MacDonald's counsel and Frank P. Walsh, New York attorney representing Mooney. Although MacDonald was admitted to that session, he was not permitted to "open his mouth," according to Walsh.

When asked by Walsh and Edwin V. McKenzie, counsel for Billings, to indicate the scope of Tuesday's hearing, Judge Waste declared it will be limited strictly to the Billings case and that MacDonald, alone will testify. If it develops that other witnesses are needed, he said, their testimony will be heard later.

WILL ACT AS JUSTICES

The judges, Waste declared, would not sit as a "commission for the Governor," but would be acting individually as Supreme Court justices, to re-hear Billings' application for a pardon. Mooney he said, would enter into the proceedings in no way.

With this understanding, Walsh announced he will immediately resume his attempts to have Gov. Young hear MacDonald, in connection with Mooney's application for a pardon.

He pointed out that the Governor alone has authority to grant a pardon to his client and that the Supreme Court has not accepted jurisdiction.

EATON ATTACKS STOCK VOTED IN MERGER

99,757 Shares of Estates, Incompetents Illegally Balloted, Counsel Claims

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 23.—(AP.)—The fight of attorneys for the Cyrus S. Eaton interests to prove illegal the merger of Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company with Bethlehem Steel Corporation today narrowed down to rapid attack on the stock which was voted to ratify the merger by fiduciaries of estates and incompetents.

In the first portion of the morning session in Common Pleas Court the Eaton attorneys had introduced into evidence documents and other papers representing 99,757 shares, which they contend were illegally voted at the stockholders' meeting April 8, this year. The merger carried by 58,071 shares of stock.

AMBASSADOR'S WILL

Among the voluminous exhibits brought into court was the will of the late Myron T. Herrick, former ambassador to France; involving 5,193 shares.

The Herrick will was identified by B. A. Bingham, Cleveland, deputy clerk of the Probate Court of Cuyahoga County, who testified that on March 21 the court ordered partial distribution of the estate and transferred the Youngstown company stock to Parmely Herrick.

Stock, amounting to 4,650 shares, which was voted by the guardians of Samuel Mather and Catherine Stone Mather also was attacked on the ground court order was needed before it could be voted.

TO ATTACK OTHERS

Besides these, the Eaton attorneys told the court, they will attack "hundreds of thousands" of other shares voted. Waiting to be introduced as evidence were all the proxies, papers and documents which were before the inspectors of election the day of the stockholders' meeting.

The anti-merger forces indicated they will base their arguments, after the evidence is in, on the new Ohio corporation code, first attacking votes as illegal under the code and lastly attacking the code itself as unconstitutional.

300 KILLED BY EARTHQUAKES

history of Naples, although reporting little loss of life. Scores of houses, particularly in the slum and tenement districts, were wrecked, but the heavy human toll was reserved for smaller towns and villages over a radius of hundreds of miles.

One of the chief sufferers was the city of Melfi, a community of 12,000 population, where scores of houses collapsed as the ground shook in a series of quakes, bringing death to more than 100 persons and intense suffering to scores of others.

The entire lower section of the Italian "Boot," from Rome on the west coast to Catania on the east, was hit by the quakes, with scarcely a single community escaping damage or loss of life.

The quake centered at Visciano, near Naples. The latter city sustained heavy property damage with flimsy houses throughout the slum area cracking and falling as the ground shook beneath them.

The first quake occurred at 1:06 a. m. (8:06 p. m. Tuesday, Pittsburgh time.) The other shocks, of lesser intensity, occurred a short intervals. The first temblor, which wrought most of the damage, lasted for 42 seconds.

Pope Offers Prayers For Victims of Quake

VATICAN CITY, July 23.—(AP.)—Pope Pius, informed early today by Cardinal Pacelli of the earthquake disaster in Southern Italy, expressed the utmost horror and spent some moments in prayer for the repose of the souls of the victims. Later he instructed Monsignor Cremonesi, his secret almoner, to have ready a sizeable sum for relief.

It was considered likely that he may head an important subscription throughout the nation for the benefit of victims and will order prayers to be said in all the churches in Italy.

Two Killed in Auto Crash at Greensburg

GREENSBURG, Pa., July 23.—Two men were killed in an automobile accident near here late last night. They were Fred B. Hockensmith, 26, and John R. Gilbert, 22, both of Shippensburg. They were found in their overturned roadster in a field off the Lincoln highway.

MACKEY OUT FOR PINCHOT IN RACE

Philadelphia Mayor Indorses Republican Candidate for Governor at Port Dinner

PHILADELPHIA, July 23.—(AP.)—Tacit but emphatic indorsement of Gifford Pinchot as the Republican nominee for governor was given by Mayor Harry A. Mackey and members of his cabinet last night at the "Port of Pennsylvania-Pan-American" dinner given by the mayor at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel.

In introducing Mr. Pinchot, who was the guest of honor, Mayor Mackey said:

"We have as our distinguished guest the man who recently was nominated as governor of Pennsylvania by the Republicans."

URGES NEW SHIP LINE

Mayor Mackey urged the establishment of a new trans-Atlantic steamship line with Philadelphia as its terminal and suggested that the name of the Port of Philadelphia be changed to the Port of Pennsylvania.

Thomas S. Gates, newly-elected president of the University of Pennsylvania, also spoke.

The Mayor's action for Pinchot was considered important in the face of efforts of friends of Francis Shunk Brown, who on the face of returns from the May primary was defeated by Pinchot by approximately 20,000 votes, to have the paper ballots cast in Luzerne County declared illegal because of perforations.

PLANS STATE COMMITTEE

This case is to be heard by the State Supreme Court on August 19. Should the Luzerne ballots be held illegal Brown would be the Republican nominee by about 6,000 plurality. In this event Pinchot would run independently on a pre-empted ticket.

Mr. Pinchot said when he "becomes governor" he would ask the Legislature to create a "Greater Pennsylvania Committee," part of the function of which would be the systematic development of this port.

"NO SIGNIFICANCE"

HARRISBURG, July 23.—(AP.)—Absence of political significance in a visit of William R. Douglas, assistant campaign manager for the Davis-Brown ticket in the May primary, to Democratic state headquarters here, was claimed yesterday by E. B. Zimmerman, secretary of the state Democratic committee.

Douglas was accompanied on his visit by W. S. Adams, campaign manager for a number of central Pennsylvania counties for the Bohlen-Phillips-Dorrance "wet" slate, defeated at the primaries. The men talked for a while with Zimmerman, who afterward said there was "absolutely no significance" in the meeting.

ham, who has been in poor health for several years, had been absent from his home on several occasions lately. Mrs. Langham has fulfilled his duties as watchman at the Emeigh sub-station of the Cherry Tree Coal Company.

Absent for the past four days, Langham appeared at the nearby farm of Joss Lamar yesterday and remained there until 9 p. m., when Lamar retired.

The explosion occurred several hours later.

Search of the hay loft on the farm of Clarence Ferrier, a brother of Mrs. Langham, revealed a blanket upon which some one had slept recently.

Superintendent A. C. Monteith, of the coal firm, called to the scene by Rice, reported to police that he had found a six-foot fuse leading to the house. County Detective Ed Whitehead and state police were summoned from Ebensburg by Monteith.

Baron Howard's Kin To Marry Butler

WASHINGTON, July 23.—The Washington Post says today that Miss Gytha Stourton, cousin of Baron Howard, former British ambassador to the United States, is soon to wed Fiorvanti Del'Agnese, an Italian, who served as butler and major domo at the embassy when Howard was here.

Sees Towers Tremble, Folks Crushed in Quake

LONDON, July 23.—(INS.)—A graphic eye-witness description of scenes in the quake-torn town of Melfi during the first few moments of death and destruction spread by the earth tremblor was contained today in a dispatch from Rome to the Evening News. This surviver said:

"When the first earth shock occurred I rushed from my home into the street. I could see the towers of the cathedral and the castle shaking like leaves on a tree. In a moment women and children, many dressed in their night clothes, came pouring out into the street. Many of these were trampled to death in the rush as they left their houses.

"There appeared to have been more casualties from the panic than there were from the quake itself—that is, persons injured by collapsing buildings and debris.

"Soon after the first shock the lights all went out. Then I smelled gas, which was escaping from broken gas mains. In many places this gas became ignited, throwing a ghostly light over the town. Soon the flames had spread to nearby buildings, adding to the horror of our situation."

GEORGE V SEES CHURCH UNITY GROWING

Britain's King Praises Progress of Bishops at Seventh Lambeth Meeting

LONDON, July 23.—(AP.)—Hopes for a reunited Christendom were expressed by King George in reply to an address from members of the Lambeth conference when he and Queen Mary received them in Buckingham Palace today. The King shook hands with each visitor. He said:

"I thank you most sincerely for your address and for the spirit of devotion and affection which animates it. I was especially touched by the assurance of your sympathy with me in my recent illness and your pleasure at my recovery.

CITES GROWTH

"I have observed with interest that among the delegations which have visited Lambeth this has been an important one from the orthodox church view.

"Looking back upon the beginning of this series of Lambeth conferences, it must be a source of pride and thankfulness to reflect what testimony they bear to the growth and development of the Anglican communion. One hundred years ago it was little more than the church of a single kingdom. The present conference is a world-wide gathering of united, though mostly self-governing, churches which has attained the proportions of a general council.

UNION UPPERMOST

"I remember 10 years ago when I had the pleasure of receiving the sixth Lambeth conference that the question of the reunion of Christendom was foremost in your thoughts. You put before the world an ideal of unity and a plea for new endeavor to heal rents in the fabric of the church. I am most happy to learn that this appeal has not been fruitless. It is my earnest hope and prayer that the work which your last conference began may prosper and that the deliberations of this present conference may result in some notable advance toward this most desirable end."

OHIO BOY, 6, LISTED AS VICTIM

Pontoon Structure Buckles Under Weight of Throng Watching Hindenburg Fete

International News Service.

COBLENZ, July 23.—A death list of 50 or more persons was feared today in the collapse of a pontoon bridge over the Moselle River as rescue squads worked incessantly to clear the river bed of its wreckage.

An American boy, Raymond Lawler, 6, of Akron, O., is among the dead.

The grandfather of the boy, Peter Conrad, with whom the lad, his mother, sister and brother were visiting, also was drowned.

Mrs. Lawler was born in Coblenz and married Wallace Lawler here in January, 1922, when he was a member of the Eighth United States Infantry, Army of Occupation, stationed in Germany.

Six school girls are missing, and a number of those who stood on the structure at the fatal moment were believed to have been carried down with it and buried under the iron and wood debris. Forty bodies had been recovered early this morning.

The pontoon bridge gave way while it was crowded with spectators watching the illumination and fireworks at Ehrenbreitstein Castle.

HINDENBERG MOURNS

President Von Hindenburg, in whose honor the celebrations here and at the fortress on the summit were staged, attended a mourning ceremony at the City Hall before noon today.

Otto Braun, Prussian premier, accompanied the executive to the memorial service, which was attended in a body by municipal authorities.

Shortly afterward President Von Hindenburg entrained for Berlin.

Most of the victims in last night's tragedy, it was found, were girls of from 16 to 20 years of age. The bridge was of an emergency character, mounted on two pontoons, which capsized under the weight of approximately 100 people.

SOME ESCAPE BY LEAP

The bodies of many, it was feared, are pinned under these pontoons.

The crash came shortly after 11 o'clock last night. Falling timbers killed a number of the victims; several on the edge of the bridge escaped by a quick leap to the bank, 24 were injured by flying pieces.

Cries and splashes of those in the water spurred rescuers to disregard personal danger in an effort to save as many as possible.

Throughout the night and this morning the river, approximately 20 feet deep here, was dragged for victims.

HEARING HELD ON BLUE LAW

PHILADELPHIA, July 23.—(AP.)—A description of attendance at municipal playgrounds and swimming pools on Sunday was given today by Mrs. Emily L. Carmichael, chief of the Bureau of Recreation, at the second hearing of Council's "Blue Laws" committee.

Councilman William W. Roper presided. The hearings are being held with a view to recommending modification or repeal of the "Blue Laws" of 1794 to the next Legislature. Roper asked:

"What is the exact situation in the city playgrounds on Sunday?"

Mrs. Carmichael said.

"We had 24 of the playgrounds open last Sunday and we are opening as many as conditions will permit. I have come to the conclusion after careful study that the Blue Laws do not have much to do with the situation one way or the other."

Roper asked:

"Is there a big demand for playgrounds on Sunday?"

Mrs. Carmichael replied:

"No, but it is different with the bathing pools. They are jammed, especially in hot weather, and we keep them all open."

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 23.—(AP.)—Sir Frederick Montague Style, 73, British nobleman, died today after an illness of a year. He was the tenth baron of Glenmore, and came here from Wales in 1881.

Living in Milwaukee for many years, he seldom referred to his title and was known simply as Mr. Style. A son, William P. Style, a banker, will succeed to the title.

DURHAM, N. C., July 23.—(AP.)—Mrs. Nanny Anderson, 38, and her daughter, Louise Anderson, 13, were killed this afternoon in the yard of their home in Lock Lilly community when struck by lightning. The bolt struck a nearby tree and followed a wire to the spot where the two were standing, under another tree.

SLIGHT RELIEF FROM DROUGHT

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(INS.)—Immense damage has been done to the nation's food crops by drought and high temperatures, and virtual destruction of some is threatened by their continuance, the Weather Bureau reported today.

The crop summary of Dr. J. B. Kincer, agricultural meteorologist, based on reports from weather observers all over the country, painted a serious picture of agricultural conditions.

Although showers have checked the drought which had smashed records of 40 years' standing in many states, the dry spell is not broken, the department reported. Generally fair, hot and rainless weather continues, with a high pressure area obtaining in the West.

TUBE CITY GIRL HIKES AS BOY

NEW ORLEANS, July 23.—(AP)—The unromantic routine of secretarial work in the United States Department of Commerce at Washington and a desire to see the world and write about it prompted Frances Eleanor Trott, 22, of McKeesport, Pa., to hitchhike to Mexico City as a boy.

Her passport lost, Miss Trott was returned by Mexican authorities to New Orleans, where today her only concern was "what mother is going to ay when she hears about it."

"Tommy" Trott, as she is known, is slim and small and looks like a tanned boy.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(Universal.)—The Washington Herald makes the following announcement:

"Mrs. Eleanor Medill Patterson, beginning today, will assume direction of the Washington Herald as editor-in-chief.

"For a long time she endeavored to purchase the Washington Herald, of which she now becomes the active editor; but Hearst newspapers are not for sale.

"Mrs. Patterson will work as editor of the Herald under the regular Hearst newspaper contract.

"The Washington Herald feels sure that Mrs. Patterson, who, in accordance with Galton's law, inherits the genius of her grandfather, will be a very successful and interesting editor of a Washington daily newspaper."

Papal Delegate Home From India

NEW YORK, July 23.—(AP.)—Msgr. Edward A. Mooney, apostolic delegate from Rome to India, arrived on the French liner France to visit New York and his former home in Youngstown, O. Msgr. MYSTERY FIRE WRECKS FERRY

Operators of the Fidelity Ferry Company, a subsidiary of the Pressed Steel Car Company, today were unable to account for the cause of the fire which late yesterday destroyed the stern-wheel ferry Russell, moored to the bank of the Ohio River at the foot of Westhall street, North Side. Firemen from three North Side companies fought the blaze for more than an hour. Damage was estimated at $35,000.

The ferry, which was used to transport steel company employes and passengers from the North Side across the Ohio River to Stowe Township, where the plant is located, had been out of service for six months. Hundreds of laborers of the car company and pedestrians lined the river bank to watch firemen fight the flames.

The blaze originated in the rear of the pilot house, according to John Frey, watchman, who discovered the fire from his shed on the bank of the stream.

AIR DERBY PILOT CRASHES

CINCINNATI, O., July 23.—(AP.)—R. A. Hosier, Detroit, was injured today and his plane demolished when he crashed while attempting to take off on the Cincinnati-Little Rock leg of the All-American air derby.

Lee Gehlbach, Little Rock, second in total elapsed time, left immediately after Hamer, and hoped to receive his home city's welcome before Hamer's arrival. Gehlbach led in actual flying time on the first day, but was surpassed yesterday by Hamer.

The derby, worth $15,000 to the winner, started Monday at Detroit. The route carried the pilots to Buffalo, New York and Cincinnati.

Weather Conditions.

Showers were rather general over Ohio and eastward to the coast during yesterday and last night and there was a rain area in Kansas, Missouri and Western Kentucky. The showers were light generally, but in this section some localities received torrential amounts. The weather is still quiescent over a considerable portion of the country, which will likely result in still further breaking the protracted drought. Temperature changes were slight.

River Conditions.

The rivers are stationary. Stage at Franklin is 0.2 foot; Lock No. 7, 10.0; Pittsburgh, 9.6; Dam No. 4, 9.0; Dam No. 6, 7.4; Dam No. 9, 7.7, and Dam No. 12, 4.0. The dams are up.

Aviation Bulletin.

There is considerable cloudiness and fog or haze over Pennsylvania. Elsewhere the ceiling is unlimited and visibility four to eight miles. Over the mountains of Pennsylvania the ceiling is only 200 to 800 feet and the visibility one-half to three miles. The wind is very light and variable.

Flying conditions will improve this afternoon and good flying weather will continue tonight and Thursday.

BORAH TO FIGHT HOOVER AIMS

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP.)—The voice of Senator Borah, of Idaho, which played a leading part in the Hoover presidential race, is being pitched for new campaign efforts.

But unlike 1928, Senator Borah is preparing to campaign in the agricultural belt of the Northwest next fall in opposition to the Hoover farm relief and tariff revision programs.

The Idaho senator said today he had been requested to make some speeches in the northwest states and was seriously considering acceptance.

However, he must first take the rest commanded by physicians, probably two months in Idaho.

Borah was one of the independent leaders who fought for the export debenture principle of farm relief, opposed by Hoover. This band also sought unsuccessfully to confine tariff revision to agricultural products. The Idahoan is prepared to defend these contentions of the Republican independents.

Freight Line Meets Strong Opposition

R. C. Dickson, of Beaver Falls, who has asked the Public Service Commission for permission to establish a freight service between that city and Pittsburgh, met with stiff opposition at yesterday's hearing on the application.

Dickson encountered opposition by the Pennsylvania Railroad, the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad and transfer company holders.

Waldschmidt said that he is continuing his studies of intrastate rates and would appear before the Interstate Commerce Commission when that body renews its hearings in Washington.

Coolidge Sees Benefit To U. S. in Naval Pact

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., July 23.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

On the whole we have done well to ratify the naval treaty. It is a most encouraging symptom of international sanity. No doubt our admirals can find some objections to it. But so do the admirals of Britain and Japan. It takes at least two to make a trade. Reason therefore requires mutual concessions. We may well find satisfaction in the increased friendly feeling that will come from the concessions we have made.

CALVIN COOLIDGE

It is regrettable that we could not secure real reduction. We have consented to a great world naval building program. Substantial parity with the British has been achieved and the needs of the brave nation of Japan, standing in a corner of the world all alone, have been conceded. Parity is more or less a fiction. After measuring the tonnage, speed and guns, the officers and crews remain —they make the strength of the fleet.

But the great thing is the agreement to stop competition in the building of all classes of ships. To any fairly reasonable treaty doing that, we can well afford to give our approval. Hereafter no nation can discover in the building of the United States, Britain and Japan any menace to their peace and safety. That is real progress.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

GUARDSMEN AID TRAIN WRECK VICTIMS

Pittsburgh Medical Unit Sent to Scene; Rain Halts Activities at Tobyhanna

TOBYHANNA, Pa., July 23.—A heavy rain in the Poconos yesterday afternoon cancelled all regimental activities of the One Hundred and Seventy-sixth Field Artillery, Pittsburgh's old National Guard regiment.

Among the events suspended was the "full dress parade and guard mount" and the inter-regimental baseball game with the One Hundred and Tenth Field Artillery. However there was a boxing show in the evening.

The Pittsburghers taking part in the duty gave a good account of themselves. Corp. Engelmeier of Headquarters Battery, One Hundred Seventy-Sixth Field Artillery, getting the decision over Pvt. Davis of the One Hundred Tenth Field Artillery. Pvt. Jack and Pvt. White of Headquarters Battery, One Hundred Seventy-sixth Field Artillery, fighting to a draw, while Pvt. Jimmie Taylor of the Medical Department One Hundred Seventy-sixth Field Artillery, knocked out Pvt. Blaha of the One Hundred Tenth.

Col. W. R. Dunlap ordered all the medical officers of the local regiment together with a detachment of enlisted men and an ambulance down to a point below Coolesborough to render assistance in connection with the wreck of the Lackawanna Limited. There were no passengers injured, but the engineer and fireman on the first engine of a double-header were instantly killed when the boiler exploded. The fireman on the second engine was assisted from his cab and taken to a hospital in Scranton.

The first battalion, in command of Maj. N. J. Sepp, has taken a position on the Lone Firing Point, the second, under Maj. James W. Marriman, on Artillery Ridge and the third, under Maj. Walter H. Frick, on "F" Battery Hill. The big guns of Pittsburgh's heavy artillery regiment are booming in the Poconos, the first firing for the 1930 tour of field training.

Fire Razes Barn, Landmark Built In 1812

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., July 23.—Fire which started from the backfire of a tractor engine destroyed a large stone barn on the Albert Pierson farm north of here. The building was filled with hay and grain from the heaviest crop in many years. Erected in 1812, the barn was one of the landmarks in the region.

STORM COOLS GUARD CAMP

MOUNT GRETNA, Pa., July 23 (AP).—A storm which broke over the National Guard encampment late yesterday failed to interrupt the training program of the guardsmen. The storm put an end to the 80 degree temperatures the troops have been experiencing since their arrival.

The newly constructed bayonet range was opened and the One Hundred and Eleventh Infantry was assigned to practice there while the One Hundred and Third Engineers were set to work building pontoon bridges across Lake Duffy. On the Colebrook reservation the One Hundred and Fourth Cavalry started on mounted drill.

Major General William G. Price Jr., commanding the guard, announced that the night bivouac would be held July 31. The troops may be compelled to remain in the field two nights to complete the program being set for them.

Athletic Policeman Runs Down Suspect

PHILADELPHIA, July 23.—(INS)—Patrolmen Hugh Hinds, former champion runner of the police department and a noted athlete, captured Stephen Farrell, Negro burglar suspect, at Front and Walnut street early today after he literally ran the suspect off his feet. The Negro collapsed, exhausted, at the end of a six-block run.

Mormons to Observe Centennial Tomorrow

PALMYRA, N. Y., July 23.—(AP)—This village will be the scene tomorrow of the centennial of the first Mormon church.

Joseph Smith told his followers it was here he climbed the Hill of Cumorah and unearthed two golden tablets on which he said were inscribed the history of a lost American civilization and the text of "the true religion."

RADIO SPEAKER SLAIN OVER RECALL

at the municipal airport, police Commissioner Thomas Wilcox announced that authorities have arrested the lookout man for the three gunmen who fired the 11 bullets into Buckley's body and then fled.

The suspect was arrested when he was found in an elevator of the hotel shortly after the shooting. He was registered as Angelo Liverchi and is held for investigation. The police said he was under indictment in Rochester, N. Y., on a robbery charge and held on $10,000 bail. Detectives said he has been known as a member of a Detroit gang for several months.

Gov. Green ordered every state trooper in the vicinity of Detroit to participate in the manhunt for the slayers. He said:

"If necessary I will call out the state militia to solve the slaying.

"Buckley was one of the finest young men I ever knew, and I knew him well."

Every available policeman in the city was summoned and radio cruising patrol cars guarded every outlet from Detroit.

Coming less than a week after the carnival of underworld murders, in which 11 gangsters were slain in a 12-day period, the shooting of the announcer caused a sensation here.

THREATS CITED

Paul Buckley, former assistant prosecutor of Wayne County, and brother of the slain man, said Gerald had been threatened because of his activities in favor of the recall.

"There is no doubt but Jerry's activities in the recall movement and the turn in the recall election was the sole reason for the shooting," he said.

Paul Buckley said Gerald had told him he had been threatened by letter and by telephone.

Buckley was sitting in the lobby when three men entered, approached him from behind and fired eleven bullets into his body at close range. Six bullets entered the back of his head, all within an area of four inches. He was shot in the neck, arm, leg and foot.

Jack Klein, motion picture operator, was sitting in a chair beside Buckley. He said he ran when the shooting started. He could not describe the assassins. After killing Buckley, the three gunmen ran out of the hotel, entered a car and drove away.

ROUSED UNDERWORLD

W. Wright Gedge, secretary of the Michigan Broadcasting Company which operates Station WMBC said Buckley told him he had been threatened because of his activities for the recall.

Buckley had been announcing over Station WMBC for the past two years. He had aroused the underworld by his bitter attacks on gambling. His attacks on gambling were of considerable influence in bringing about the recall movement.

He was said to have been a witness of the slaying of George Collins and William Cannon, Chicago gangsters, who were shot at the side entrance of the LaSalle Hotel July 3. Buckley was said to have seen the shooting from a window of the hotel. Station WMBC is located in the hotel, and Buckley lived there.

Buckley was 37 years old. He was married and had one child, four years old. He was a graduate of St. Mary's College, St. Mary's, Kan., and Detroit College of Law. He practiced law here and was counsel for the Ford Motor Company four years.

WOMAN IN CASE

Police, who immediately started an investigation of the case, said that the trail had led them to a mysterious woman, who was known only as Mrs. O'Hara, and authorities said that she had been his companion until a short time before his murder.

The murder was termed a blow to the poor of the city. Wealthy in his own right, Buckley is known to have given away thousands of dollars yearly.

He obtained positions for jobless men and on many occasions furnished food and clothing to the poor. He was an idealist, his friends say, who sincerely crusaded for the downtrodden.

Probably Buckley's greatest work of philanthropy was his Christmas campaign last year for the poor of the city. He turned over the facilities of his broadcasting station to solicit baskets of food, clothes and money. Newspapers and public officials praised him for his labors in this direction. A high police official referred to him as a modern "Robin Hood."

Bowles Recalled by Vote Of 120,863 to 89,907

DETROIT, July 23.—(AP.)—Mayor Charles Bowles today was placed in the role of first mayor of a major American city to be called from office.

By a majority of 30,956 out of 210,770 votes cast he was called from the office he has held for six months in yesterday's special election after a bitter two weeks campaign. The vote was, for the recall, 120,863; against the recall, 89,907.

As a result, Detroit is on the threshold of another municipal election, its third in little more than nine months. Mayor Bowles, who continues in office until his successor is elected and qualifies, automatically becomes a candidate for re-election. No other candidates have yet announced.

Gillespie, Factor In Recall, Known Here

John Gillespie, whose appointment as commissioner of public works in Detroit was one of the things leading to the recall of Mayor Charles Bowles, is well known in Pittsburgh.

About a year ago Gillespie bought the American Reduction Company, which handles Pittsburgh's garbage, from the estate of the late George H. Flinn, with whom Gillespie was formerly associated.

It was while the purchase negotiations were under way that City Controller Henry Oliver Evans announced that an audit of the transactions between the city and the American Reduction Company had disclosed that the city had been overcharged nearly $1,000,000 between the years 1921 and 1928.

Gillespie became chairman of the board of directors of the American Reduction Company, but it was stated at the company's offices here today that he resigned when he accepted the place in Mayor Bowles' cabinet, and that the place had not been filled.

Railroad Line's Fares This Year Only $1.09

The Winfield Railroad Company, operating a 12-mile line between Butler Junction and West Winfield, Butler county, today asked the Public Service Commission for permission to discontinue passenger service.

Total receipts from passenger traffic this year up to May 20 are $1.09, F. C. McKee, president, testified before Examiner W. E. Best. Last year the passengers paid $3.98.

This was compared with profits of $2,191 from passenger operation in 1926. Two bus lines now competing are responsible for present loss in operating, McKee said. No protest to discontinuance was filed.

Dandruff is inexcusable!

A swift, pleasant way to get rid of it

Annoying, unsightly, unhealthy — dandruff! How it repels others. How quickly it betrays you as a careless person.

Why put up with loose dandruff when full strength Listerine will rid you of it? Thousands of women are enthusiastic about Listerine used this way.

Simply douse Listerine on the scalp full strength and massage vigorously. Within a day or two, you ought to see marked improvement. Of course, if you have a stubborn case, it will be necessary to keep the treatment up several days. If your hair and scalp are excessively dry, use a little olive oil in conjunction with the shampoo.

Listerine first removes and dissolves loose dandruff. Then it cools and heals the scalp. And since it kills to 200,000,000 germs in 15 seconds, Listerine automatically checks any infection that may be present. This is important in connection with dandruff since many dermatologists declare dandruff to be of germ origin.

Get a bottle of Listerine today and use it. See how much better your hair looks, how much better your scalp feels tomorrow. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Missouri, U. S. A.

QUIZ TOLD REDS OWN AMTORG

NEW YORK, July 23.—(Universal)—The Soviet Government of Russia which advocates the overthrow of all "capitalist" governments owns the Amtorg Trading Corporation "lock, stock and barrel."

This admission was drawn by the congressional committee investigating Communism from the principal officers of the corporation, which has its headquarters on Fifth avenue.

Peter A. Bogdanov, president of Amtorg, acknowledged that the corporation, although organized as an American concern, is directly operated by the Soviet government.

Johann Ohsol, formerly a Russian but now a naturalized American citizen, is the only American on the board of directors.

He confirmed what Bogdanov had admitted. Ohsol explained that the 16,600 shares of stock in Amtorg are held by Bogdanov. The latter has the stock however merely as trustee for the Bank of Foreign Trade of the Soviet Union. This bank in turn is directly owned and controlled by the Soviet State Bank.

The corporation has a credit of $80,000,000 in the United States, Ohsol testified.

Woos With Threat To Girl's Life; Faces Court

CARLISLE, Pa., July 23.—(AP)—Cyril Shupp, 23, Hagerstown, was so ardent in his wooing that State Police took a hand in the courtship.

Shupp was given a hearing on charges of sending a threatening letter to Miss Grace Strong, Mechanicsburg. According to the testimony, Shupp had been paying court to Miss Strong four years, but she recently informed him she no longer cared for him. Shupp then, it was brought out, sent the letter threatening her life unless she agreed to a reconciliation.

Miss Strong was willing to relent and withdraw the charges, but State Police insisted the offense was too serious to quash.

CALL FOR POLL ON DRY LAW

DES MOINES, Ia., July 23.—(Universal)—Democrats in this rock-ribbed prohibition state broke loose from their former policies at their state convention and are calling for a national referendum on the dry issue.

Characterizing enforcement as a nation-wide scandal, they framed a plank in their platform declaring the public should have an opportunity to signify whether the Eighteenth Amendment should be repealed, modified or continued in effect.

'DEATH' DENIED BY AGED TURK

NEW YORK, July 23.—(INS)—Zaro Agha, Turkey's grand old man of romance, took occasion today to deny he ever had been killed in an automobile accident—or in any other manner.

He has lived a continuous life, Zaro declared, since 1774, revolutions, foreign wars and civil wars in Turkey since that time notwithstanding, also revolutions in means of transportation and other phases of life.

He has lived so long, he said, that he had come to regard with serenity many erroneous stories which have been told and printed about him.

He remarked philosophically:

"Mistakes will happen, even about one's death."

Zaro's philosophy was called forth when a newspaper clipping about a year old was brought to his attention. It chronicled the aged Turk's death in an automobile accident in Constantinople last September.

GIRL KIDNAPED, 7 MEN SOUGHT

CAMDEN, N. J., July 23.—(AP)—State police today were seeking the seven men who, according to Ruth Kuhnell, 14, of West Collingswood, kept her a prisoner in a cabin from Sunday night until she escaped yesterday.

The girl returned after being sought since Sunday night when she failed to return from an automobile ride with Elizabeth Zeisweiss, 16, and two youths.

She told police she had been kidnaped by three men in a car, blindfolded, taken to the cabin and attacked. She escaped by jumping from a window. Friends of the Kuhnell family said the girl's clothing was torn and she appeared drugged when she returned home.

Two Planes Ready For Tokio Flight

TACOMA, Wash., July 23.—(AP)—The zero hour drew near today for the starting of two projected airplane flights from Tacoma to Tokio. Lieut. Harold Bromley, thrice thwarted in attempts to make the trans-Pacific flight, said he would be ready to start his new plane, City of Tacoma, after tomorrow on receipt of favorable weather reports. Robert B. Wark, Bromley's rival, announced he would be ready to take off Friday morning.

Weather Bad, Wales Cancels Plane Flight

LONDON, July 23.—(AP)—For the first time on record the Prince of Wales today was forced to cancel an official engagement because of weather conditions.

Weather reports from Wales this morning indicated flying conditions were impossible and the prince canceled an airplane flight from London to Carnarvon to open the Royal Welsh agricultural show.

Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS.

It is smart to have capelets in place of sleeves, and particularly smart when the lines of the capelets continue into the skirt to form a panel as in the frock sketched today. The skirt is gracefully flared back and front. There are sleeves with the pattern, if you prefer them.

Pattern 1992 may be fashioned of silk crepe, voile, chiffon, georgette or dimity. A vividly designed print on a pastel ground would be stunning, or one might select black and white, red and white or navy and chartreuse.

May be obtained only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 16 requires 5⅛ yards of 39-inch material.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins carefully wrapped, or stamps, for each pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE wanted.

Our BOOK of PATTERNS for adults and children, including transfer patterns, is FIFTEEN CENTS. Book with pattern, 25c. Address all mail and orders to Sun-Telegraph Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

1.—Enclose 15 cents in coins.
2.—Write clearly NUMBERS of patterns and SIZE wanted.
3.—Write or print your NAME and ADDRESS plainly.
4.—If you want SUN-TELEGRAPH Style Book send 10c extra.

TRUE STORIES of CONSTRUCTIVE BANKING—No. 3

newsboy predicted
BETTER BUSINESS

HE sold papers at the Farmers Bank corner and two or three times a week he would come in with a savings deposit.

"How is business?" we would ask him.

"Fine," he used to reply, "and it's going to be better. Some day I'm going to have a store."

It took a good many years of small deposits but today he has a bright little store on Smithfield Street. Successful today, he is laying the foundation for greater success by continuing the practice of building capital from income by means of a Farmers Savings Account.

Destroy Those Germs That Spell "Athlete's Foot"
You may not recognize it when you see it. But when you notice little skin cracks appearing between your toes, or tiny blisters that itch and burn, or a suspicious whiteness, thickness, dampness of the skin, or dry scales that rub off when you touch them, there is a time for action. The first thing to do is to buy a bottle of Sea Breeze—the new Antiseptic with the Tingling Touch. Wash feet in warm water. Dry them. Then apply Sea Breeze liberally. Massage it into the flesh. It soothes, it relieves. It kills those germs. And you'll never know how good your feet can feel until you try Sea Breeze! Just the thing for tired and aching feet, too. Ask for Sea Breeze!

HORNE'S
August Sales Invite Advance Selection

FURNITURE

The days of inspection and advance selection for Horne's August Furniture Sale are here.

This announcement carries unusual significance, this year, because of two extraordinary developments: first, definitely lower prices on furniture generally, in common with many other commodities—made still lower by the August discounts; and secondly,

The Opening, Tomorrow, of a New Department of STYLTHRIFT Furniture

By the removal of the Ready-to-Wear Alteration Rooms from the Sixth Floor, we have increased selling space on this floor by 8,000 square feet. This space will be given over entirely to Stylthrift Furniture.

The Stylthrift Section represents a new type of specialization in furniture, which is certain to meet with wide public acceptance. It has been definitely planned and stocked to the requirements of the modern small home.

This new section permits us greatly to expand our stocks and assortments of moderately priced furniture and confine these selections to one point, to which homemakers of limited budgets may go with assurance of finding furniture for all their requirements in ample variety and in Horne quality and good taste.

The department will be operated directly under the management of our regular furniture staff and will reflect the discrimination of our large experience in fine furniture and interior decoration.

One of the features of this section is that suites of furniture may be made up in any number of pieces required, without regard for the complete suite. In furnishing small apartments, patrons may choose only the pieces needed. Customers may assemble their own ensembles from this section.

Rugs and other furnishings may be had at proportionately low prices.

The privilege of deferred payments will apply to this section, as well as to the rest of the furniture stocks.

Greater Part of Our Stock at Sale Prices

Large new stocks of furniture from the best manufacturers are now ready on our remodeled floor, most of it marked at special August discounts. The new trends of furniture fashions are on display. Reservations may be made, beginning tomorrow, for delivery August first.

FURS

There is a decided element of surprise in The August Fur Sale . . . and who doesn't like to be surprised? Certainly, every woman who has seen fur sales, generally, running along on a more or less even tenor year after year. This August it is to be a new story here, a succession of thrilling surprises.

Foremost, there are the astoundingly low prices which certain conditions have made possible right now, on fine furs, actually the lowest since 1914! . . . This basically low market, coupled with our vast buying power and our advantageous connections and standing, makes it possible for us to show some striking comparisons between past and present prices. For example:

Natural Gray Squirrel	Last Year	$235	This Year	$185
Hudson Seal* Coats	Last Year	$235	This Year	$185
Muskrat with beaver	Last Year	$235	This Year	$185
Jap Weasel Coats	Last Year	$435	This Year	$335
Jap Mink Coats	Last Year	$585	This Year	$435

. . . to say nothing of the differences in price on other furs which are also featured in this sale.

Regardless of the additional number of skins required for the new, longer, full-flared coats, and the extra workmanship in their making, a beautiful fur coat costs less now than for sixteen years!

The changes in fur fashions for the season of 1930-31, to a delightful feminine trend, are a welcome revelation of the sale.
*(Dyed muskrat.)

Tomorrow, all the new coats in the August Sale will be on display, properly ticketed, and ready for selection. Advance choice may be made at that time, although payment arrangements will not go into effect until August 1st. A 25% deposit will hold any selection until desired.

SHELLS PERIL FIREMEN

Firemen fighting a two-alarm fire in the third floor of the home of George H. Theiss a coal operator, at 6105 Fifth avenue were endangered by the explosion of shells and cartridges when the fire spread to the hunting room where Theiss kept hunting guns and ammunition. Loss was placed at $12,000 by Battalion Chief Fred S. Beckett.

Theiss told firemen that he was awakened shortly before 2 a. m. by the screams of Miss Margaret Dauberger, a maid who slept on the third floor. He fought his way through the smoke-filled hallway to the upper floor and led her to safety, while Mrs. Theiss telephoned to the fire bureau. Meanwhile Patrolman A. McCormick sounded an alarm from a box at Fifth and Dithridge avenues.

Sidewalk Chant Marathon Halted

CHICAGO, July 23.—(AP.)—The endurance contest of Mrs. Emily Young, 40, heavy set Negro, has ended.

Mrs. Young took up a position on the sidewalk at East Thirty-fourth street and South Parkway Saturday with the announced intention of remaining there 90 days reading and singing.

She fortified herself with a dozen cans of corned beef and a can opener. She also had a large clothes basket with a fur coat for cover, and there was a frying pan and a small alcohol stove.

Last night the police stopped the contest. The charge was blocking traffic.

AIR LINE AUG. 1 TO NIAGARA

Daily air passenger service Sundays and holidays excepted, will be inaugurated between Niagara Falls, Buffalo and Pittsburgh beginning August 1, the Sky View Airlines of Buffalo announced today. The local terminal will be at Bettis Airport.

One trip will be made each way daily. A Ford tri-motored monoplane accommodating 12 passengers, a pilot and a mechanic, will be used at the start of the service. Others will be added later, company officials said, if business warrants.

The plane will leave Niagara Falls at 9:00 a. m. daylight saving time, Buffalo 10 a. m. and will arrive at Bettis Airport at 12:15 p. m. The return flight will be made from the local terminus at 4 p. m. arriving at Buffalo at 6:15 and Niagara Falls half an hour later.

A preliminary flight here from the New York terminals is scheduled for Monday. Chamber of Commerce representatives from the three cities and newspapermen will be the passengers. The party will be met at Bettis Airport by local aviation enthusiasts and Chamber of Commerce officials. Later they will be taken for a tour of the city before the return flight.

THE NEW FORD TUDOR SEDAN

YOU are buying proved performance when you buy a Ford. You know it has been built for many thousands of miles of satisfactory, economical service.

Letters from users in every part of the world show the value of its sound design, good materials and accuracy in manufacturing. You sense a feeling of sincere pride in the oft-repeated phrase—"Let me tell you what my new Ford did."

Further tribute to the sturdiness, reliability and general all-round performance of the new Ford is shown in the repeated and growing purchases by government bureaus, by police departments, and by large industrial companies which keep careful day-by-day cost records. In most cases, the new Ford has been chosen only after exhaustive tests covering speed and power, safety, comfort, ease of control, oil and gas consumption, low yearly depreciation, and low cost of up-keep.

They have found, as you will find, that the Ford embodies every feature you want or need in a motor car at an unusually low price.

It's up to YOU to make the decision!

At some time in your travels you've come to a fork in the road where signposts indicated that either route would bring you to the same destination.

Road-maps showed that both routes were well-paved—but that one was much shorter than the other. Yet on the shorter one there was a toll-bridge or ferry.

Which road should you take? The shorter route with a saving in time and in mileage—or the longer route with its freedom from bridge or ferry tolls?

When you figured it out, the toll would probably be more than repaid by the amount saved in gas, oil and wear and tear on your car.

You made a decision then—and you'll have to make a similar decision now!

Both Amoco-Gas and Orange American Gas will carry you to the same place—and back. Amoco-Gas will give you better performance than you've ever received before—from special motor fuel or regular gasoline. Orange American Gas will give you better performance than you've ever received at regular gas price.

For Amoco-Gas, the original special motor fuel, you'll pay a slightly higher price.

But you'll get that back—just as you get a "rebate" on the bridge-toll. You'll get it back because Amoco-Gas will give you more miles per gallon and reduce the wear and tear on your motor!

It's up to you to make the decision. Will you ride on the best available, best-performing regular gasoline—the NEW Orange American? It's a real bargain in comparison with everything at regular gas price.

Or will you pay a slight premium for Amoco-Gas in the beginning and make a big saving in the end?

Make your own decision—in either case you get the best the market affords at its respective price.

Miss Eulah Cornor and William Puhlmann in the beautiful duet "Home to Our Mountains," from the last act of the opera, "Il Trovatore," will be a feature of the Nunn-Bush program. Both Miss Cornor and Mr. Puhlmann have sung their roles with two leading opera companies, which insures the radio audience an unusual musical treat.
Selections from the tuneful operetta "Wildflower" will also be given by the men's trio, assisted by Miss Ruth Lyon, lyric soprano. Wildflower, which was an international sensation a few years ago includes the popular hits "Wildflower" and "Bambalina." In the latter Miss Lyon sings a very difficult obligato written only for instruments. In fact it can be said that Miss Lyon's voice is as steady and true as an instrument, which enables her to do this role which is beyond the capability of most lyric singers.

Lots of people never have been interviewed by a newspaper man.

Vincent Richards

And lots of people never have even heard other people being interviewed by a newspaper man. Tonight, listeners-in at 10:30 o'clock will hear Vincent Richards, America's leading professional tennis player, interviewed by Grantland Rice, authority on sports and a distinguished writer. This will occur during the Coco Cola program broadcast through Station WCAE. Rice will endeavor to obtain from Richards some advance information on the possibilities of the United States regaining the Davis Cup from the French stars. It should be an interesting game of serving questions and driving back well-placed answers.

Tennis reminds a fellow of golf which reminds us that Walter Myers, that genial announcer at the KDKA studio, has just returned from two weeks of intensive golf at Welland, Ontario. Walter brought back his tally cards to PROVE that he spent practically all his time traipsing on the links.

Radio stars and city officials are dining aboard the steamer "Greater Pittsburgh" tonight and the ceremonies will be broadcast by KQV at 8:30 o'clock. It is a formidable list of oratorical talent and some very nice remarks are expected to result. But there will be melodious voices to add the bouquet to the evening.

Nervy chap, that "Stub, the Happy Vagabond." He promised, while broadcasting over KDKA t'other night, to buy cigars if he was identified. Shucks, in no time at all he was hopped on while getting a light in a Dormont drug-store and so many sharp-shooters yelled "Stub" he had to buy a whole box of smokes!

A number which should enthuse all music lovers is the presentation tonight of Glinka's "Krakoviak" by the Philco Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Howard Barlow. This will be broadcast over Station WJAS and the Columbia network from 10 to 11 o'clock. Written for a tremendous orchestra, which probably accounts for its not having been heard over the radio, this colorful and forceful Russian composition offers intense moments. A special part calls for a full brass band, written right into the symphony score, which gives the effect of a marching band gradually breaking into the symphonic theme.

LIFE IN CAPITAL OF FILMDOM AS SEEN BY OBSERVING SCRIBE

For Third Time Screen Newlyweds Co-Star In Talk Film

By HARRISON CARROLL.

(Copyright 1930, Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, July 23.

Screen romances furnished by newlyweds seem to hold as much intrigue for the public as though the couple were single. Time was when the studios felt that the fans lost interest in their stars if they married, but that is on the wane if one can believe the daily mail at Warners requesting that Loretta Young and Grant Withers be co-featured.

There have been so many of these from individuals and exhibitors that Jack Warner has decided to co-star the young couple again in "Both Were Young" by Hugh MacMair Kahler.

Loretta Young

This story is a modern love theme and is said to deal with the difficulties of a young couple overcoming parental objections. Sounds almost synonymous to their recent marriage, doesn't it?

This will mark their third picture together following their own elopement. At that time they were filming "The Second Floor Murder Mystery," and the day after they returned made the love scenes while annulment proceedings were being threatened. Following this they worked together at First National in Martin Flavin's stage hit "Broken Dishes."

AVERTING A SWASH

In the silent days there were several actors who were definitely stamped as "scene stealers." Their pet stunt was to step back on a fellow actor during a take. This forced the other player to turn his head in order to talk to the receding man with the result that his profile was photographed.

Lloyd Ingraham, one of the oldtime directors, relates an experience with two such actors.

War Romance

June Collyer goes to war, drives an ambulance and meets the hero in "A Man From Wyoming," opening Friday in the Aldine.

They were working in front of a plate glass store window, and the men kept backing up on one another. Ingraham remained silent until they had neared the window and then yelled:

"The guy that backs through that glass has to pay for it."

The talkies have eliminated this form of scene stealing as there are usually four or five cameras recording each scene from close-up angles to long shots, and one step means that the actor is out of one of the camera's lenses. However, the players have not all turned honest yet. Unnecessary playing with beads, producing handkerchiefs in the middle of a take, or the exaggerated chewing of a cigar are a few of the gags attempted to attract attention from the important players.

NO PRIVACY

An attempted rush to finish the final sequence of "The Sea Wolf," starring Milton Sills, cost Al Santell, the director, valuable time the other day. He was shooting aboard a schooner purposely disabled for the scenes. Unfortunately the vessel was tossing about in the steamer lanes and within an hour a coast guard destroyer filled the sky with black smoke as it dashed up to render aid. Three hours later three other ships had offered assistance and filled the air with smoke making photographing impossible.

Milton Sills

Finally Al stopped shooting and had the boat taken 50 miles to sea where he finished the picture unmolested.

MORENO SIGNS

Antonio Moreno is the latest screen player to sign a long term contract. The former star has been engaged by First National to appear in their Spanish versions.

Recently he played the leading part in "El Hombre Malo" ("The Bad Man") for this company, which led to the contract. He had hoped to direct, but his value as an actor eliminated that angle as far as First National was concerned.

His first picture will be a Spanish version of "Those Who Dance," which featured Monte Blue and Lila Lee, and will be directed by William McGann.

Incidentally McGann used to be an assistant, and with the coming of foreign pictures was elevated.

Beauty Contest

Miss Margaret Slater, "Miss Erie," is one of 16 girls, who will compete for the title of "Miss Pennsylvania" today and tomorrow at all shows in the Enright Theater. The winner will go to Galveston, Texas, seeking the title of "Miss Universe."

Report to Be Made At Lion Luncheon

Reports from the international convention will be made by President Burt Mustin at the weekly luncheon tomorrow of the Lions Club, of Pittsburgh, in the Fort Pitt Hotel.

Plans have been completed for a four-club golf tournament Monday at the Alcoma Country Club at which delegates to the convention will be honored. The clubs participating will be Pittsburgh, East Liberty, Wilkinsburg and Mt. Lebanon. A dinner and entertainment will be held in the evening. Due to the tournament, the Pittsburgh club's plan to entertain Aspinwall Hospital veterans with an auto ride has been postponed until August 18.

Bellevue Outing To Be Held Friday

The annual Sunday school picnic of the Bellevue Christian Church will be held Friday at Dravo Park, Neville Island. Automobiles will leave the church at 10:30 a. m. and will return at 8 p. m. Henry Netting, Jr., is general chairman of arrangements.

3 UTAH MINERS DIE IN BLAST

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, July 23.—(AP.)—Three men were killed in an explosion in the Blue Blaze Coal Company's mine at Price, Utah. The victims, all married, were Nick Moros, 41; Nick Devizian, 34, and Ed Wycherly, 29. J. B. Gibson, 22, received an arm injury.

The four men were by themselves in the shaft at the time of the blast, which was caused by a drill touching a charge of powder.

ACTRESS DENIES VAN LOAN TROTH

LOS ANGELES, July 23.—(AP.)—H. H. Van Loan, who as a magazine writer specializes in climaxes, now figures in the crux of two situations devoid of all fiction.

On a fugitive warrant, sworn to in New York by his wife Gertrude, Van Loan was arrested for alleged abandonment of his 13-year-old daughter Gertrude, and later heard a denial of his recent announcement of his engagement to the actress Marjorie Rambeau.

The warrent he termed "spite work," but Miss Rambeau's statement, he said, was quite a surprise.

After four hours in jail, during which his attorney scurried about in search of bail, he was released on $1,500 bond and ordered to appear July 29 for a hearing.

Van Loan filed suit here for divorce May 20, alleging mental cruelty. The case is set for hearing August 19.

'Snow' in Reading Merely Cloud Of Thistles

READING, Pa., July 23.—(AP.)—Reading is confronted by a new menace—an invasion of Canada thistles from the skies. Residents were mystified when what resembled a snowstorm descended upon parts of the city, while the temperature hovered around 100.

The flakes were Canada thistle seeds, dead ripe, lifted from their stalks and carried far and wide on the breeze. Despite a state law which requires that the thistle be cut before going to seed, these noxious weeds flourish in Berks County. They have spread from abandoned farms to cultivated farms, into towns, suburbs and even into the city

Stimson to Review Fort Myer Troops

FORT MYER, Va., July 23.—(AP.)—For the first time in many years, army officers and training units were to participate in a review before a mounted cabinet member when the entire Fort Myer post takes the field today for a review by Secretary Stimson.

The entire force of the station, including reserve officers of the R. O. T. C. and training units of the civilians attending C. M. T. C. courses, will march before the secretary and officers of the Army general staff.

Six More Arrests In War on 'Quacks'

PHILADELPHIA, July 23.—(AP.)—Warrants for the arrest of six more men charged with practicing medicine without a license bring the number facing this charge to 34 since the crusade against quacks began last week.

Bryan A. Hermes, assistant district attorney, said many of those arrested have studied at institutions which teach the branches they practice, but in each case failed to take examinations for state board licenses.

Restless Children

Children will fret, often for no apparent reason. But there's always one sure way to comfort a restless, fretful child. Castoria! Harmless as the recipe on the wrapper; mild and bland as it tastes. But its gentle action soothes a youngster more surely than some powerful medicine that is meant for the stronger systems of adults.

That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given the tiniest infant—as often as there is any need. In cases of colic, diarrhea, or similar disturbance, it is invaluable. But it has everyday uses all mothers should understand. A coated tongue calls for a few drops to ward off constipation; so does any suggestion of bad breath. Whenever children don't eat well, don't rest well, or have any little upset—this pure vegetable preparation is usually all that's needed to set everything to rights. Genuine Castoria has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. Doctors prescribe it.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Society Finds Diversion On Real Show Boat on Allegheny River

Novelty is always a delight to the American soul, and never is variety so appealing as in the good old summer time.

And society folks who are remaining in town for the summer or who are home for a few days between jauntings to the various summer resorts are finding novelty in "Tilty Ann," being given nightly on the Golden Rod, a real Edna Ferber show boat moored at the Montrose Hotel landing on the Allegheny River beyond Aspinwall.

Last night the F. Le Moyne Pages entertained a box party at the melodrama, "Tilty Ann."

Among their guests were the Charles I. Flaccusses, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Jones III, the John Dewars, the Reginald Churches, Katherine Beatty and John Beatty. The party looked very smart with the women wearing cool, informal summer gowns in pastel tones.

Now that the few social leaders still remaining in town are freed from the duties of the winter and of June, they are finding time to entertain occasionally for the very, very young set just having its first struggles with books.

Birthday Party

Down on Sewickley Heights several children's parties have added delight to the vacation of little boys and girls.

One such entertainment was given yesterday afternoon in their home by Dr. and Mrs. C. B. Forcey, of Beaver road, Sewickley, in honor of their little daughter, Barbara, who was celebrating her birthday.

Mrs. Forcey wore a pink crepe frock. Miss Jean Smith, of Clearfield, a niece of Dr. and Mrs. Forcey, who is their house guest, wore Alice blue crepe, and the guest of honor wore a frock of white dotted swiss with a sash of blue ribbon and had an old-fashioned nosegay.

Mrs. Theodore W. Nevin and her daughter, Susan, have sailed for Europe.

Travel Chatter

Other folks leaving for Europe include J. Wilson Porter, Jr., and his sisters, Miss Marycree Porter and Miss Martha Porter, of Sewickley, and the William D. Georges and their daughters, Rebecca and Eleanore.

Grace and Alice Crutchfield, daughters of the James Stapleton Crutchfields, have as their house guests the John Marvin Kingers and their four children. The Crutchfields, I might add, are abroad this summer.

And the Frank Scott Willocks have gone to their summer place in Dark Harbor, Me.

A wedding of interest to Pittsburgh people is taking place tomorrow at noon. And the bride-to-be is Jane Roberta Smith, daughter of the junior Anthony W. Smiths, of Elwood street, and she is to marry M. Graham Netting. And the ceremony is to take place in the Smith home. Only the members of the families are to be present. The Nettings are going on a wedding trip to the mountains of Eastern Pennsylvania and they will be at home after August 15 in South Highland avenue.

Home Wedding

Jane is a post-graduate student at the University of Pittsburgh and her fiance is assistant curator of herpetology at Carnegie Museum.

Morning Wedding

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Andrew E. Hurley, wore white satin with a white lace hat, and carried Easter lilies and baby breath. The bridegroom's sister, Miss Marcella Maucher, of Carrolltown, was the maid of honor, and wore pink lace and chiffon with a matching hat. She carried roses and sweetpeas. Dr. Maucher's sister, Mrs. E. A. Coller, of Freeport, played the wedding music.

After a breakfast in the bride's home, Dr. and Mrs. Maucher left for a motor tour of the New England States and Canada. They will reside in Mt. Washington when they return.

Dr. Maucher is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh and is the son of Dr. J. V. Maucher, of Carrolltown. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Catherine Hurley.

On July 16 Miss Evelyn Thelen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Thelen, of Latonia, Ky., became the bride of James Paul Gill, son of M. M. Gill, of South Hills, in the Holy Cross Church, Latonia.

The bride wore a princess gown of white satin with a veil of tulle having a cap of lace caught with orange blossoms. She carried St. Joseph lilies. Her sister, Miss Louise Thelen, was her only attendant, wearing pink lace over satin with a ruffled tulle skirt. She wore a hat of blue and carried pink tea roses and delphinium.

Frank MacDonald, of Columbus, was the best man, and the ushers included George Thelen and Vincent Thelen, of Latonia, Charles P. Donahue, of Syracuse, N. Y., and Thomas A. Donahue, of Wilkes-Barre.

There was a wedding breakfast in the Summit Hills Country Club after which Mr. and Mrs. Gill left for a western motor trip. They will make their home in Cincinnati, O.

Reject $12,250,000 For Duke's Mansion

LONDON, July 23.—(AP.)—Norfolk House, home of the Duke of Norfolk, in St. James square, and birthplace of George III, is for sale, but $12,250,000 is not enough to buy it.

Such a bid was made at auction. Then it was announced private offers were higher, and the auction was cancelled. The house is 200 years old.

Woman's Club Year Book Promises Programs of Variety for '30-31

The Woman's Club of the City of Pittsburgh, third oldest club in the United States, will celebrate its fifty-fifth anniversary this year with a luncheon and program of reminiscences and toasts on November 18. A season of miscellaneous programs is outlined in the year books which have just made their appearance in the familiar green and gold binding. The reception to the president, Mrs. Sigmund Stingel, on October 7, will start the ball rolling and will be followed in two weeks by an illustrated address on "Colombia, Panama and Ecuador" by Stephen Q. Hayes, of the Westinghouse Company.

Mrs. Sarah Archer, the oldest member of the club who refuses to grow old, and whose 80 and 85 year talks are still remembered, will speak November 4 on "Ninety Years Young." Some appropriate poems may be looked for on that occasion from Mrs. J. Charles Wilson. December brings a talk on "Some Highlights in Pittsburgh History" by Frank C. Harper, Pittsburgh columnist, and the Christmas party for children of the Manchester Kindergarten School.

The first attraction in the new year will be a talk on her journeyings to Norway and Sweden by Mrs. H. C. Reller, a past president of the club; then an address on "Citizenship" by Attorney Harry E. McWhinney. Miriam Schonfield's annual drama program and a colonial party with current events as the program are February events, while a current events round table and a St. Patrick's Day luncheon are listed for March. The annual forestry day and the annual election of officers, Mrs. M. M. Redenbaugh's talk on "Behind the Scenes in a Department Store," the annual business meeting and the June luncheon and another year will have been rounded out.

There is scarcely a cooler spot in town where club women congregate than the Woman's City Club in the William Penn Hotel. The quiet, comfort and service at the club attract many members for luncheon or for an hour or two of bridge these warm afternoons. Mrs. George S. Baton, new president of the club, is at present at Ross Mountain Club near New Florence, where she expects to remain for several weeks. Mrs. Clinton S. Bradley, first vice president, is summering in Europe this year.

League of Women Voters headquarters in the People's Bank Building will present a deserted appearance next month. Mrs. Elizabeth B. Motz is to spend August in the mountains near Mifflinburg; Mrs. Q. W. Hershey will be back and forth from her farm at York Springs, near Gettysburg, and Mrs. Kathleen Purcell will be in Somerset for the month. Mrs. Eugene Meyer is just back from a vacation at Painesville, O., and both Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, county chairman, and her sister, Mrs. J. O. Miller, are at their farm, "Emerson-Point-on-Miles," on the eastern shore of Maryland.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP.)—When the census bureau totals up the population of the nation for 1930, a figure somewhat less than 123,000,00 is expected to be the result.

On the basis of preliminary returns from 40 states and the District of Columbia, the Associated Press has calculated the population at 122,957,000 people.

The enumerators reported for those states a total of 100,807,723 as compared with 86,667,858 10 years ago, an increase of 14,139,845, or 16.31 per cent.

EMPIECEMENTS INDICATIVE OF ELEGANT SIMPLICITY

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, JULY 23.—The most costly dresses worn here just now certainly merit the motto of piece at any price. For it is only the finest models shown by the leading couturiers that are made almost entirely of empiecements. The frocks that allow themselves the luxury of being so made, must be handled by expert cutters and fitters, in order to create a perfect silhouette and preserve the subtly simple line that is so important to the frock that is destined to grace an important function. The frock that owes its silhouette to empiecements needs no other form of embellishment and so creates its own desirable atmosphere of expensive simplicity.

DELICATELY HUED EVENING frocks are very much to the fore here at the moment, but despite the pastel shades, are quite strikingly and individual. Each of the two sketches shown are noticeable examples of the type of dress favored by the important couturiers and their best clients. The first is of a frock from the Summer collection of Lucien Lelong. The bodice has an amusing little yoke with a bow at the back. Double flounces, a skirt yoke formed of diagonal empiecements and a tail-like godet starting at the back of the skirt yoke are other additional items of interest. The material is taffeta in a lovely shade of apple green.

THE OTHER SKETCH is of a model included in the latest collection chez Lucile Paray. It is of palest pink satin of a very heavy and lustrous quality. Empiecements are lapped and overlapped about the figure at the waistline and hips, and a shallow bolero is attached to the simple bodice. The heavily draped skirt falls in straight deep folds about the figure in a very slim and wholly becoming line and reaches almost to the floor, as do the majority of the evening frocks here.

THIS IS MARY'S SECOND DRESS TODAY...
I DON'T ENVY YOU ON WASHDAY!
OH, I DON'T MIND. I LET RINSO DO ALL THE WORK. IT SOAKS CLOTHES BRIGHTER THAN I CAN SCRUB THEM
I'VE HEARD SO MUCH ABOUT RINSO— I MUST TRY IT

For whiter washes, safely ... try these rich suds

THE SOAP you use makes a big difference on washday. If the suds are flat and lifeless, it means you'll have to scrub, scrub, scrub to get the dirt out. And even then your wash won't look white enough.

But Rinso means a gleaming, snowy wash every time! Its suds are thick, creamy, active.

Rinso soaks clothes clean—no scrubbing or boiling. The clothes last longer!

Cup for cup, Rinso goes twice as far as light-weight, puffed-up soaps. The makers of 38 washers recommend Rinso. Get the BIG package.

WALTER WINCHELL—On Broadway

The Shady Side of Broadway

The "canyon," as some prefer calling it, is a dream world, but take it from one who has pounded its pavements for a score of seasons, Broadway exists as a physical fact, as a symbol of a certain sort of national yearning for expression, as a standard of comparison in morals and as a way of thinking. As a physical fact, it is a crooked and somewhat narrow street, trailing from the lowest tip of Manhattan Island to the city limits of Yonkers and beyond, and so it is, with the disputed exception of Halstead street, Chicago, the longest metropolitan thoroughfare in the world.

As a symbol of a certain sort of national yearning for expression, it is a sublimated Coney Island or country fair or street carnival, with its mummer plays and catch-penny devices, its cacophony and gaudy lights, its peep-shows and wax-figure museums, its skating rinks, hooch dancers, torso-tossers, freaks and fol-de-rol —all brought to a degree of refinement and dignity, and yet still, in essence, only the merry-go-round with the steam calliope on which the adult infant spends his nickels away from his school books and other serious activities of life.

As a standard of moral comparison it is at once an enticement and a hell—a Circe's cavern of lascivious and soul-destroying delights, an unholy place where stars without talent are made meretriciously over night, where girls succumb to rich admirers for diamond bracelets, brooches, furs, imported automobiles, apartments and other luxuries—a Babylon, a Sodom and Gomorrah—all within the confines of a garish district extending from just below 42d Street to Columbus Circle at 59th.

As a way of thinking, it is the home of the pert remark, the smart-crack and the gag, the clever line, the flip quip, the supercilious and superficial attempt at a cynical and hard-boiled attitude toward life.

To hear its most affectionate peasants tell it—those wistful souls whose hierarchy of the gods in Erlanger, Ziegfeld, Dillingham, Woods and the Shuberts, and the rest—"Broadway is the greatest community in the world." And so also argue the concessionaires who work in or operate the hot dog stands, wheels of fortune, penny arcades and crazy houses at Coney Island. Coney Island also is "the greatest community in the world," and so is Hicksville, Ga., ever since they paved Main Street.

Like any other "community," Broadway, for most of its denizens, is a place to make a living and to get ahead in life by the methods best suited to the talents God gave them. To the lonely and aspiring hoofer, the funny-falling comedian, the ukulele player with the special technique and the singer with something peculiar about his voice or megaphone, trouping the one-night stands in the Southern swamps or Western prairies—Broadway is the Big Apple, the Main Stem, the goal of all ambition, the pot of gold at the end of a drab and somewhat colorless rainbow.

To those who have fought and struggled their way to Broadway and have played for a brief while before its glittering tungstens and to Broadway's applause—and have lost, or slipped out of, popular favor—it is a tragedy of hopes. It is a place where actresses and chorus girls, good actors and ham actors, talented people and untalented people are out of work for long stretches at a time, where poverty stalks in tarnished tinsel and where competition is perhaps crueler and more cut-throat in its method than in any other part of the world.

It is a hard and destructive community even for those who "click" or make good on it, for those who play on Broadway are neurotic, restless and easily bored. They want novelty and are quickly fed up with repetition, in spite of the fact that Arthur Brisbane once epigrammed: "Repetition makes reputation!" And that goes for the buyer from a village store who gets on to New York once or twice a year for a combined business trip and unholy spree, as well as for night-club promoters, gamblers, bootleggers, rich spendthrifts and other regular patrons of Manhattan's night loafing army.

What you accomplished last season doesn't matter! "What have you got now?" is the incessant inquiry. Yesterday's favorites, so far as Broadway cares a whoopee, are tomorrow's also-rans. There is nothing so dead on Broadway as a waning star. As far as the "Hardened Artery" is concerned, a star that is no longer in the ascendant already is extinct.

In fewer words: The Double Crossroads of the World is a pretty phoney boulevard. Its honest citizens are in the minority, and a small group they are, too. They help out at the laying of cornerstones, incidentally. But the battalions of racketeers and other shady manipulators along the incandescent belt are better off. They usually have the most currency, the better-looking motor cars, the most fashionable apartments and the prettiest women. This doesn't prevail only in the night club angle of Mazda Lane, but that's where it is most obvious.

In the gay rendezvous, the laughing soup or giggle water parlors along the stem and its alleys, the "butter-and-egg-man" isn't the only one the sharpshooters clip. There the most intimate acquaintance's coin is as good as the other fellow's, and those who operate these nice-vice dens check friendship up to:

"How much money has he? How can I get it? And I want it!"

The lad who is left limp by Broadway ethics when he first arrives on the scene from the provinces soon finds his way about, however, and within a short time elbows his way through the field and doesn't beg anyone's pardon.

The street indeed is a pretty shady hades. You can believe that, considering that it doesn't come from an out-of-towner who could be interrupted with: "Oh, you visitors waste a lot of time hating New York!" I have one distinction, anyway. I am the only New York commentator who was bon in New York! Broadway, then, is counterfeit—hybrid—two-timey—crooked—not on the up-and-up, or if you understand Spanish—it isn't kosher. But I like it, and so do the rest of us phoneys who are incessantly trying to "stop the show" or retard the proceedings along the Huge Chasm. That is, when we are not shoving or jostling the other guy out of the way in the hope of knocking him down—so that we might pass an' beat him to whatever goal or reward is due people whose code is:

"Get the gravy while you can—the hell with the fellow who comes in second!"

75 Years of Progress

The Dollar Savings Bank

From its very beginning in 1855, the true objects of the incorporation of The Dollar Savings Bank, the advantages of its depositors and the general benefit of the community, have been kept steadily in mind. Safety has been regarded rather than large profit, the preservation unimpaired of the intrusted funds, and the addition thereto of that moderate increase which is the result of prudent and unspeculative investment, rather than credit for rapid accumulation too apt to disappear in any severe financial storm.
Its credit has grown with time from the period early in its history when the trustees obligated themselves to guarantee from loss the few who were disposed to put their savings in its care until today. The Dollar Savings Bank now stands with more than thirty-seven thousand depositors, the only institution of its kind in Pittsburgh.

Home Savings Bank

On request, an attractive home savings bank in the form of a reproduction of its banking house will be furnished each depositor without charge. In it can be deposited odd change that can later be deposited in a regular savings account.

Christmas Club

A Christmas Club is operated for the benefit of the depositors. It is really wonderful how easy it is in this way to build up substantial sums for Christmas or any other purpose. Payments are made weekly or for periods in advance if preferred. Four per cent interest added if all payments are made regularly or in advance.

McKees Rocks is the only municipality in Allegheny County showing an increase in building for six months ending June 30, 1930, over the corresponding period for 1929, according to statistics of the Pennsylvania Department of Labor and Industry. The Chartiers Valley suburb had an increase of 4.9 per cent. Sixteen cities and boroughs reported increased building operations over June last year. These included Uniontown, Monessen, Johnstown, Oil City and Meadville.

In Pittsburgh and all the larger cities of the state there was a decline. According to the department's report, the volume of building in 35 Pennsylvania cities and boroughs for six months in 1930 is nearly $45,000,000 less than for the same period in 1929. Value of new structures in Pittsburgh for which permits were issued thus far in July, however, shows an increase.

The "back to the farm" movement still goes on, according to sales announced by the Pittsburgh office of the E. A. Strout Farm Agency. There has been a demand for Western Pennsylvania farms or tracts under 100 acres. A number of purchasers were Pittsburghers.

KONJOLA PROVES MERITS IN THIS STUBBORN CASE

Stomach and Kidney Troubles Readily Yield to New and Different Medicine.

"The medicine with more than a million friends." "The most talked-of medicine in America." Konjola, the really proven medicine for men and women of all ages, has actually earned the right to be so named by all its friends. The experiences of these friends prove it. It is their enthusiasm at relief from serious ailments that has made this medicine famous.

They gave this great medicine a chance and Konjola made good. Read the experience of Mr. Irvin Myers, Box 34, South View, near Pittsburgh. Next see the Konjola Man at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh. He will explain to you, tell you what it is, and what it does and has done. Here is what Mr. Myers told the Konjola Man:

"For the last six or eight months I suffered from stomach and kidney trouble. Food failed to digest and after each meal I bloated with gas. During the night my rest was disturbed six to eight times by irregular bladder actions. Severe pains settled in the small of my back because of the kidney trouble. I was very constipated and had dizzy spells.

"A friend told me about Konjola and its merits. When I heard how it had helped him I decided to give it a trial. Within two weeks a remarkable change took place. The gas and bloating have disappeared. I never have to rise during the night and my back does not pain any more. Constipation is ended. I feel stronger and much better in every way. I am glad to recommend Konjola."

Konjola contains no alcohol, no nerve-deadening drugs, no heart-depressing chemicals. It needs no such hazardous ingredients its seeming wonders to perform. All that is asked for Konjola is that it be given a chance to prove its merits.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, explaining this new and different medicine. FREE SAMPLES GIVEN by the Konjola Man. Konjola is also sold by all Dow Drug Stores in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

The Fifth avenue arcade is being torn down, a destruction which will move many native Pittsburghers to tell the newcomers of the shooting of H. C. Frick. Mr. Frick was seated in his office on the second floor of the Hussey Building, later part of the arcade, on a hot day in 1892 when a man of great emotion pushed his way in and deliberately shot the coke magnate.

The shooting occured during the Homestead steel strike and the gentleman explained that he felt his shooting of Mr. Frick would prove a service to the strikers. His name was Alexander Berkman, a good friend and ally of the lamented Emma Goldman.

Berkman, a Russian, served about 16 years of a 22-year sentence. In confinement he spent much time learning the English language.

It never has been established for whom the secret tunnel was built at the Western Penitentiary but many believe that it was inspired by Berkman. The tunnel was dug from a house in Sterling street, across from the penitentiary, in the latter 90's.

In this house a huge fan was at work in the cellar clearing the bad air from the tunnel. Upstairs a woman, seated near a window, played the piano incessantly to drown the fan's noise.

On the appointed day in the penitentiary yard the favored prisoner was to drop through a thin patch of door which was really the roof of the tunnel.

Unfortunately, for the schemers, a guard by chance stepped on this hollow dirt roof and found himself in the tunnel. That ended that.

Ask Charlie Prichard, or your favorite lawyer, for the story about Lincoln which all lawyers know. It appears that Honest Abe, long before he was President, was defending a gentleman accused of murder. A witness against Abe's client testified that he saw the murder committed at night by the light of the full moon. Well, Abe pulled out the old almanac and proved conclusively that there hadn't been a moon that night. The defendant was acquitted and Abe went on to be President.

The Amen Corner, much in the public prints lately, grew out of "The Steps." At the foot of a set of steps in Liberty avenue near Market street many years ago a group of young men would meet, chat, argue, discuss and tell stories. Raquel Tells Priest She Will Not Marry Bill

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Raquel Rojos, daughter of a Spanish father and American mother, has become engaged to Bill Johnson, the richest man in her home town, Hermosa, on the Mexican border. Then she meets Jack Farrell, an adventurous young engineer. Bill forbids her ever to see Farrell again, but Raquel cries out, "Bronco-buster! I'll promise nothing!" Now she has fled from Hermosa in a train headed for Phoenix, Ariz.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VII.

It was Sunday and Raquel breathed a sigh of contentment as the miles lengthened between her and Hermosa.

She had not been awakened by her father, Pancho, roaring for his thick black coffee and his steaming pile of tortillas. She did not have to renew the Sabbath struggle for the coral earrings that Lucy, her mother, sometimes lent her if she were sufficiently coaxed.

By and by, when the day coach in which she rode struck a smooth stretch, she would slip to the rear of the car, dampen her handkerchief under the water cooler, and use it to freshen her face.

This would be her Sunday toilet.

She smiled as she thought of the care with which she had dressed on that Sunday morning after she had refused to promise Bill Johnson not to see Jack Farrell again. On that Sunday she had been up and about early. Lucy simply had to lend her the coral earrings. A pair of black silk stockings, fairly good ones too, she had been saving for her trousseau. She'd wear them. Look her best. Show Bill Johnson.

Pancho, drinking his coffee in great noisy gulps, scowled heavily at Raquel as she drew aside the ragged curtain that hung across her door.

"John's told me what you're up to, my lady," he barked at her. "Playing loose with strangers in this town. It's got to stop."

"Why don't you stop it, then?" Raquel's black eyes kindling, Raquel's white teeth baring.

Lucy's Views
Wants Raquel to Marry For Love

"I have stopped it." In his wrath, Pancho choked over his coffee, spat it out on the floor. "I'll have no loose women in my family."

"No loose women." Raquel mimicked Pancho's mouthy gutteral. "Except with the money. You'd like me to be loose with money, though, after I've married Johnson, would you?"

Pancho pushed back the table with an oath.

"Reptile!" he shouted at her. "Rattlesnake!"

Raquel walked over to the stove where Lucy, her mother, was baking tortillas. Helplessness, pain in the older woman's face. Lucy's eyes were wet with tears. Raquel went back into her box of a room, pulled the curtain behind her. Doggedly Lucy followed.

"I don't want you to marry this Johnson," Lucy said, lowering her voice so it would be inaudible to Pancho in the outer room, "if you don't think he will make you a good husband—if you don't—love—him, daughter."

How hard the word "love" came to Lucy's thin bloodless lips. How strange it sounded on them. Raquel twined a slim sun-browned arm around Lucy's bent figure.

A Surprise
Raquel's Father Worries About Mass

"Johnson'll do well enough," said Raquel. "He'll get us out of—this. Don't worry, madre mia. I can take care of myself."

"You women quit your everlasting whispering." Pancho came to the door, jerked aside the curtain. "A man could starve in this house and no one'd feed him a mouthful. Raquel, you get a move on. You'll be late for mass."

Raquel's astonished eyes met Pancho's narrowed ones. Pancho worrying about mass. This was something new. And he was actually smiling. A meaningful audacious smile. As if he held the whip hand, and there was none who could dispute him. Raquel's heart skipped a beat. An uneasy feeling stirred within her.

The feeling persisted as she picked her way along the dusty lane, the still dustier street, toward the Church of the Blessed Virgin. She must not spoil the new black silk stockings. After mass she would meet Farrell. With him she would walk, slowly—the sun a simmering disc of beaten brass in the sky—out toward the venerable mission of San Jeronimo.

Long ago San Jeronimo as a saving post for souls had been abandoned. Only the ruins remained, with their cool peaked arches and their air of ineffable sadness. There was romance in San Jeronimo, too. When the shadows played hide and seek on the broken pavements or the lambent moon sent sprays of silver in at the paneless windows, star-studded.

Priest Announces Names Of Raquel and Bill

For all its picturesque appeal, the youth of Hermosa seldom adventured to San Jeronimo. It preferred the more flamboyant thrills of the chili parlor or a secluded spot within earshot of Keno Joe's dancehall.

On the steps of the Church of the Blessed Virgin, Raquel met Anna Schlemmer coming from early mass.

"Buenas dias, Anita," said Raquel. Anna blushed furiously, hung her head.

Raquel passed on into the church. Booby of an Anna! Anna really ought to catch Johnson. Then there would be two great bobbies together.

A rustle followed Raquel's advance along the main aisle of the church. Heads turning in her direction. Eyes appraising her now that she was to become the richest woman in Hermosa.

The service began. Introibo ad altare Dei.

Raquel Objects
Says She Will Not Marry Him

An unwonted stir ruffled across the surface of Raquel's lethargy. People were staring at her. Envious eyes. Admiring eyes. Greedy eyes. Knowing eyes.

The priest, from the lectern, was reading:

CRASH VICTIMS ASK $40,000

Wrecked, they say, when their host driver was passing another car at 65 to 70 miles an hour in Texas while on a trip to California, Joseph Klein and his wife Rebecca, of Tarentum, have filed suit in Common Pleas Court for $40,000 damages against David Weissburg, also of Tarentum.

The Kleins say that, at the invitation of Weissburg, they accompanied him on a trip to Los Angeles. While returning, on February 7 last near West Odessa, Tex., they charge Weissburg started around a car ahead at such high speed that they asked him to go slower. He disregarded this they say, and speeding at near 70 miles an hour, lost control of his car and crashed into a ditch.

Klein suffered broken ribs and injuries to his spine and limbs. Mrs. Klein's lung was punctured by a broken rib. Each asks $15,000 damages for their own injuries and Klein asks an additional $10,000 compensation for his wife's hurts.

SHOWERS END HEAT WAVE

With a forecast of fair and moderate temperature, the Weather Bureau today made good its word to give Pittsburgh relief from the heat wave, which caused at least seven deaths and scores of prostrations, and resulted in loss of thousands of dollars in crops.

Following a light but effective rain early yesterday afternoon, the thermometer at 3 p. m. registered 70 degrees, against 96 at the same hour the day before. Shortly before midnight, a heavy rain fell over the entire district, continuing for more than an hour, which sent the mercury down several more degrees.

Officials at the Weather Bureau said today that cooler weather will prevail for some time.

CAST BALLOT BUT PAID NO TAXES

Davis-Brown Attorney Makes Charges; Recount Board First Report Submitted

Wilkinsburg residents face prosecution for not having paid county taxes before voting, according to Samuel S. Rosenberg, attorney for the "Davis-Brown State Committee."

Ballot boxes from about 40 Wilkinsburg election districts are before the recount board on Rosenberg's allegations of fraud.

The recount board yesterday submitted its first report on Wilkinsburg and said that in the Fifth District of the Third Ward seven names not on the assessors' books were on the election board's check list.

Rosenberg believes the absence of voters' names on the assessors' books indicates they did not pay the tax required by law for the voting privilege.

He is preparing today to determine the numer of such voters and to ask his clients if they want to prosecute.

Discovery of various markings on votes cast in the Fifth District of the Third Ward, Wilkinsburg, was another high light today in the probe of alleged frauds in Allegheny County in the recent primary.

The recount board discovered marks which indicated an election board's scheme to identify certain voters, according to a report filed with Prothonotary John Vogt.

TWO FAIL TO APPEAR

The threat by the Registration Commission to issue warrants for persons who have declined to appear for questioning came after William Ross, messenger for the commission, reported that Ella Hays, of 1541 Wylie avenue, and Joseph Rabonivitz, of 1809 Bedford avenue, had failed to appear after being summoned twice.

NAME STRICKEN OFF

The Registration Board struck off the books the name of Pauline McDonald, a Negro, of 50 Crawford street, Third Ward, after she testified at the meeting yesterday that she voted on a tax receipt she had not paid for. She declared she signed two orders for the tax receipt that was delivered by a man she did not know.

The board also removed from the books the name of Lee Alexander, of 78 Crawford street, Third Ward, who had not signed an order through inability to write, but voted on a tax receipt he received from a "Mrs. Bates." The board contended that a tax receipt paid for by the voter is an imperative qualification for registering.

Motor Club Asks Horses Be Banned From Tubes

A request that horse drawn traffic be entirely eliminated from the Liberty Tubes in order to speed up traffic and to prevent accidents has been sent to the county commissioners by officials of the Pittsburgh Motor Club. A letter was sent by the directors to Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong yesterday. The letter states the directors have passed a resolution asking for the banning of the horse drawn vehicles because many complaints have been received.

Robert L. Wickline, chairman of the highway safety committee of the club, said that complaints concern the lack of red lights or lanterns on wagons, compelling motorists to make quick turns into the other lane of traffic to avoid crashes. This encourages snake driving, Wickline said.

Three weeks ago the Better Traffic Committee requested the commissioners to ban this type of traffic from the tubes during the peak hours.

6,000 TRAFFIC VIOLATORS' TAGS LOST

Pupils Bank $2,118,000 in City School Savings System

'FIX' CASES SHOWN ON INCREASE

'Peanut' Politicians Blamed For Chaos in Procedure Against Auto Offenders

Nearly 6,000 tags directed at motorists for traffic offenses and from which the state derives fines, were "lost" in the shuffle of Traffic Court activities last year, it became known today, as a sequel to Magistrate Soost's request for state aid to help operate his court.

"Fixing" operations by peanut politicians and others with alleged influence, are blamed for the deplorable condition that has made itself apparent in traffic law procedure, it was said.

TAG "FIXING" MOUNTS

Tag "fixing" mounted from 119,000 cases for 1929 to a yearly average of 180,000 as shown by 90,000 cases for the first six months of the current year. Approximately 6,000 of the "fixed" tags were those pertaining to state motor code offenses, traffic experts pointed out.

Six thousand three hundred and forty tags for state infractions reached Traffic Court in 1929. Of these about 3,400 were acted upon or brought to trial. "Fixing" is blamed for the fate of the rest.

AVERAGE FINE

With Magistrate Soost reporting to the Mayor's office that $22,517.50 was collected by the city for the state during 1929, the average fine would be in the neighborhood of $6.60. This means, according to figures compiled from his report, that there has been either a sharp decline in state motor violations, from 1,700 for the first six months of 1929, to 1,432 for the same period of the current year, or that the hand of the "fixer" has entered into the operation.

Highway patrol and police records show the violation rate no smaller than before.

Soost has collected $9,465 for the state so far this year.

MEN OF CHURCH SWING PICKS

NEW CASTLE, Pa., July 23.—With thermometers registering in the 90s, members of the Epworth Methodist Episcopal Church, New Castle, reversed the usual practice in seeking relief from the heat. They resorted to picks and shovels.

The Epworth congregation, one of the pioneer church groups of New Castle, had planned to lay the cornerstone of its new $200,000 edifice at East Washington and Butler streets Sunday. The construction program had not included the grading of the church grounds at an early date, and a call for volunteers was issued. More than 50 male members of the church, most of them business men whose daily labor is done with a pencil, responded.

The pick and shovel detachments were led by the Rev. Dr. S. L. Maxwell, pastor of the church, and State Senator George T. Weingartner, chairman of the church building committee. Women of the congregation assisted in the work by serving the men iced lemonade.

Norris A. White, superintendent for the Clarion district of the Methodist Episcopal Church, will be the principal speaker at the cornerstone laying ceremonies, which will begin at 3 p. m., daylight saving time.

2 HURT AS AUTO HITS TROLLEY

A girl and a man were hurt seriously and three men escaped injury when an automobile crashed into the side of a street car at Ross and Swissvale avenues, Wilkinsburg, early today. The victims were taken to the Columbia Hospital.

Ann O'Conner, 16, was thrown through the windshield and sustained head injuries, and Alfred Heckert, 32, a fractured right arm and internal injuries, according to a police report. V. D. Scott, also an occupant; the driver of the car, who, police said, was Louis Schecter, all of 5819 Penn avenue, and another occupant, whose name police were seeking to learn, escaped injury.

Police said they were unable to locate Schecter after the accident.

Schecter lost control of the car, police said, while going down the Ross avenue hill and crashed into the one-man street car operated by F. P. Henderson, of Corneil Farms.

2 ATTEMPTS TO BURN SCHOOL

Two attempts to burn the one-room Wilkins Township School on Brown avenue recently were called to the attention of District Attorney Andrew T. Park today by Bert A. Llewellyn, vice president of the township school board.

On Tuesday of last week and again on Monday of this week the building was fired. Each time the blaze was started in the same corner of the structure. Damage in each case amounted to $300.

The Camera Question Box

Today's question: Elihu Root suggested American secret police to combat communism. Numerous organizations scoff at the suggestion. What do you think?

HELEN VOGEL, East End, secretary: Communists? Are there such things? Secret police won't do any good; what's needed is a fair break for some of these people who get hard luck in concentrated doses.

Miss Vogel

"WILD" OSCAR HILL, New York, organist: Get at them in the cradle, is what I say. This stuff about a "Red" menace is a lot of hokum. Well, anyhow, I don't think that secret police will do any good.

Oscar Hill

H. M. ADDISON, theater manager: I don't see any reason why we should have special secret police to combat these people. No country or person progresses without adverse criticism. Communists represent new ideas.

H. M. Addison

DAVID PESETZKI, Shadyside, conductor: Secret police? Bosh. That's just talk to take people's mind off their troubles. Are we going to return to prewar days and have a system of espionage where one is suspected if one happens to think?

David Pesetzki

LOIS MILLER, Dormont, musician: I don't know if I'd go that far, but it does seem to me something should be done about the "red" situation. Possibly education while young would do more good than force.

Miss Miller

RUTH LOCKWOOD, Brooklyn, comedienne: I don't think it's as bad as all that, is it? I haven't thought very much about that side of it, but the suggestion sounds a little extreme to me.

Miss Lockwood

STOP-GO SIGNS TEACH SAFETY

Manually operated stop and go signals are to be placed in all playgrounds in the congested parts of the city this summer as part of the playground safety work, according to officials of the Better Traffic Committee. The old-fashioned semaphores are to be distributed by the Bureau of Traffic Planning.

Use of the semaphores is designed to aid children in safety education. The traffic committee, through its sub-committee on education, is sponsoring traffic safety talks which a member of the Police Bureau and a city fireman are giving each day at play centers.

Endeavoring to bring about a better understanding of the problems that confront Magistrate William J. P. Soost in Traffic Court, two members of the committee, W. H. Heselbarth and Thomas Fitzgerald, sat with Soost in court this morning.

TREE PERCHERS DEFY RAIN

Brushton's four tree-sitters, undaunted alike by heat or rain, continued aloft on this the eighth day of their effort to remain among the boughs until school starts.

They used umbrellas last night to protect them from the showers, and slept unperturbed on their small wooden platforms, in two trees in the back yard of 631 Sickles street.

The boys are Robert Gravely, 9; his brothers, James, 14, and Lawrence, 11, and their cousin, Sam King.

Edward Signor, 12, of 539 Cora street, and his uncle, Russell Jones, 12, of 527 Cora street, started out to beat the record of the Sickles street perchers, eight blocks away, last night. They were in a tree in their yard only two hours, however, when Russell's mother, Mrs. Irene Jones, ordered the boys down. They descended.

AND NOW WHO DO YOU THINK THIS ONE IS?

Here's the other one in the mystery. A small corps of scientists are trying to figure out which is which and why not!

THEFT FOILED BY LAMP BLAST

Explosion of an overturned red light frustrated an attempt to steal gasoline from a huge concrete mixer of Booth & Flinn, Ltd., in the Ohio boulevard, Emsworth, early today.

Firemen said they found cans and a siphon abandoned by the prowler in his haste, to leave the vicinity.

Motorists told firemen they saw a man run from the mixer and drive away soon after the lantern upset and set fire to oil and grease about the machine. Part of the gasoline had been drained into a can, firemen said.

THINKS INFANTS WERE MIXED

CHICAGO, July 23.—(INS.)—Tests begun by the staff of scientists seeking to solve the identity mystery in the Watkins-Bamberger baby case today supported the hypothesis that Mrs. William Watkins has the baby that was born to Mrs. Charles Bamberger, and that Mrs. Bamberger has the Watkins infant.

The series of examinations of the two babies and four parents is being conducted at the private laboratory of Health Commissioner Arnold Kegel.

First of the seven specialists to make a tentative report was Dr. Gerhardt von Bonin, anthropologist, who made X-ray measurements of the bones and skulls of the babies and the parents for possible hereditary details. He said later:

"It is too soon to come to a final conclusion on the basis of my results. My findings must be compared with the others, but I believe the babies were switched."

The babies were born June 30, and 12 days later it was found each was tagged with the other's insignia.

Husband of Auto Crash Victim Sues

Suit for $20,000 damages for the death of his wife in an automobile accident, is on file in Common Pleas Court, instituted by H. C. Miller, of Mt. Lebanon, against the Blue Ridge Contracting Company.

It is claimed that Mrs. Miller, while driving her husband's car July 19, 1929 near Bridgeville, was struck by the trailer of a truck owned by the contracting company, her car demolished, and she was injured so badly she died a short time after.

Clifford's Protest On Firing Comes Up

The Civil Service Commission late today was to hear the protest of Joseph M. Clifford, an assistant engineer in the bureau of buildings, dismissed several weeks ago by Director James M. Clark of the Department of Public Safety. In dismissing Clifford, Clark charged tardiness and other infractions of rules, which the former denied.

Contractor Robbed Of $800 Lumber

Oakland police today were seeking thieves who took lumber valued at $800 from the storage yard of J. C. Yongo, at Niagara and Craft avenues. Yongo, a contractor, told police 20,000 feet of lumber was taken from his storage yard in the last two days.

EGYPT TO CURB RIOTERS

LONDON, July 23.—(INS)—Firmer measures against political disturbers were planned today by the Egyptian government.

King Fuad refused a Wafdist petition for an extraordinary session of Parliament, and ordered strict measures against any disturbers of the peace.

The Egyptian cabinet indicated here it was gaining the upper hand in all the troubled centers, and that foreigners were well protected. Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson informed the House of Commons there was no cause for anxiety in regards to foreign lives and property.

At Port Said, demonstrators attempted to burn the municipal stables, but police dispersed them quickly, one man being killed in the melee. Casualties at Suez and Cairo also were heavy, but order was restored and heavy guards were posted to prevent further outbreaks.

Police Investigate Injury of Boy, 12

Detectives today were trying to learn how Hollard Holden, 12, of 418 Darragh street, was injured in a vacant lot at 2567 Aliquippa street, early last night. MINERS URGED TO CUT COSTS

Expressing confidence in the improvement of business and promising to refrain from cutting wages, the Butler Consolidated Coal Company has asked the cooperation of employes in reducing its operating costs.

In an announcement to the miners, the company said the mines in Northern West Virginia are paying only 20 cents a ton for loading, five for cutting and $2.50 for day work. To compete with these mines, the company has requested employes to save supplies whenever possible, to load cleaner coal and to give a full day's work. The statement said:

"We believe business will get better and, if you will help us, our company does not intend to make a wage reduction except as a last resort."

HOLLANDER CO. CASE DROPPED

Criminal charges against Joseph M. Hollander, J. H. Reichberger and Mrs. E. Hoechstetter, officers of the Hollander Brothers Drug Company of Rankin, in Federal Court, accusing them of unlawful diversion of whisky, wine and alcohol, have been dropped by the government because of insufficient evidence to warrant prosecution.

An information filed May 23, 1928, was nol prossed by Judge R. M. Gibson, on motion of United States Attorney Louis E. Graham, who, in a petition, said the motion was made with approval of Attorney General William Mitchell.

The record of the case was placed before the attorney general on May 15, and his approval to drop it was received last week.

Hollander, who is president, and Mrs. Hoechstetter, secretary, of the company, on November 7, 1928, entered pleas of not guilty. Reichberger never was apprehended. The company was engaged in making medicinal preparations for more than 20 years.

The information charged the defendants with unlawfully diverting 1,500 gallons of whisky, 751 gallons of wine and two gallons of alcohol for other purposes than authorized by their federal permits between January 1, 1925, and March 16, 1928, and falsifying records and reports.

The revocation of federal permits of the drug company to withdraw spirituous liquors for manufacturing purposes, by Prohibition Administrator J. D. Pennington, in November, 1928, although upheld by Judge Gibson, the latter, in an opinion, severely criticized the prohibition authorities for the manner in which they obtained evidence for the revocation hearing, which lasted six weeks.

VERDICT PARED BY JUDGES

Holding that the verdict of $7,500 awarded Mrs. Alice L. Anderson, 1600 Miriam street, Swissvale, because of injuries suffered by her 13-year-old son James when knocked from his bicycle by the truck of A. Levine, Swissvale grocer, June 10, 1927, is excessive, Judges James B. Drew, Frank P. Patterson and Samuel H. Gardner have handed down an opinion in Common Pleas Court reducing the verdict to $3,000. If Mrs. Anderson does not accept this within 15 days, a new trial is ordered.

The jury that tried the case last April also awarded $10,000 damages to the boy, the combined verdicts being $17,500. The judges held that as the lad's thigh had been so severely injured that the surgeons had had to attach a metal plate to it with six screws, after ordinary operations had failed, and as the limb is likely to cause him trouble in the future, the $10,000 awarded him is not excessive.

Fall From Third Floor Kills Baby

A fracture of the skull suffered yesterday when he fell from a third-floor window in his home caused the death last night of William Basset, 11 months old, of Sheffield street, in Presbyterian Hospital, according to a coroner's report.

The child, it was said, went to the third floor of his home and leaned from a window, losing his balance.

BUS LINES ASK EXTENSIONS

Two Greene County bus lines, the Union Transit Company and the Harold M. Gray lines, are competing for business in "Little Greene," it was revealed in a hearing yesterday before Examiner W. E. Best, of the Public Service Commission.

The Union Transit Company applied for an extension of service, in the operation of buses between Rices Landing and Crucible and between Carmichaels and Nemacolin and also Paisley and Greensboro.

The Gray line then countered with an application for a certificate extending their service between Fairdale and Carmichael, this being an extension of an existing route between Masontown in Fayette County and Nemacolin.

However, Meyer Thompson, general manager of the Union lines, withdrew the application for a certificate of public service between Rices Landing and Crucible and then sought to show that the Gray line had violated its certificate by accepting passengers between Carmichaels and Uniontown.

The Greensboro objective of the Union Transit Company, which also operates between Waynesburg and Masontown, is said to be quite important, because of improved roads being made in the Greensboro district. This improvement will permit of operation of buses close to the West Virginia line.

Examiner Best, who heard the testimony in the case, will make his recommendations to the commission.

TWO DEATH CAR DRIVERS HELD

An inquest into the death of two aged men resulted in two autoists being held on manslaughter charges by a coroner's jury.

Charles C. Sharpnack, of Bentleyville, Pa., was held in the death of Edmund P. Slentz, 73, of 35 Sycamore street, who was struck by a machine driven by Sharpnack in Saw Mill Run boulevard, July 9. He died the same day in South Side Hospital.

Lloyd Brown, of 138 Howard street, Millvale, was ordered turned over to the grand jury in the death of William Smith, 68, of 626 Excelsior street, who succumbed in the Allegheny General Hospital July 10, after being struck by a car driven by Brown in East Ohio street at Walkers Bridge. Reckless driving was charged in both cases.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Why Do Ladies Love Brutes And Then Whimper?

He gives her and slaps her—

He calls her names and refuses to take her or eat with her and accuses her of horrid secret crimes.

And yet she loves him! And all day while she grinds in the office to help pay their bills she worries for fear of losing him!

Now I ask you—what does Corinne get out of matrimony? Maybe you can discover. Here's her wail:

"Dear Sally Martin:

"I've been reading letters which you receive from girls about their troubles, and wanted to tell mine.

"It's about my husband. He is 20 and I am 19. We've only been married seven months but they have been the most unhappy months of my life. He will never talk with me and if I try to open a conversation he frowns and tells me he's not interested in what I have to say. In order to please him, we just sit all evening, he with some book and I just staring out of the window.

BRUTAL TREATMENT

"He is also very mean and the only time he does talk is when he wants to argue about something and he says such mean, nasty things to me and when I talk back and try to stand up for my rights I am slapped and told to shut up and there have been times when he actually punished me.

"I work in an office during the day it being necessary for me to do so and then go home and make dinner and half the time he will not come to the table and eat. He cross-examines me as to whether any men came in the office during the day and if they spoke to me, and if I tell him they did he calls me a cheat and other vile names and if I say no he calls me a liar and claims I'm holding something back from him. He's terribly jealous but has no cause. He's the first boy I loved and he claims I was his first girl yet he is always wanting to accuse me. I work during the day and spend my evenings sitting home so you can see yourself how absurd this is.

STRANGE CONDUCT

"The funny part is Sally that when I mention that I can't seem to make him happy and he can't possibly love me he tells me he wouldn't want to live without me. Can it be possible, Sally? You might think I'm exaggerating a bit, but in truth I cannot tell all without writing a book. I do love him or I wouldn't take all this treatment, but at times I just break down and cry my eyes out. It seems he has broken my whole spirit and I had plenty of it, but he is so independent. I am just afraid of losing him and that's why I'm treated like a discarded shoe, I suppose.

"A word of encouragement from (or why) understands will be appreciated so much. Sally. Won't you please give it to me.

CORINNE.

Encourage you? The only encouragement I can offer you, sister, is to advise you to pick a nice padded cell and lock yourself in—for you certainly have all the symptoms.

Here we are in 1930 with guns and guns of rights and privileges and opportunities for females. And you yourself enjoy the greatest privilege of all—that of earning your own living and dictating your own terms with Fate—if you choose. But you don't choose. History has made women free. But as far as you were concerned, she was just wasting her time. For you don't want to be free. And you're trying your darnedest to emulate a badly bent fish worm.

Sorry for you? Not a darned bit. You're a disgrace to your sex. If you had the spunk of a clam you'd walk out on that Loud Noise and live like a self-respecting woman. And until you do, you deserve all you get!

Fay King Marvels Why Women Steal Husbands of Their Friends

IT IS MORE OFTEN GREED THAN LOVE THAT MAKES A YOUNG AND ATTRACTIVE GIRL FLATTER SOME OTHER WOMAN'S HUSBAND
A MAN LOSES HIS HEAD, NOT HIS HEART, TO THE ONE WHO LEADS HIM ASTRAY
SHE WOULDN'T DREAM OF TAKING ANOTHER WOMAN'S RING OR FUR COAT, BUT SHE TAKES ANOTHER WOMAN'S HUSBAND!
FAY KING

By FAY KING

If no woman would accept the attentions of another woman's husband, there would be no broken homes! It is appalling the number of pretty girls, prompted with greed or ambition, who will flatter and humor a man who belongs to his wife and children.

Aside from the moral and principle of the thing, I should think any girl would hesitate by such an affair to admit that she cannot as easily capture a young man of her own as this man's wife won the love of this husband when they were both in the best years of their life!

The very attentions the married man now bestows, which some girls say are more attractive than the manners of younger men, are only the result of his wife's patient training!

Madge's Assurance of Aid Lifts Load from Mary's Heart

Mary's wail for it was nothing less, sounded so poignantly through the winter stillness that I glanced apprehensively through the underbrush which hid us from the rest of our party, wondering if the others had heard her despairing outburst. But from across the other clearing came the uninterrupted joyous shouts of Junior and Roderick as they gathered holly branches under the skillful direction of Mrs. Tiger, and I decided that they were too engrossed to pay any attention to us.

My good neighbor would be sure to make a mental comment, at least, upon the paucity of our own gleanings, if we wasted any more time. It was this thought together with the realization that Mary's anguished query concerning the contents of Philip Veritzen's letter to Noel could have no possible answer now which made me put my hands upon the girl's shoulders and draw her up from her kneeling position to a standing one locked closely within my arms.

"Mary, dearest," I said caressingly, "there is only one thing I want you to be sure of. Noel loves you selfishly, adoringly. No unworthy reason could make him give you up. Cling to that thought. Never let it leave you. For the rest, you can do nothing—but—will you let me tell Mrs. Underwood and Mrs. Bickett as much of what you have told me as I think best, and may I show them the letter? We all, Mrs. Underwood especially, have some knowledge of Philip Veritzen's little ways, and I believe that we may be able to evolve some plan for finding out what this is all about."

She hesitated for only a second, then threw her arms around my neck and pressed her burning cheek to mine.

"Do whatever you think best," she said. "As for the letter, keep it. I suppose it ought not to be destroyed."

"I shall keep it safely," I told her, "and now I prescribe a course of swift and vigorous holly-picking. We do not want Mrs. Tiger to suspect that we came over here simply to talk."

"Watch me!" she boasted, and sprang up with so apparent an air of joyous relief that a gratified little thrill ran over me at her patent trust in me. She had confided her troubles to my keeping, and for the present hour, at least, she was free from the burden of them.

I followed her to the laden holly trees and tried in vain to keep pace with her swift, sure movements. And when at last we heard Junior and Roderick calling us, we had creditable piles of the dark green branches with the red berries gleaming against the glossy leaves.

"My, you have been working!" Mrs. Tiger exclaimed when with the aid of the small boys, we had brought our trove to add to theirs. "It's lucky you put the luggage carrier on. You'll need it. But don't you think we'd better leave these piles here while we go out and down to the beach of the lake for our picnic fire? Then we can come back and get them and not have to carry them so far. Them things are prickly and when we once get them in the car the folks in the back will have to sit pretty still, and it will be hard getting out."

"You've got an idea there, Mrs. Tiger—two or three of 'em," Mary told her, laughing, and I saw my neighbor look curiously at the young girl, evidently contrasting her cheery spirits with the somber aspect she had worn when she took me away from the others.

"I'm so hungry," Mary went on, "that I'm going to begin on Junior or Roderick if I don't get some other food pretty soon. I think Junior looks the fatter, don't you, Mrs. Tiger?"

"Yes, but you shan't touch him," Mrs. Tiger grinned, while the boys giggled joyously. "Let's hurry out to the car, and we'll be down at the shore in a jiffy."

It was not only the sating of our physical hunger which we found on the shores of the little lake to which Mrs. Tiger's directions brought us a few minutes later. While the boys hunted wood and with much fussiness but real skill built a picnic fire, I sat with Mary on the sand and filled my eyes and soul with the beauty of the winter scene. It was the epitome of peace this little lake with evergreens lining its shores, and the oaks towering back of them, and with the clear blue and brilliant sunshine of the winter noontide reflected in the water at our feet.

"Doesn't it seem so safe here, Auntie Madge?" Mary whispered when the boys had announced their fire built and their picnic cooked and summoned us vociferously to join them. "It just seems as if nobody could get me here. I'd like to stay here forever if only—"

She broke off abruptly, and I guessed that her sentence if finished would have contained the three words, "Noel were here."

I slipped my arm about her as we rose in answer to the impatient summons of the boys.

"Nobody shall ever get you, Mary," I promised, and added to myself, "nor spoil your happiness," as I shook a mental fist at absent Philip Veritzen.

Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Good news: High heels are going down. Which means that the girls won't be trot-trotting to the chiropodist's shop quite so often.

Sun tan make-up doesn't belong with trailing skirts and fluttery stuff, therefore it is out and done for. All right with jumpers, short socks, abbreviated skirt and flying locks, but it was messy business putting on the counterfeit nut-brown calcimine. This summer's complexion is back again to the peaches and cream standard. Almost no cheek coloring, only a faint accentuating of the lips. Eyes are played up more, with delicate shading of the lids, preferred hues being mauve, rose, a tawny brown and purplish blue. In the daytime eye shadows must soft pedal.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND.

Man, the Enigma

Woman is no longer a mystery to man. But man is still a deep, dark, unfathomable mystery to woman.

The average woman knows just what a man will do, under any given circumstances, but she never knows just WHY he does it. What is going on behind his forehead or above his ears is still HIS inviolable secret; and not even the cleverest woman can guess it!

No woman has ever been able to discover why a man will cheerfully and carefully make love to a woman who means nothing to him—and run for safety from the woman who is beginning to mean everything to him.

Or why he will spend months struggling against a girl who wants to marry him—and then when she suddenly turns to another man, will try to snatch her back and drag her to the altar.

Or why he will select a wife, who is the exact antithesis of his mother—and then spend the rest of his life striving to remodel her according to the maternal pattern and "break her in" to his mother's ways.

Or why he will marry an intelligent girl who is an inspiration to him in his work—and spend the rest of his days playing around with lightweights and pretty dumbbells who distract him from his work.

Or why he will throw aside the woman who sits at his feet and makes a human sacrifice of herself on the altar of his whims, to sit at the feet of a woman who walks all over him.

Or why a woman with the face of a Greek goddess, the wit of a George Sand and the grace of a fashion-model will leave him utterly cold—while a little dimwit with a retrousse nose, a weak chin, a cuddly way and a baby-stare will leave him trembling with emotion.

Or why he will spend half the summer trying to wedge his way into a girl's consciousness or affections—and then suddenly turn around in a panic and try to squirm out of them.

Or why he builds all his dreams about the kind of woman who will be a helpmate and a pal—and spends all his evenings with the women who amuse him, flatter him, gold-dig him and bore him. And then is overcome with astonishment when he finds himself married to a painted doll with one brain-cell and a "gimme complex."

* * *

And WHY he will pass deliberately by the right woman who is waiting for him—and rush straight into the arms of the wrong woman, who was just looking for a good time—or a good thing!

Oh yes, any woman can tell you what almost any man will DO. But why he does it is still the great enigma.

* * *

For, when a man actually falls for the right woman, and marries with what looks like judgment and common sense, it is not his fault. It is sheer accident or good luck. Or because there wasn't any "wrong woman" around at the moment.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Severe Sunburn May Lead to More Serious Trouble

We are now in the midst of vacation time. Most of us are able to spend more than our usual time in the sunshine. Of course this is to be desired. Very few, especially among city dwellers, spend enough time in the sunshine.

DR. COPELAND

But we must exercise care so that the skin is not severely burned by being exposed for too long a time at first. Pretty soon your skin will adapt itself to the sunlight. Last season many young women suffered greatly due to their desire to acquire the fashionable sun-tan.

Not long ago I read a fashion note which stated that the backless dresses which were so popular last year would probably be less in demand. This is probably because of the suffering experienced by many women who tried to tan the skin in too short a time.

But if you desire a tanned skin, begin temperately. If you are light complexioned you must be especially careful in order to avoid a red, unsightly looking skin.

The results of sunburn may be much more serious than the irritation of the skin. There may be fever and considerable constitutional disturbance following a severe sunburn. As a result, your efficiency may be lowered for several days.

But if you are not seeking a deeply tanned skin, or if your skin is easily irritated, take pains for a few days and avoid trouble. It is a good plan to wear a broad-brimmed hat. Even a thin veil gives a lot of protection.

Quinine applied locally is useful. It may be prepared as a powder—one part to 15 parts of Talcum powder—and dusted on the skin. Or the quinine may be dissolved in petroleum oil and applied to exposed surfaces.

Cold cream may be used to prevent burning also it is soothing if the skin has been burned. Do not wash after exposure to the sun. After a drive or a half day or more on the beach, cleanse the skin with cold cream, rubbing it off gently with a soft cloth.

Whether or not you want to be tanned, accustom yourself to the sunlight because you need its healthful effect. Sunlight kills germs, enriches the blood, and has a tonic effect.

Answers to Health Queries

A. E. F. Q.—I am 18 years of age, 5 feet 10 inches tall—will I grow taller? Is there any way in which I can stop this rapid growth?

A.—You may have attained your full height, but in most cases the growth and development continue until the age of 21. There is no way to stop growing. As you grow older you will fill out and develop generally.

H. H. Q.—When I walk my knee and ankle joints make a loud crackling noise; sometimes they're painful. What can I do for it?

2. What will strengthen a weak heart?

A.—This is due to a lack of synovial fluid around the joints. There may be a rheumatic tendency at the source of the trouble. Massage and heat should give relief.

2. Proper rest and medication will help toward this end. See a doctor and follow his judgment in the matter of treatment.

A. A. Q.—What causes falling hair? There is no dandruff. What treatment is suggested?

2. What can be done for cracking or popping of the jaw and what is the cause?

A.—The trouble may be due to the health in general. Improve that and you will probably notice general results. In the meantime keep the hair and scalp immaculately clean, and use a good hair tonic.

2. This disturbance is usually due to improperly constructed dental work or to trouble with the teeth themselves. The loss of teeth often throws the jaw out of proper position. Massaging with warm cod liver oil should give relief until the cause is determined and further treatment advised.

MRS. W. J. H. Q.—Will gall bladder trouble cause a great deal of gas in the stomach and bowels?

2—Could you recommend a diet?

A.—Yes.

2—Yes. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

MISS HARD-BOILED

By JANE DIXON

and William Johnson, both of this parish. If there be anyone who knows any just impediment—

Raquel's heart cried out: "Stop, Father Luis. Stop! This is not true! I will not marry Johnson. I swear it. I cannot marry him! His hands on me! I crawl. I shiver! I hate him, Father. You would not have me marry a man I hate. No, surely not that!"

She flamed with bitterness. This was Pancho's work. Pancho's smile at the door of her room. She must not be late for mass. She would miss the banns. Her marriage banns. Her's and Johnson's.

Raquel rose. The pallor of her face was so ghastly, so opaque that a man beside her instinctly put out his hand to support her, thinking she was going to faint. Her black eyes, fixed on Father Luis, beseeched him—

She stumbled into the aisle. With high head and heart quivering so that her breath came in tight little gasps, she walked down the aisle and out through the door of the church.

Once outside, her feet took wings. Without knowing or caring in which direction she went, she ran. Her flight was that of an arrow unheedful of its mark. Dry sobs tore at her throat. Dust bellied up and choked her. A mesquite branch, making bold to wring a living from the crevice of a wall, reached out and snagged a rent in her black silk stockings. A wave of nausea swept over her.

Her heart was thudding against her breast now, so that she had to stop. She was burning hot. She was icy cold. She must have run miles, run forever.

As one awakened suddenly from a terrifying nightmare, she struggled to recover her senses. Where was she? That dark pile over there— A faint cry of joy, relief, escaped her.

"San Jeronimo! I have come. San Jeronimo! I am safe!"

Raquel looked behind her. A cloud of dust was settling. That was all. No one had followed her. With swift, catlike tread, the tread of an animal escaping its hunter, she was in the ruined mission. She would hide away, await the coming of Farrell. He would surely seek her.

Oh, These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

Tidbits from correspondents: "When my husband wipes the dishes, I say, 'Thanks,' that helped a lot." That helps a prideful inflation like gas helps a balloon. When I make a tie or mend something for him I get a thank you, and often a hug. If he puts a rug down wrong, I close my eyes and remove it when he isn't around. He's so far from an 'overlord' that I like to imagine it's the result of our mutual thanksgiving."

F. K. MALCOMB, Illinois.

A young man writes from a battleship to tell me that after he married, his mother-in-law persuaded his wife to leave him and get a divorce. Now they both see their mistake and want him to give the ex-wife another chance. When he was divorced the boy joined the Navy. He doesn't love the ex-wife any more. Yet he feels he shouldn't marry any one while she lives.

Of course if it is a question of religion, that is for you to decide, but you didn't mention that. You will have to settle that question with yourself. If you do believe in remarriage after divorce, then why are you talking that way? A man in love knows he's in love; there's no question in his mind. If you are in love with this girl back home, why don't you marry her? Yours is a strange letter. I don't think you know your own mind, so you better settle the question by staying single. You're young, what's the hurry?

I've a half dozen letters from girls who are pining over men who don't want them. They had their brief chance and they couldn't hold the men. Perhaps they were not worth holding, but the fact remains that the men don't want them and that should be enough for any woman. When a girl says there is only one man for her and he treats her shabbily and dodges her, she's either without pride or likes being mistreated. There is always a good man who knows how to treat you, why waste tears on such people? If you refuse to be happy no one can do anything for you. But you are a little bit crazy, all of you, to hug to your heart an alleged dead romance that really never did amount to anything.

Household Hints

A worn-out refrigerator means wasted ice and big ice bills.

Keep the medicine used most frequently on the front of the shelves of the medicine cabinet and avoid noisy and irritating search when in a hurry.

Before shaking the kitchen range empty any damp tea leaves or coffee grounds that may be around. It will make it practically a dustless, and, therefore, more pleasant job.

Warm, damp days bring troubles to the salt cellar. And there are few things that are more annoying than the salt cellar that refuses to give up its appetizing treasure. Be careful that the salt cellars are absolutely dry before they are filled and slip in a few grains of rice, say two or three, before the cellar is closed. This will help to keep the salt dry and in a "sprinkly" condition.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

When a Gentleman Walks With Two Ladies

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. I wish you would settle this argument between my husband and me. He insists that when two ladies and a man walk down the street, the man should walk between the two ladies, and I think it is proper for him to walk on the outside.

2. If a lady and man meet on the street who should speak first? ANN AND LEO.

1. You are right—when a gentleman is walking with two ladies, he walks on the side of the pavement nearest the curb.

2. The woman is always given the privilege of making acknowledgment of an acquaintance with a man.

Costumes for the Parsonage Wedding

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you kindly advise me as to what would be the correct attire for the bride at a wedding to be solemnized in the parsonage?

Would white flannels and a dark coat be suitable for the groom?

The wedding is to be held in the morning. F. R.

For this informal kind of wedding, held in the parsonage, the very best taste is for the bride and the groom to wear their traveling costumes. There should be no attempt to "dress up," for such attires are out of place.

Choosing the Best Man

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Recently my brother was married and the brother of his fiancee was his best man. I have been thinking that I should have been best man, as it was my brother who was married. What do you think?

TED.

You are right in thinking that, according to the best custom and convention, the groom invites his brother to be his best man. But the bride may have insisted that her brother be best man—which would be bad taste in her, but brides will do it!

Answering a Wedding Invitation

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Kindly let me know the correct form of procedure in regard to answering a wedding invitation when the wedding is being held at home.

C. W. G.

If the invitation is of the usual formal kind, this is the form of your reply:

MISS Clara Williams Gray
accepts with pleasure
Mr. and Mrs. Walter Austin's kind invitation for Monday, the first of September, at five o'clock.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Jerry Murdock is mysteriously shot and killed at Gordon Stiles' palatial home in Manhattan Beach, a suburb of New York. The only clues are a bullet hole in a window drape and footprints in the snow. A number of well-known Broadwaytes are at the house for a week-end party. Eric, the Stiles' butler, implicates Diana Amberson, a dancer. She admits having gone into Murdock's room just prior to the murder. Dr. Wattles, police medical examiner, reports "doped" water in the two rooms adjoining Murdock's.

Now Go On With the Story.

CHAPTER III.

"Beginnin' to get a little puzzlin'," Robin Dale mused. "The murderer did quite a bit of travelin' last night—in the hall, out in the snow, visitin' at least three rooms. Wasn't afraid of being seen or wouldn't have taken so many chances. Your criminal isn't a stranger around here, captain, that's one thing certain."

Shortly after this Jardin was sent to investigate the progress of the police officers detailed to search every room in the house.

"I'm going to look over the two adjoining rooms, Dale. The murderers may have left some clue when the dope was put in the drinking water."

Bertram Forrest was not in his room when Captain Blake and Dale entered. On the right, a door led into Murdock's room. This was the one that had been locked on Murdock's side. French windows gave on the balcony and on the left two windows overlooked the grounds. On a small table in one corner the carafe and the tumbler half-filled with water had been set aside.

The water in the glass was that which Dr. Wattles had found to be pure. Captain Blake held up the carafe and a white sediment was faintly discernible in the bottom.

"Have you talked with Forrest, captain?"

"Not yet. He's probably downstairs with Diana Amberson—I understand they're to be married. Her presence in Murdock's room complicated things quite a bit."

"More puzzlin' motives," Dale murmured as though to himself.

Dolores Quincy was still in bed when they went into the other room. It was a duplicate of Forrest's room on the other side of the house. Mrs. Quincy appeared to be a very sick lady, suffering from the effects of the doped water. She was very pale and nauseated. She answered Captain Blake's simple questions with an effort. There was very little she could tell. She had retired about one, drinking water from the carafe the last thing. She went to sleep almost immediately and was unconscious of everything that passed until with difficulty she was awakened some time after the discovery of the crime.

Richard Quincy showed no ill effects from the doped water. He accounted for this by explaining that he had taken very little of it. After sitting up probably half an hour after his wife had retired, to smoke a cigaret, he, too, had gone to sleep immediately and had heard nothing until the morning.

"Mrs. Quincy," Robin Dale asked suddenly, "is it true that Jerry Murdock was the financial backer for your tearoom?"

Richard Quincy whirled on Dale.

"It's a damned lie!"

"I was only asking a question, Quincy."

"Well, you've got the answer!"

"I guess you answered it."

Capt. Blake was about to proceed down the hallway when the two left the room and shut the door, but Dale held him with a gesture. For a few moments they stood outside the door. Then Quincy's voice came to them raised in anger.

"Everyone knows what you've done! Anything he wanted he bought with his filthy money!"

There was no answer. After a short silence Quincy's voice was heard again.

"If you drag me into this rotten mess I'm through for good! As it is, I'm a damn fool!"

Capt. Blake and Dale went down the hallway.

"Motives, captain—more puzzlin' motives."

"How did you know about Murdock's interest in the tearoom?"

"I didn't. It was just a guess. But Quincy's actions prove that it hit the mark. I took a chance, knowing that neither of them had money enough of their own to set up an elaborate place like the Dolores Tea Room. Ever been there, Capt. Blake?"

"No."

"We'll drop in some afternoon."

"Maybe—but just now I'm here to arrest a murderer, and that will be the next move."

"The girl?"

Capt. Blake nodded. Most of the guests were assembled on the lower floor. Some were in the dining room at belated breakfast, others in the large reception room. An ominous silence pervaded everything. Conversations were carried on in hushed whispers, and these ceased entirely as Blake entered. This silence continued as he crossed with Dale to the arch which led to the dining room.

Diana Amberson was at the table. At her side was a young, rather good-looking chap with sharply-defined sensitive features. Gordon Stiles and his wife were also there. Her likeness to Diana was very striking. Stiles was a man of quite distinguished appearance, heavily built, with a shock of iron gray hair.

The two men rose as Capt. Blake entered the room. There was a strained air of expectancy about the entire group, and the two sisters glanced nervously at each other.

"I trust you have reconsidered your refusal to explain your presence in Mr. Murdock's room last night, Miss Amberson."

There was an involuntary gasp from Grace Stiles as she rose to her feet. Her husband placed a restraining hand on her arm. Bert Forrest turned in bewilderment to Diana. She was the calmest one in the group. She answered Blake in a low, level tone of voice.

"There is still nothing to explain, Capt. Blake."

"Then I must place you under arrest for the murder of Jerry Murdock."

Bert Forrest stepped in front of Capt. Blake.

"No you won't. I killed Murdock."

CUTS IN MEAT SHARED HERE

Pittsburgh housewives are sharing reduced prices on meats today with the other parts of the country in comparison with last year with retail price reductions from 4 to 9 cents, according to grades.

While Philadelphia and Chicago have been benefited by price cuts of 12 cents and 11 cents, respectively, on cheaper grades of beef, C. B. Denman, Federal Farm Board member, in an International News report from Washington, further declared New York City has benefited only by 3 to 6 cents. This is on the cheap grade.

Many local retail dealers inauguarted a 3-cent cut this week on all grades of beef, pork and lamb. Frank V. Ganter, board chairman of the Pittsburgh Market Protective Association, declared this brought the savings over last year to an average of 8 to 9 cents on all meats. Some choice cuts, however, only offer 4 to 6 cents reduction, it was stated.

A HAPPY FAMILY GROUP

WILLIE DAVIES MRS. DAVIES WILLIE, JR.

Davies is the crack flyweight boxer of Charleroi, a contender for the world title, who is prouder of the fact that his wife is about to be graduated from a teachers' college with a bachelor's degree than he is of his ring exploits. Baby Willie, Jr., is almost 3 years old. They're a happy family group.

WEE WILLIE DAVIES, star flyweight boxer, of Charleroi, is as happy these days as if he had just won that world title for which he has been gunning for several years. And not because of something he himself has accomplished, but because his young wife, the former Miss Evelyn Park, of Stockdale, is to be graduated from California (Pa.) Teachers' College on Friday with a bachelor's degree, which will entitle her to teach in high school if she so desires.

Willie attended the Johnny Dunn-Jackie Rodgers show at the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, Monday night and confided the "big event" of Friday to friends. He has delayed returning to his camp in the mountains so he will be able to be present at the exercises at the college.

Mrs. Davies has no intention of teaching just now. But she is prepared to earn her own way in the event anything ever happens to her husband, and she gets a lot of enjoyment out of continuing her education.

The Davieses are the proud parents of a boy almost 3 years old, Willie, Jr. "The greatest kid in the world," is the way Willie, Sr., describes him. The lad is pictured with his parents above.

Sir Thomas Lipton's latest challenger for the America's Cup, now on the Atlantic bound for Newport, R. I. Photo shows the graceful yacht under full sail.

IT IS INTERESTING to chat with Davies about his ring affairs. He has a hair-trigger mind outside the ring as well as in it, which probably explains his success as a boxer.

We got around to discussing his two bouts with Black Bill, the Cuban Negro, at the Meyers Bowl recently, both of which Willie won after getting off to bad starts.

"Funny thing about those two bouts," said Willie. "Almost everybody seems to think I was in danger of being knocked out in the first two rounds of our second bout, whereas, as a matter of fact, I was in a much worse way in our first setto. In that first bout, I was hit so hard several times that I thought the lights had been turned out over the ring. I had no such sensation in the second bout.

"The cut which I received over my left eye in the first round of the second bout was the thing that bothered me in that battle. The blood kept getting into my eye and blurring my vision. Incidentally, the cut did not come from a punch. We were at close quarters, and, as we broke, Bill rushed back in with a right to the head. I blocked the blow with my own left hand, and, as I did, Bill followed through with his head, butting open the cut. The concussion stunned me and that was why I had trouble getting my bearings for a time. In both bouts, I found Bill fairly easy to tame when I got around to boxing him, but I'll say this for him—he is one of the best punchers in the division and a dangerous man to face."

"THERE IS SOME talk about Midget Wolgast being willing to come to the Bowl now to defend his world flyweight title against you, after having turned down the match some weeks ago," I said to Davies. "How about it?"

Willie's reply again demonstrated his native shrewdness.

"Well, I'll tell you," he said. "I'm anxious enough to win the title, but I'd rather wait a bit until Wolgast gets through straightening out his affairs in New York and thus guard against getting another runaround on this title business. You know, Wolgast and Frankie Genaro have been matched for some time in New York, and the bout has been put off several times. Now I'm afraid that they've fixed up some sort of a scheme that won't help me in the least. As I see it, the reason Wolgast is willing to come here and box me with the title at stake at this time is because he figures that, even if he did lose to me, he is recognized only in New York and Pennsylvania, anyway, and he could go back to New York and box Genaro, who is recognized by the National Boxing Association and 32 states, and they could make another championship match out of that and leave me holding the bag. So far as I am concerned, I am satisfied to wait until the Midget and Genaro fight it out; then I'll take on the winner. I defeated both Genaro and Corp. Izzy Schwartz, claimants of the title, in bouts at the Meyers Bowl last year and these victories didn't get me a thing. What I'm interested in most now is fighting the one man who is recognized as the real champion."

DAVIES HAS BOXED Wolgast five times and the Midget has hopscotched and flicked and tapped his way to four decisions against only one for Willie. However, virtually all of the other decisions were disputed and this writer, for one, saw Davies beat Wolgast in their bout at Motor Square Garden several years ago, in which Wolgast dazzled the judges with his speed and walked off with an undeserved verdict. Davies also bested the Midget at New Castle not long ago, but finished on the short end of a split

PRIZES GIVEN YOUNGSTERS AT FETE

The third annual banquet of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph marking the official close of the Western Pennsylvania junior golf championship for the William Randolph Hearst trophy was held in the William Penn Hotel last night and was voted a big success by those who attended. The prize winners, 16 of them, received their coveted awards during the gala festivity.

J. Bernd Rose of the Allegheny Country Club, president of the Western Pennsylvania Golf Association, made the presentation in behalf of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

CHAMP GETS AWARDS

Anthony Myers, aged 17 years, of Elna, received the beautiful William Randolph Hearst trophy, the set of matched steel clubs and a solid gold medal for leading the field of 360 golfers with a fine 66 over the Schenley course.

John Bing, of Swissvale, who won second prize, was given his Hagen steel-shafted driver and a gold medal. George M. Brannigan, Jr., of Turtle Creek, won a mashie and silver medal, while Chris Paterlini, of Monongahela, took home with him a putter and medal for fourth place.

Principal S. L. Wengert, of the Ellsworth-Cokeburg High School, was presented a silver loving cup in behalf of the team which copped the William Randolph Hearst high school and preparatory trophy, a competition inaugurated this year, while Andy Petrulia, of Schenley, accepted the silver plaque that went with the club caddie championship.

The Stanton Heights golf team, which was runner-up in the club caddie event, did not appear at the banquet to receive its award.

BURKE IS SPEAKER

The first speaker on the program was the Honorary Tournament Director John Jay Burke, city office manager of the Allegheny County parks and a former U. S. G. A. public links section executive committeeman. Burke praised the tournament, lauded the winners, and anticipated greater junior golf successes in the future.

Carl P. Kauffmann, National public links champion for the last three years, gave a long talk emphasizing the need of the loser taking his medicine when he needed it most. He also offered some good advice to the boys on fine points of the game.

Following the presentation of prizes by J. Bernd Rose, Harry Keck, sports editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, spoke on the general good of junior tournaments for the game of golf. Vern Swartzfager, golf editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, was toastmaster.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE GROWING ROCK OF MORRILTON, ARK.—This rock is a conglomerate formation composed of sandstone, clay, shale and other materials. The theory that floor erosion has caused the increased height of the rock is discredited by the heavy covering of moss and lichen at the bottom of the formation, while the top bears no evidence of such age. Geologists are unable to offer a satisfactory explanation of the peculiar formation and its phenomenal growth of five feet in 28 years. STANLEY ERLICH, CHILD PRODIGY OF PROVIDENCE—Although this child is only five years old, he can instantly tell the day of the week upon which any date will fall, or can name the date when given any day of the week and month. THE LOWDOWN ON THE BUGS

By THE BENCHWARMER.

PHILADELPHIA, July 23.—Well, folks, them Phillies are doing a lot to spoil our trip and disposition.

We can look good in other sports, but we're just a ball club as soon as we push our noses into this park. Jule is sort of disgusted; he said he would shakeup the lineup some before we jumped off in today's doubleheader.

When we came to town the Phillies were so deep in the cellar, the fans and writers were ready to call it another season. But we began to stagger and soon had the Quakers on their feet with a lot of pep. I don't know what kind of a hitter Phil Collins is, but he has his foot in the waterbucket plenty. How our pitchers let him sock a couple in the left field bleachers is more than I can figure.

It looks like Lloyd will be out of there today and I don't think Paul looks any too strong at the plate. He's lost a lot of weight. The weather has been awful hot in this town. That storm that broke near the close of the game cooled things off a little. But I guess the Phils already had cooled off our pennant hopes.

Bowen is Victor In Stockholm Race

STOCKHOLM, July 23.—(AP.)—Tommy Warne, of Northwestern, and Reginald (Pete) Bowen, of the University of Pittsburgh, recorded victories in their specialties on the third day of an international athletic meet here yesterday.

Warne won the pole vault with a leap of 13 feet 9 6-16 inches.

Bowen captured the 400-meters run in 48.2 seconds, with J. Buechner, of Germany, second, and O. Hammargren, of Sweden, third.

Darkness Wipes Out Allentown Night Game

ALLENTOWN, Pa., July 23.—(AP.)—The scheduled Eastern League night game between Allentown and Bridgeport here last night was called off on account of darkness, or rather, because of the lack of light. A severe electrical storm passed over this city late in the afternoon and while the playing field was in good enough condition after the storm, the projectors which throw the light over the field, were all knocked out of focus by the strong wind, making it impossible to play the game.

TOM DUGGAN SUCCUMBS

MONTREAL, Quebec, July 23.—(AP.)—Thomas Duggan, 48, prominent in hockey and racetrack activities in Canada and the United States, died suddenly last night from a heart attack.

Tom Duggan, who died in Montreal last night, was the sponsor of dog-racing at the Bridgeville racetrack. He also was a well-known figure in hockey and horse-racing circles in Canada and in the dog-racing field in Florida. He was an intimate friend of the late Tex Rickard.

While here for the dog races recently, Duggan was complaining about acute pains in the region of his heart and he planned to return here in the fall and undergo treatment or an operation in the Mercy Hospital.

Duggan was well liked by all who came in contact with him. Quiet and soft-spoken, he made many friends here.

RAIN HALTS MATCH

RUMSON, N. J., July 23.—(AP.)—A heavy downpour of rain caused postponement of yesterday's match in the national junior polo championships with the United States Army team leading Greentree, 9 to 5, at the end of five chukkers of play.

MOE, DEFENDING TITLE, WINS

BEVERLEY COUNTRY CLUB, CHICAGO, July 23.—(AP.)—Don Moe, of Portland, Oregon, made a successful start in defense of his Western Amatuer golf championship today by defeating Vincent Huntington, of Chicago, 4 and 2, in the first round of play.

The youthful champion played the 16 holes in three strokes over par while his less experienced rival was six over perfect figures. Moe led 2 up, at the turn and ended the battle with a par 4 on the sixteenth green.

Dick Martin, University of Illinois star and Big Ten champion, was forced out of the championship with an attack of appendicitis. Martin, who qualified along the border line with a 158-stroke total yesterday, soon after was stricken and taken to a Chicago hospital for an operation. Because of his withdrawal, his paired rival for the first round, Charles (Chick) Evans, Jr., of Chicago, got a bye.

T. Phillip Perkins, former British amateur champion now residing in New York, had a gallop in his first-round match with the youthful Freddy Lyon, of Pontiac, Ill., winning by the lop-sided margin of 6 and 5.

Johnny Lehman, of Chicago, who tied Evans for medalist honors, eliminated Lloyd Nordstrom, the big "dark Horse" from Davenport, Ia., 4 and 3. Lehman was two over par while Nordstrom, who led the field with a 72 at the end of the first half of the 36-hole qualifying round, was five strokes over perfect figures.

Cyril Tolley, of England, met a tartar in Benny Goodwin, of St. Louis, and was 1 down at the end of the first nine holes. Tolley, slightly off his putting game, dropped the first, third and sixth holes to par figures and captured the fifth and the long seventh. He lost the sixth when Goodwin laid him a stymie by pitching dead to the pin.

Girl in Tennis Tourney Duel Loses Skirt

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., July 23.—(AP.)—The gallery was on its feet—now cheering; now gasping—as Miss Josephine Dunham, Washington, and Miss Reba Kirson, Baltimore, battled in the West Virginia open tennis tournament here yesterday.

Miss Dunham drove the ball fiercely at Miss Kirson. Reba romped to take the drive.

R-r-r-rip! Something happened.

Reba clutched frantically at her falling skirt. Play stopped and Miss Kirson hurriedly retired to the dressing room.

A few minutes later she reappeared, attired in a pair of men's "shorts," and the game went on.

HOCKEY CLUB SALE OFF

Pittsburgh probably will have National League hockey again next season.

Last May 11 it was announced that a group of Clevelanders, headed by Lincoln Dickey, planned to purchase the local ice franchise and players. On May 12 it was announced that Dickey did not have the money needed to purchase the hockey Pirates.

Today, a little more than two months later, the situation is little changed. The only change, in fact, is that while on May 11 Dickey didn't have the money, today he not only doesn't have the the cash, but has no prospect of getting it.

Attorney James F. Callahan, president of the Pittsburgh Hockey Club, today said that in view of the fact that the franchise and team were not to be given away, the Pirates probably will remain in Pittsburgh next season.

PHILADELPHIA, July 23.—As indefinite as a lost, strayed or stolen want ad, one genuine National League pennant, 1930 design, is homeless and seeking an owner as the clubs scramble in the back stretch.

The stumbling acts recently put on by every one of the four contenders—the Robins, the Cubs, the Giants and the Cardinals—have made a veritable orphan out of the robust youngster, who will make himself heard in October.

One by one the contenders have sagged and staggered. Uncle Robbie had the lad in his robust arms, but he yanked off Robbie's glasses and mussed him up to such an extent that Uncle passed the troublesome kid along to Marse Joe McCarthy.

GIANTS, CARDS HOPEFUL

At the present time Marse Joe seems able to do more with the youngster than anybody, but Johnny McGraw and Charley Street think they would make better nurses.

One thing is certain, the flag is being bandied about in a terribly careless manner. McGraw and Street are ready to move in any time on their neighbors, but neither the Giants nor the Redbirds appear to be able to establish any consistency.

McGraw's perforated pitching staff threatens to make a wreck out of the boys of the team. The Cards have good pitchers, but they cannot seem to hit on all cylinders.

Anyhow, it looks like a free-for-all with any of the four teams likely to cop.

BUCS LOSE LUSTRE

The fading Pirates lost a lot of their lustre since they ran into the Philadelphia heat wave.

Smeared for the second time in two days by the peerless Phils, the Buccos yesterday were beaten, 11 to 5, to bring their strings of victories and defeats for the tour all even at five.

Phil Collins outsmarted the Buccos all the way on the mound and the fidgety one whacked out two homers. Larry French and Leon Chagnon were bombarded by the subway clouters.

Collins showed the difference between a "pitcher" and a "thrower" as he turned back the Buccos. He made most of our good batters swing at his slow ball. He kept his fast one away from them.

Nick Altrock Says:

ST. LOUIS, July 23.—This hot wave can quit right now and it's all right with me. Your Uncle Nick can act crazy without the heat. And when I stew in St. Louis I like to do it at one of the local breweries. The last few days I had an electric fan in both hip pockets and wore a palm leaf fan for pajamas. But it didn't give any relief. I finally solved the heat problem by insulting an umpire before each game started and getting a quick shower bath. I am willing to put up more margin if the thermometer will go down to 60 for the rest of the season and stay there.

INTER-PARK NET DUELS OPEN TOMORROW

ELIMINATIONS TO PRODUCE CITY CHAMPS

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Widely varying types and temperaments of racquet stars will be featured in the Inter-Park Elimination series of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph revival of the Pittsburgh Public Parks tennis championships, said series being scheduled to get under way on the fine new clay rectangles of Frick Park here tomorrow afternoon. Differences in style are not so particularly apparent in the women's division, but in the man-to-man classification it may be pretty safely asserted that no two of the six aspirants to the City Parks title—and with it, initial leg on the coveted Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Challenge Cup, as well as right to represent the local area as Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph guest at the National Public Parks championships in Washington, D. C. the week of August 18—can be properly described as greatly resembling each other in court cavorting.

Analysis of the play of capable performers is usually interesting and, with the Inter-Park tussling only a day away, it seems not untimely to comment upon the modes and manners of victory-chasing favored by the favorites. It is striking to note, as examples of radically divergent schools of net tactics, how certain luminaries lean toward chance-taking, while others are inclined to wait 'em out; how some seek triumph through speed, and others pursue the same end by means of accuracy; how some employ baseline work as foundation for incursions toward the barrier, while others either come up not at all and thereby sacrifice a portion of their rear court effectiveness or spurt in on weak shots and stake all on the hope that opponents will err in confusion or offer returns that can be handled for placements.

SERVICE DANGEROUS

Irvin Goodman, survivor of the remarkably large Schenley field, is a disciple of the sound, all-around game. His service is steadily dangerous, if not spectacular. His forehand is well-executed, but not as reliable as it might be, but his backhand is both steady and brilliant, especially on balls shoulder-high, which he hits daringly for frequent clean placements. He is quite at home at the net and moves in frequently, often on a cross-courted backhand. Up front he volleys decisively and handles overheads better than the average. He is a heady player and boasts the nerve to hit for openings when they present themselves.

Frank Broida, Frick winner, has built success around an excellent left-handed driving game. Broida is small and rather slight of frame and probably lacks the stamina to carry on a sustained net attack throughout a long match. But he is quite sturdy enough to spend the afternoon plastering tennis balls from the baseline and dearth of beef appears in no sense a handicap to him in propelling the spheres, for he has by all odds the best ground strokes in Steel City park circles. Being a southpaw, Broida holds the advantage invariably enjoyed by forkhanders in meeting starboard satellites who are comparatively unaccustomed to caring for offerings from the queer angles that their unorthodox rivals are able to line off both from back court and at the net. Broida's service is not deadly, but it is well placed and streaks across with deceptive trajectory to opposing backhand. But Frank seldom follows it to the net, for he is content to drive hard and consistently, working up his openings and scoring numerous clean passing shots from the baseline after maneuvering his opponent out of position. Although he is not an habitual net-rusher, he is very capable on those occasions when he sees fit to step up. But primarily he is a hard-hitting baseliner and an extremely tough one to out-general.

REDMOND IS SOUTHPAW

Jack Redmond, Highland victor, is, like Broida, a left-hander. Unlike the Frick flash, however, his game is far from being a series of finely-drawn drives. Redmond mixes chops with his flat forehands and almost always slices his backhand attempts in fashion more defensive than aggressive. His first service is severe, but his second is much less so. Against an inferior opponent he strokes vigorously most of the time and invades the fore-court sector for smoking kills; against a more formidable foe he is cautious, prone to remain on the baseline and content to let the other fellow make full share of errors. Redmond is fast on his feet, agile and very determined. He plays out the string at all times and often chases the ball for sensational recoveries on shots that most racqueters would allow to go for placements.

Bob Broad, Olympia contender, is a steady, light-hitter. He risks little, preferring to permit the chap across the mesh to do the playing and dump off the misplays. How he will react to the pace cut out by rivals in the Inter-Park melee is difficult to conjecture, for he has competed in few tournaments, and we have not had opportunity to observe him in action against netmen who could run him and find the openings. But he is game and cool and will certainly give good account of himself.

Karl Beilstein, captor of West laurels, brings off his shots in clean, pretty form. His strokes are by no means blistering, yet they are adequate. He volleys well close to the net on slices and light drives, but how he would handle the speed of Broida is problematical. When pressed he is apt to lapse into wildness, but there's no one in his section of the North Side able to push him to that extent.

The game of Jack Herrmann, rangy Riverview ace, is a mixture of brilliance and weakness. Herrmann has the strokes, if he'll only use 'em. His service is the most scintillant of any likely to be seen in the eliminations. Hit flat, it finds the corners, but unfortunately Jack is so wary of lobs and sideline returns that he is wont to remain hesitantly back until his delivery is robbed of much of its value by enemy defensive stabs. When his eye is on the ball, Herrmann smashes magnificently and volleys with crisp dispatch. But he loses confidence in even these, his outstanding shots, and off the ground, from the baseline, he ping-pongs away chance after chance to hit boldly for the forcing shot to hostile backhand to clear the pathway to the net. Herrmann is capable of amazing tennis and he is also capable of amazingly poor tennis for one of his potentialities. He will go far if he can be persuaded to join battle in proper frame of mind.

From the foregoing, it is obvious that parks fans are slated to behold variegated tennis this week-end—and they can likewise write their tickets for a flock of truly sensational jousting.

Mussolini Interest In Carnera Denied

PHILADELPHIA, July 23.—(INS.)—Reports that Primo Carnera, Italy's gigantic contender for world heavyweight honors, has been summoned to his native land for military service by Premier Mussolini were branded as falsehoods today by Herman Taylor and Robert Gunnis, Philadelphia boxing promoters, who staged the recent Godfrey-Carnera fiasco here.

"We have Carnera under contract for a bout in Atlantic City in September and have been authorized to issue a denial to the reports," Taylor said. "Frank Paccassi, who was quoted in the dispatches from Omaha as the authority for the report and was mentioned as the business manager for Primo's American tour, is unknown to us.

"The whole story is a rank fabrication. Mussolini is not interested in Carnera to that extent. The only hitch in our plans for the Atlantic City match is the refusal of the immigration bureau to grant Primo a six-month extension of his stay in the United States."

SPORTS WORLD MOURNS DEATH OF HARMON

CHICAGO, July 23.—(AP.)—The last request of P. T. (Paddy) Harmon, dreamer and builder of the world's greatest indoor sports arena, was "I hope you'll lay me out in the stadium—my stadium."

Just before he died yesterday from injuries suffered when his automobile overturned in a ditch, Harmon asked to go once more to the $7,000,000 West Side building—the highest material accomplishment of a career that started as a street lighter and included promotion of championship boxing matches, six-day bicycle races and dances.

Arrangements for his funeral, however, were held up today, pending the result of serious injuries suffered by his wife, Mrs. May Harmon, who with Dr. Thomas Brand, was in the automobile.

Thousands of youngsters and grownups who as youngsters, benefited by Harmon's Christmas charities during the last 20 years, today mourned his death, as did hundreds of others who were associated with him.

Harmon, for 25 years one of Chicago's leading sports and amusement promoters, was returning home from his summer home in Crystal Lake, Ill., accompanied by his wife and a guest, Dr. E. T. Brand, when his automobile hit a rough spot in the highway near Des Plaines, a suburb. The speeding machine, with Harmon at the wheel, got out of control, plunged off the road and landed 25 feet away, pinning its occupants beneath it.

Harmon, internally injured died of hemorrhages of the lungs in a hospital three hours later. His wife, Mrs. May Harmon, is in a serious condition, but Dr. Brand was less seriously hurt. From his hospital bed Dr. Brand directed a frantic attempt to save Harmon's life by dispatching a highway policeman to a medical supply house in Chicago for a drug that might have stopped the internal hemorrhages.

Harmon, whose promotional genius resulted in the erection of the Chicago stadium, was ousted from the presidency less than six months after it was opened, because the board of directors decided his management was responsible for several failures of sports events, which had been counted upon to produce profits.

After his dismissal from the stadium last November, Harmon was a candidate in the Republican primaries for the office of sheriff of Cook County, but was defeated.

Between Rounds

Buck McTiernan is slated to box Joe Lindell, Detroit welterweight champion, in the Meyers Bowl, August 11, and George Fisher is scheduled to mix the windies in the same ring a week later.

Three good 10-round bouts top a card at Eldorado Field, Riverside, tonight. Al Brown, bantamweight champion, meets Buenaventura Bettencourt, of Cuba, in the main bout. Harry Smith and Babe McCarney are in the semi-final and Eddie Mack, of Detroit, and Monty Goldman, of New York, are in the first feature event. Ike Bude Kissel-Paul Fiorino bout at Stanton Field, Bellaire, postponed from last night and Monday night, has been rescheduled for tonight.

The Hickey Park promoters in Millvale have added a general increase in their admission and are looking for the 10 cent head customers of the Saturday night outdoor shows when the Medford and Frankie Wine, heavies, top the weekly bill. Cowboy Dellora and Al Barker, local boys, are in the main-event semi-final, Paul Bailey and Bud Wolfe in the second bout and Hans Roberts and Freddie Bush slam in the opener. Something over a good action program.

Ben Frazier, local Cuban featherweight, has left the stable of Johnny Bratnich and Red Manley is now in charge under the management of Mike Ray of the Hill. He is in training and will appear in the ring within a week.

Young Rudy and Terry McGraw have been matched for an eight-round bout at Weirton, W. Va., next Tuesday night.

U. S. Soccer Team In Semi-Finals

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, July 23.—(AP.)—The world soccer football championship tournament, now in progress here, has reached the semi-final round, with the United States, Argentina, Uruguay and Jugoslavia as the sole survivors.

The draw for the semi-finals putted the United States against Argentina on Saturday, and Uruguay against Jugoslavia on Sunday.

INDRISANO, FREEMAN BOUT OFF

Again the sting of hard luck is felt by the Meyers Brothers, promoters of boxing in the biggest outdoor fight bowl in this section, the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock.

Just last night, when every thing looked rosy and the shekels were pouring in for the Tommy Freeman-Johnny Indrisano fight Monday night at the Bowl, Indrisano's manager called from Boston and announced that Johnny would not be able to go through with the bout because of a bad cut over his left eye received in training.

Although this bout was between two out-of-towners, the match shaped up as one of the best of the season.

Matchmaker Jules Beck offered Freeman to Buck McTiernan, Swissvale junior-middleweight, after Indrisano ran out, but Buck had to turn down the fight because he could not get in his best condition on short notice. When McTiernan refused the bout, Beck called off the Freeman part of the show, and will stage an all-star local show instead.

DAVIES-FIELDS BOUT OFF

WHEELING, W. Va., July 23.—Plans for the Willie Davies-Rose Fields bout to be held here on August 2 were squelched today when Prosecuting Attorney Schaffer advised promoters that there could be no more boxing until after the grand jury investigation into the death of Young Bruno, lightweight fighter who was killed in a bout here with Perry Bridges about three weeks ago.

A benefit fight for Bruno's family held here last Friday night at the Wheeling Middle Atlantic Baseball Park netted only $38, leading promoters to believe that boxing, locally, was on its last legs.

FISHING IN CANADA

I spent a very pleasant week fishing for muskies and trout up in Ontario, Canada recently. Our party of four caught 61 of the muskies one day averaging in weight between five and 15 pounds. As usual one weighing about 40 pounds got away.

Knute Rockne

Several things, however, interfered with my pleasure. First was the ungodly hour of arising. Second was the endless discussion as to which was the more sporting to catch the 61 muskies, have our picture taken with them and ship them home, or to catch them with barbless hooks and throw them back into the water unmurured. Incidentally, we put most of them back. And third was coming back into this country past the United States Customs. Outside of these it was a great trip and about as fine a vacation as I can think of for anyone.

U. S. Chess Players Lead at Hamburg

HAMBURG, Germany, July 23.—(AP.)—At the close of the twelfth round of the team tournament of the International Chess Federation last night the United States team led the field with a total of 31 points. It was closely followed by Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Austria, Germany, England, Holland and Poland.

The Americans, in yesterday's round, led Holland 1½-½ with two games adjourned. In the tenth and eleventh rounds they defeated Germany by 3½-½ and Norway by 4-0.

I. Rosdahl, of New York added two wins to his score against Germany and Holland. F. J. Marshall won his game from Norway. J. A. Anderson, of St. Louis, was credited with a draw against Holland.

Victories were gained by Austria, Hungary, Lithuania, Czechoslovakia, Germany and Denmark.

FREE LINKERS DEFEAT VETS, 6 TO 5

Striving for nine long years to obtain a decision over a team of golf veterans, composed of prominent stars representing the various country clubs in this vicinity, the Schenley Park free links representatives finally succeeded in reaching their objective yesterday when they scored a 6-5 triumph in their annual match with the aggregation headed by Richard C. Lang of Oakmont.

The match is played annually to help defray expenses of the local public links team to the national tournament this year to be played in Jacksonville, Fla.

Yesterday's competition over the Schenley course proved one of the best in the history of the match. The free linkers, after getting off to a poor start that indicated that the veterans were headed for another triumph, got their bearings in the late stages and managed to forge to the front.

Two upsets marked the individual match play event. Mike Evans, of the Schenley team, defeating the veteran George Ormiston, 3 and 2, while Andy Sirwedka, also of the free linkers, scored a 2-and-1 victory over Fred Weppner, of Stanton Heights. The summary:

R. C. Lang, Oakmont, defeated Francis Lally, Schenley, 2 and 1.
Ray Babcock, Oakmont, defeated Pat MacDonough, Schenley, 3 and 2.
Joe Crawford, Oakmont, defeated Mary Bombert, Schenley, 1 up.
Mike Evans, Schenley, defeated George Ormiston, Oakmont, 3 and 2.
Bill Graham, Schenley, 4 and 3, defeated Herron, Oakmont, at even.
Andy Sirwedka, Schenley, defeated Fred du Wappner, Stanton Heights, 2 and 1.
Carl Lundell, Schenley, defeated George J. Wilmot, Oakmont, 6 and 4.
C. O'Neil, Schenley, defeated J. Burnt Ross, Allegheny, 3 and 2.
J. Scott Burns, Fox Chapel, defeated P. J. O'Malley, Schenley, 1 up.
Walter Phillips, Schenley, and Pat George T. Gregg, Oakmont, at even.
John Graham, South Hills, defeated Mike Gallin, Schenley, 3 and 2.
James Hammond, Long Vue, and Joe Paolacone, Schenley, all even.
A. R. Gilmer, Fox Chapel, and C. Dudas, Schenley, at even.
Jim Bird, Schenley, defeated William Fox, Fox Chapel, 3 and 1.
Carl Kaufhold, Schenley, defeated Grant McBride, Oakmont, 1 up.

CLUB STARS BOW TO MUNY LINKERS AT SCHENLEY PARK

In spite of inclement weather, a large gallery followed the annual match between the all-star teams of country club players and public linksmen at Schenley Park yesterday to raise funds to defray the expenses of the local free linkers to the National Public Links tournament in Florida next month, when Carl F. Kauffmann will defend the title he has won three successive years. Note the umbrellas in the gallery. The Public Linkers won, 6 matches to 5.

GUYS, GENERALS TRIUMPH

Making his debut in organized baseball after enjoying unusual success as a sandlot pitcher, Joe Cole hurled the Charleroi Governors to a 13-7 victory over the Jeannette Jays in the series' opener at Charleroi in one of the two Middle Atlantic League games played yesterday. Cole held the losers to nine hits and was scored on in only three innings. Nork helped the Guys' cause with a home run.

In the other league game, the Clarksburg Generals defeated the Wheeling Stogies at Wheeling in a night contest. The contest was a pitchers' battle between Proctor, of Clarksburg, and Chismar, of Wheeling. Proctor was tight in the pinches, while Chismar did not weaken until the eighth when four successive singles resulted in the winning run.

Rain wiped out the Cumberland-Johnstown and Scottdale-Fairmont contests. As a result doubleheaders will be played today at Johnstown and Fairmont.

SESLER WINS TITLE

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., July 23.—(AP.)—E. C. Sesler, of Ivydale, won the state singles title at the annual tournament of the West Virginia Tennis Association yesterday, defeating Ed Ould, of Logan. The runner-up was Claude Sumpter, of Bluefield, with a score of 61

The Carnegie Steel battle with Dravo Contracting at the Neville Island grounds in the Commercial and Industrial League tops this evening's sandlot card. The Steelers, led by Manager Weber, are interested in making a good showing in the second-half race and seeing that the boys led by Johnny Strutzinger have improved during the past few weeks, there is every reason to feel that the Neville Island fans will see a well contested game.

The Steel City League will hold the spotlight as a league, both the eastern and western sections flashing good games. In the eastern section the Doerfels will meet the St. Elizabeth aggregation at Lawrenceville and the battle of the East End will be fought at Homewood playgrounds when the East End Cardinals and the East Liberty Crimsons clash. The Crimsons copped the first-half title and Manager Kahn feels that his team is good enough to win the second. Russ Prata, of the Cardinals is going to shoot the works in order to stop that Mellon Field outfit.

In the western section Fox A. C. makes the trip to Pleasant Valley to meet Mreder's Observatory Civics.

In the City League, the North Side Civics will visit Woodman Park down McKees Rocks to battle with Mike Jedinak's W. O. W. nine. Since the Civics stopped Book Shoe there is every reason to believe that the second half race is going to be wide open. The Woodmen are hitting the ball hard, and with Wallman having pitched this week, Mitchell or Heideler will get the assignment tonight.

Quite a number of league games were played last night. In the City League Book Shoe retained its grip on first place by defeating the North Side Civics, 9 to 5. In the other city loop contests, W. O. W. bowed to Dormont, 8-2; J. L. Thomas defeated Stowe, 5-2, and Homewood took a fine pitchers' battle from Pleasant Valley, 2-1.

Pintex defeated the T. M. H. A. in the only Central League game on the card, 4-3; North Bessemer defeated Verona in the Greater Pittsburgh League, 3-1; Byllesby played a 5-5 tie with Equitable Gas in the Philadelphia Company League; the Lineys defeated St. George in the Major League, 11-1, while the Pitcairn Independents defeated the Heeps, 3-2, and the Crawfords vanquished the Homestead Aces, 14-3, in two independent contests.

Keck's Sport Comment

decision. Willie gives Wolgast credit for being a good ringman, but says the Midget can not punch and that, on effective scoring, he is certain he can outpoint the champion any time they meet.

THE SHAMROCK V, Sir Thomas Lipton's latest, and probably last, challenger for the America's Cup, the world championship yachting emblem, now is on the high seas bound for Newport, R. I., carrying the hopes of the 80-year-old sportsman whose name is a byword wherever good sportsmanship is appreciated.

Sir Thomas Lipton.

The yacht that will defend the trophy for the United States in the races to be run off Newport, beginning September 13, has not yet been decided in the series of tests, but the ultimate winner of the preliminary competition will be certain to prove a formidable craft, and Sir Thomas once more may have to accept the bitter disappointment that has marked his long title quest so far. Once more for his vast expenditure of money he may return home with nothing to show but the fun of the thing, aside from a lot of free worldwide advertising for the beverage that bears his name, which is no inconsiderable item.

Somehow, we fear there will be no shedding of tears in the event of a British victory in this colorful feature of the summer sports program, for, as cited above, this may be the veteran skipper's last fling, and he has been such a wonderful loser that the world, including America, would hail and toast him as a winner.

WHAT'S ALL THE shooting for in the Primo Carnera case?

Big Fiddle Feet has been ordered home by the Italian government to serve a hitch in the army and out of this land of the free by our own immigration authorities, who refuse to renew his entry papers.

Little, if anything, will be lost through the going of Carnera. He has been nothing but a one-man circus all the time he has been in this country, boxing sparring partners in exhibitions or knocking out tankers in alleged fights. He and his management have done the provinces brown and given them little in return. Even his one big bout, that with George Godfrey, in Philadelphia, still leaves much to be explained.

With the circumstances as they are, permit us to stifle a yawn as we bid the Primo an effusive farewell and bon voyage in the good old-fashioned "Here's your hat, what's your hurry?" fashion that has become an old American custom.

Sport Vignettes

JOIN THE MINORS and see the world. This must be the slogan of Frank (Dundee) Dodgers, McKees Rocks outfield star, who opened the season with the New Haven club, of the Eastern League, went to the Baltimore Orioles when New Haven gave up the ghost and now finds himself with Peoria in the Three-Eye circuit. Rodgers also was around a bit last season. The minor league business must remind him of his kid days when he tried for the brass ring on the merry-go-round—and he's a corking player and hard hitter, at that . . . Joe Keally, the local referee, is finding many supporters for his cause in connection with that ruckus he had at the Meyers Bowl on Monday night, when he had to tangle with an abusive spectator . . . The chances are that such rooters, who take keen delight in hiding in the crowd and "riding" the officials, will get the bum's rush from the constabulary at future shows . . . G. Lyttleton Rogers, the Irish tennis champion, who stands 6 feet 7 inches in his socks, and is over here to play in the Canadian and American championships, finds his great height quite an asset in serving . . . He holds a victory over Henri Cochet, the French star, scored on the Riviera, and extended Bill Tilden to five sets in a grueling match . . . A boxer who carries his right hat cocked but seldom lets it go in a bout gets about as much sympathy from the fans as the baseball player who strikes out with his bat on his shoulder . . . One of them tried it at Hickey Park recently and heard a fan yell, "Hey, take that gun off your shoulder and start shootin'!"

PHILS, BROWNS ADD TO WIN STREAKS

(Associated Press)

Two teams which sometimes look as if they might get somewhere in the major league pennant races but which aren't doing are the St. Louis Browns and the Philadelphia Nationals. Both clubs are having unusual winning streaks for them, with three successive victories apiece. But such occasions are all too rare for them to make much progress toward the top. It has been over a month since either has won so many games in succession and there have been only a few such occasions all season.

St. Louis made it a real triumph yesterday by downing the Washington Senators, 3 to 1, for a third straight win. Not only did the victory protect the Browns' record of having beaten the Senators oftener than they have lost to them, a thing no other club has done this year, but it put St. Louis in sixth place a few points ahead of Chicago.

COFFMAN TURNS TRICK

Dick Coffman's pitching turned the trick although the Browns were again outhit, 7-9. He kept the Senator blows scattered and harmless. The Boston Red Sox pushed Chicago down behind the Browns by joining three hits with a Chicago error to score twice in the ninth inning and win the game, 4 to 3.

This feat of the Phillies in trouncing Pittsburgh, 11 to 5, for a third straight victory was somewhat overshadowed by the return of Brooklyn to first place in the National League standing. But the individual feats of Phil Collins could not be kept in the shade. Collins not only continued his effective pitching but he hit two successive home runs and added a single to bring in four Phillie runs.

Brooklyn, with its pitching staff worn, tried Hollis Thurston as a starting moundsman in its struggle to get back to the top. The American League castoff held the St. Louis Cardinals to three hits to win a 1-to-0 decision. The Robins made only five hits off Hallahan and Lindsey but two of them and Frisch's error produced the only run.

The Robins received a lot of assistance from the New York Giants, who sent Chicago's Cubs downward by winning the second game of a doubleheader, 6 to 1, after the Cubs had won the first, 5 to 4. Ethan Allen's homer with loaded bases brought most of the Giant runs in the second game, halted by rain after seven innings in which Bill Walker gave Chicago only six hits. The Cubs piled up 15 blows in the first game, 11 of them and four of their runs coming in the last three innings.

INDIANS WIN TWO

The Cleveland Indians registered the day's big gain in the American League, although they could not advance in the standing as did the Browns. Cleveland took both ends of a twin bill from the New York Yankees, 6 to 5 and 10 to 8. George Pipgras failed to break the Indian jinx in the first game after Cleveland had almost tossed the game away by errors. He yielded two runs in the ninth inning and lost. New York made six misplays in the second contest, but still it required Earl Averill's eighth inning homer, his second of the game, to give Cleveland the decision.

Fight Results

At St. Paul—King Tut knocked out George Baldur, 1 round; Mr Sullivan defeated Vince Dundee, 10 rounds.

At Denver—K. O. Christner knocked out George Manley, 2 rounds.

At New York—Tommy Grogan-Bruce Flowers bout postponed until tomorrow, rain.

At Chicago—Nisse Ramm knocked out (technical) George Hoffman, 1 round.

MORE OPTIMISM IN STEEL

NEW YORK, July 23.—The Iron Age in its weekly summary of the iron and steel trade tomorrow will say:

Sentiment in the iron and steel trade has improved more than business or plant operations. The opinion is gaining ground that industrial reaction is at its worst and that the only possible change is for the better, but actual gains in mill bookings are too small and too scattered to be significant and steel ingot output is unchanged at 56 per cent for the third week.

The heat wave has further reduced operations among certain iron and steel consumers, notably foundries.

When the period of industrial suspensions has been finally passed, iron and steel demand will doubtless fulfill expectations of betterment. The extent of the gain in bookings, however, is difficult to forecast, since so much depends upon the flow of consumer goods to the public. Inventories of both raw materials and finished products at iron and steel consuming plants will prove small or large as the rate of general business activity determines. Several manufacturers of this class which have been idle for the past two weeks have resumed operations in a very limited way.

BELIEVED BOTTOM REACHED

The movement of sheets and strip to industries outside of the automotive field is somewhat larger, and makers of those products serving the Ford Motor Co., have been able to increase their schedules somewhat. But most of the favorable news of the week is negative. The lack of important price changes in scrap and pig iron and putting out of additional blast furnaces are construed as further evidence that the bottom has been reached or is close at hand. Fewer furnaces are in blast in the Alabama district than at any time since January, 1922.

Steel prices are still highly irregular, but do not show such widespread weakness as a few weeks ago. The price of 3.10c, Pittsburgh, on galvanized sheets, which had been confined to large jobbers, has been extended to other buyers. Tin mill black plate is off $1 a ton and long terms have declined $2.

MORE PIPE ORDERS PENDING

Structural steel awards, at 37,000 tons, compare with a weekly average for the year to date of 33,000 tons and last week's record total of 58,000 tons.

Manufacturers expect to book additional pipe line tonnage within the next month or two, since a number of projects are still pending and others are being planned. A gas line from New Mexico into Arizona calls for 260 miles of 10-inch.

Lettings of reinforcing steel are the largest since the middle of June.

The Iron Age composite prices are unchanged. Pig iron, at $17.09, is $1.33 a gross ton below a year ago. Finished steel, at 2.171c a pound, is $4.82 a net ton lower than 12 months ago.

Cotton Supplies Show Large Increase

The total stock of all kinds of cotton on hand in this country as of June 30 was 5,067,000 bales, compared with 3,006,000 on the corresponding date last year, 3,205,000 two years ago, 4,567,000 in the big crop season three years ago and 4,341,000 four years ago, the New York Cotton Exchange Service reports. Exports during the 11 months from August 1 to June 30 totaled 6,502,000 bales, against 7,801,000 in the corresponding 11 months last season. Domestic consumption during the same period totaled 5,735,000 bales, against 6,544,000 bales in the like period last season.

Forbes

Shipping and Agriculture Making Empire of British Columbia.

By B. C. FORBES

IN THE WEST July 23.—British Columbia is becoming an empire rich agriculturally and commanding unexcelled marine facilities. I've had my eyes opened on this maiden visit. The surpassing beauties of Banff and Lake Louise I was prepared for, yet they exceeded all expectations. Don't miss them; see them rather than hie off to Europe.

But my education concerning British Columbia had been neglected. I had thought of it as a very far-off, rather sleepy, not very progressive not very important stretch of land and forest which some distant day might be developed into something.

Mr. Forbes

Well, the facts are entirely different.

VANCOUVER has a land-locked harbor affording 96 miles of ideal waterfront and space sufficient to accommodate, I should say, all the ships carrying the Stars and Stripes. It has piers costing from five millions up—and others are in active construction.

Rivalry between the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian National railways is intensely keen, and here you see it in operation. Sir Henry Thornton, the National's able and aggressive head, having wisely decided to provide shipping facilities of the most modern and expansive type.

Vancouver's port tonnage has jumped from 3,200,000 in 1921 to 9,900,000 last year. Imports increased 116 per cent and exports no less than 430 per cent. How's that for progress?

THE PANAMA CANAL revolutionized transportation in this part of the world. Freight used to go by rail across the continent. Now the commerce of a large part of the West pours into Vancouver and other Western ports and moves by ship through the Panama Canal to the Atlantic Seaboard and all parts of the globe. Vancouver, as one citizen graphically expressed it, "is the front door distributing base for Western Canada." Grain, lumber and minerals move out to world markets, and manufactured supplies of all kinds move into Western Canada through Vancouver.

And this revolution is only in its infancy. Vancouver city, as well as private enterprise, is building solidly for the immeasurable growth which surely is coming. Some of the sky-scraping structures going up and already up give you an idea of the people's vision and faith.

BRITISH COLUMBIA and Western Canada is perhaps the most highly mineralized area in the North American Continent, producing gold, silver, lead, copper, zinc, coal. British Columbia is the world's third largest producer of zinc, fourth largest producer of lead.

British Columbia forests hold approximately one-third of the total soft wood reserve of the British Empire. It has used up less of its lumber than any other province or state in North America. Its estimated stand of commercial timber is three hundred and fifty billion board feet.

Western Canada is the granary of the world. Says one authority:

"With a coast outlet for the Peace River country, twenty million acres of additional fertile land can be brought into cultivation."

Thanks to diversity of production, British Columbia has the highest per capita purchasing power in Canada. Six major industries contribute thus: Agriculture, 13.5 per cent; forestry, 46 per cent; fishery, 7.9 per cent; mining, 20.6 per cent; construction, 9.2 per cent; manufactures (N. O. S.), 16.9 per cent.

METROPOLITAN Vancouver's population has reached 389,000. The half-million mark is not many years away. The ablest minds here as more alive than almost anywhere else to the infinite importance of awakening Asia and its billion souls. That is coming.

3-17-30

. . . the war against Spitting is a crusade of decency . . . join it. smoke CERTIFIED CREMO!

Over 7,500 cigar factories are registered by the U. S. Government. Over 7,400 of these hand-roll cigars, producing 50 percent of the output. Every hand-rolled cigar—made by American Cigar Co. or anyone else—is subject to the possible danger of "spit-tipping." Certified Cremo is absolutely free from spit-tipping—No Cremo is made by hand.

Certified Cremo is a really wonderful smoke—mild—mellow—nut-sweet! Every leaf entering the clean, sunny Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture. And its purity is safeguarded along every step of the way by amazing inventions that bind, roll, wrap and tip the cigars!

BULLS APPLY STRONG-ARM METHODS

Impressive List of Shares Bid Up—Shorts Hurry to Cover at Costly Levels

NEW YORK, July 23—(AP.)—Having in effect publicly committed themselves to advancing prices, the bull forces applied strong arm methods to the stock market today.

An impressive list of important stocks was bid up 4 points or more and timid shorts hurried to cover at costly levels. There was no inclination on the part of the general public, however, to rush into the market. Commission houses reported only a moderate pickup in business.

ADVISE BUYING

A widely advertised statement by M. J. Meehan & Co. saying that it regarded present levels as offering excellent opportunities to prudent investors, was generally regarded in Wall street as a public avowal of the bull cause by the so-called "Meehan Group" of market operators, who are regarded by brokerage circles as important engineers in the present market.

While speculative sentiment generally has become rather bullish over the more distant future, there is a feeling that the success of the present movement will depend largely upon the seasonal upturn in business activity as fall approaches, and the amount of public participation which can be attracted.

Commission houses find no such inclination on the part of the public to rush into the market as there has been during recent years, for too many optimistic forecasts and bull campaigns have failed. A current survey points out that the stocks of several leading companies of a decade ago would now show sharp losses if held since that time.

REVIEWS OPTIMISTIC

The day's business news still reflected little but seasonal trends. The weekly steel trade reviews were more optimistic, but Iron Age still placed steel mill operations as unchanged at 56 per cent of capacity, against 95 a year ago and 73 two years ago.

Freight car loadings as reported for the latest week showed further seasonal declines, and continued at the lowest level in recent years. The weekly petroleum statistics, however, distinctly were favorable, showing further substantial reductions in refiners' stocks and crude production. Earnings statements continue to show a few decidedly encouraging exceptions to the downward tendency.

The bull movement attracted considerable profit taking, and prices wavered considerably at times. For a time during the morning and again in the afternoon, recessions of a point or so from the highest were common. Strenuous operations for the advance in such pool favorites as Standard of New Jersey and Radio Keith appeared to meet some opposition, for advances of only a point or less were achieved. General Motors was pushed up substantially more than a point, a fair move for that stock.

WIDE GAINS MADE

Shares making extreme gains of about 4 included U. S. Steel, American Telephone, American Can, Vanadium and Du Pont. Radio, General Electric and Electric Auto Lite gained 2 or so. High fliers were Eastman Kodak, Allied Chemical, Columbian Carbon and Peoples Gas, up 6 to 10.

Credit eased. Call loans were renewed at 2 per cent, and funds were available in the outside market as low as 1 per cent. Shorter term time money also showed an easier tendency. Further exports of gold were without influence.

Water Works Power Production Lower

American Water Works and Electric subsidiaries power output for June totaled 148,871,496 kwh., a decrease of 4 per cent from June, 1929. For six months output totaled 959,441,208 kwh., an increase of 2 per cent over the first half last year.

N. Y. Exchange Seat Sells Off $68,000

NEW YORK, July 23.—Arrangements have been made for the sale of a New York Stock Exchange membership at $400,000, off $68,000 from the last previous transaction.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, July 23.—Helped by indications of big export business and by unlooked for sharp upturns in prices at Liverpool, wheat values here averaged higher early today. Corn, oats and provisions likewise developed firmness, notwithstanding reports of moisture relief for corn in the Southwest. Opening at ⅛@⅞c advance, Chicago wheat later held near to the initial range. Corn started ⅜c off to ⅜c up, and afterwards sagged all around, but then rose to well above yesterday's finish.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, July 23.—The Curb market's reaction to recent technical declines was apparently regarded as satisfactory by the bull faction, which became fairly active in a number of issues today. Short-covering assisted the upturn.

VIEWS OF KAHN ON PROSPERITY ENCOURAGING

He Leaves Little Doubt That Factors Making for Good Times Are at Work

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, July 23.—When Otto H. Kahn, partner of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and Maecenas of the theater, comments on the economic situation, he invariably has something pungent and illuminating to say. He has what Bernard M. Baruch would call a "source mind"—a mental capacity to originate sound thinking rather than to repeat observations which happened to be in vogue.

Mr. Rukeyser

The publication of Mr. Kahn's letter on the business outlook to an anonymous inquirer is rather a remarkable event. It sets forth, among other things, the process of business recovery, and helps to give lay investors and smaller businessmen the benefit of the analysis made by an outstanding banker.

Though declining to give a time-table for the return of prosperity, Mr. Kahn leaves little doubt that good times will return. Mr. Kahn emphasizes four major favorable factors—the fact that consumption and production appear to be reaching a new balance, the fact that some raw materials are selling below the cost of production, encouraging the inference that they should soon turn about, the cheapness of credit, and the fact that the investor should consider average earning power over a period of years rather than the immediate situation.

REACHING BALANCE

Discussing these points in order, Mr. Kahn asserted:

"Consumption and production in many lines appear to be reaching a stage of reasonable equilibrium in our country. Indeed, authoritative statistics recently published seem to indicate that for the time being, in some branches of trade, we find ourselves in a state of actual underproduction, i. e., producing less than we consume. To the extent that such a state of affairs does exist, it cannot continue for any great length of time and is apt to undergo a sudden change.

"Some raw materials and some commodities are selling at or below the cost of production. That means that we are in the midst of a process which, by the workings of economic law, should prove effectively curative after a while, even though instances do come to mind where, owing to peculiar circumstances, production has gone on without profit, or even at a loss, for a prolonged period.

"Money is abundant to an extent the like of which we have not experienced for many years. It is true that, not infrequently in the past, we have seen weak markets with easy money and 'bull' markets with tight money, but it is likewise true and of more profound significance that the driving power of abundant money, if continued for a sufficient length of time, is a strongly stimulating factor in its general effects, just as very tight money, if continued for a sufficient length of time, is an irresistibly depressing factor, of course. The boon of easy money can be overdone.

JUDGING STOCK

"It may be appropriate to quote a recently reported remark of one of the ablest of British economists, Sir Josiah Stamp, in the course of an interview relating to conditions in America, to the effect that in judging the value of a stock the earnings of one particular year are of relatively small importance and that the basis for determining intrinsic values is in the record of earnings over a series of years past, plus a soundly reasonable estimate of earnings fairly to be expected over a series of years to come.

"Another consideration too apt to be overlooked in times of depression is the elementary fact that for every one who had to or chose to sell, there was someone who had the means and the faith to buy."

Mr. Kahn made it clear that he was setting forth only his own personal views, yet it is part of the record that during the earlier period of excessive speculative optimism Mr. Kahn's firm was relatively skeptical and passive, whereas other firms were more active in exploiting the prevailing delusions.

DAILY TRUE STORY

White Feather

Thelma Allison was one of those stately, queenly, beautiful girls.

But she wasn't dumb at all. In fact she had a brilliant mind and prided herself on her unfailing good judgment, her knowledge of men and women and her ability to absolutely control her emotions.

More than that, she believed utterly in herself and her ability to do whatever she wished and get whatever she wanted.

Thelma never wished for anything that wasn't right and proper and best for her to have. Nor did she ever want to do anything that one shouldn't do.

There was Keith Mannering, for example. She wanted him. She was determined to have him. Keith was handsome, wealthy, and socially prominent and so, of course, it was quite proper for Thelma to want him.

She had personality and great charm. She knew how to use them. Naturally Keith became greatly interested in her.

Little Cora Thurston was frightened.

She also wanted Keith Mannering—she wanted him with all her honest, simple little heart. And she had thought that Keith admired her—loved her.

To tell the truth, he had loved her. But Thelma Allison, who had come to this quiet little town to study art under Professor Hopfeng, had seemed to take him by storm.

Cora did her best and Keith seemed to be wavering. He knew that he loved little Cora and that she was sweet and wonderful, but at the same time he dreamed dreams of the stately and beautiful Thelma as mistress of his home—truly a fitting wife for the one remaining male of the Mannering family. She would be a regal hostess and a shining society leader.

Wise Girl

Keith liked to talk with Thelma because, while she showed her keen intellect, she was far too clever to let Keith know that she considered herself to be mentally his superior. Time enough for that after they were married. One cannot win a man that way. The man likes to believe that while his wife has all the beauty, he has all the brains.

Cora Thurston wished she had the courage to go to Thelma and explain that she and Keith had been as good as engaged, but she didn't quite dare. Thelma had such a way of appearing superior and amusedly tolerant with her.

Keith Mannering was also amazed at the manner in which Thelma controlled her emotions.

That time when the bump upon a railroad crossing had broken the car axle just as a train appeared around the curve, had been an example of this.

Instead of screaming with fear, Thelma said, "It's time for us to be moving, Keith."

She said it quietly.

He leaped from the car, lifted her out and took her away so that when the locomotive smashed the car the flying pieces did not hit them.

That was nerve! Admirable nerve. Nothing could ever upset her. Keith was sure of it. Through life with him she could meet any situation with calmness, intelligence and good grace.

Poor little Cora Thurston began to realize that she was losing this one man she loved—that she had actually lost him.

Keith dropped over to see Thelma. She lived at Professor Hopfeng's home. A servant brought some mail out to her in the garden.

"Why, here's a letter from our family doctor—how unusual," Thelma said, noting the letter-head.

"Go ahead and read it, my dear," Keith urged.

Thelma opened the envelope gracefully, deliberately, and glanced at the letter.

"Just fancy, Keith," she exclaimed, "my younger sister was in a canoe accident—she went over Silver Falls, and they are all of 40 feet high. The poor dear is in a hospital now."

Thelma showed a proper amount of sympathy, but she did not scream or raise her voice or shatter and say: "How dreadful—how simply terrible." Not at all. She did say: "How unfortunate. Sister has a broken arm and some broken ribs. Fancy, some chap on the ledge up there diving all that distance into the lower rapids to rescue her!"

Ashamed

Keith was interested. Thelma went inside and brought out some photographs, kept loosely in a case. Some of them showed the falls. Thelma pointed out the projecting ledge from which the chap had dived.

"Good boy!" Keith said. "I'll take my hat off to him. It took nerve to do that."

"Either a man is a real man or else he is a coward, Keith. Man naturally tries to protect a woman. The gentleman, whether he be a society chap or just a laborer, the true gentleman, does not stop to consider danger at all in such a case. He leaps in to protect the woman, any woman, just as naturally as he breathes. You know you would have done the same thing."

"I suppose so," Keith agreed. But he felt a little ashamed. Secretly he was afraid he wouldn't have had the courage.

The doctor had written because Mavis, Thelma's sister, couldn't write with her broken arm. The doctor wrote that the young man who had seen Mavis lose control of the canoe in the upper rapids and go over, saw that she was hurt and helpless when she came up below. He had been rather severely injured, although he had brought Mavis ashore.

"His name is Emerson. He was visiting there," Thelma explained to Keith after she had finished reading the letter. "I shall write to him tonight. Perhaps there is something I can do—pay his hospital expenses. He may be a poor chap."

Thelma did write. She showed the reply to Keith. The writer, Norton Emerson, thanked her for her kind note and offer of financial aid. Fortunately, he wrote, he did not need it.

"Mavis is young—and romantic," she explained to Keith, "but it is rather terrible—this Mr. Emerson injured one of the vertebra in his neck when he did the high dive for her."

"That's tough—it may be permanent," Keith exclaimed.

"He did not mention it in his letter, another mark of the true gentleman. I quite approve of his type—he strikes me as just your own type, Keith."

A White Feather

"Meaning that you approve of me?"

"Thoroughly."

This led right where Thelma expected and intended that it should—to a proposal of marriage.

Not even the gushing reply disturbed Thelma. She showed the letter to Keith.

"Imagine it, Keith! Do you blame people for being bromidic at times and mentioning that it is a small world?"

Part of the letter read:

"It is the most amazing thing, Thelma—your going to marry this Mr. Mannering, because Mr. Emerson knows him quite well and says he is a splendid chap.

Keith recalled this Norton Emerson then.

A few months later, it was cold weather then, Mavis came on to visit Thelma. She was quite recovered. She talked a great deal of Norton Emerson, and wept a little because it was taking him so long to get well.

One afternoon while down in the village Thelma sat in the sport car while Keith went after cigarets. She heard a scream and glanced across the street. Painters had a ladder scaffolding up and had left it. Some child had crawled out of the apartment window over the store to this scaffolding and in some manner clung to a rope that was a slipknot. The weight unloosened it, one end of the ladder dropped and caught in a shutter. The child screamed and clung to the sloping ladder. Any moment the thing might come down and the child be killed.

A young man standing near the car stood still and stared, but two other men rushed over. One of them got hold of the lower ropes to hoist and even up the scaffolding and to hold it from dropping. The other rushed up the stairway to take the child in.

The child was saved.

Thelma stared at the young man on the sidewalk who had not stirred. Anger inflamed her, but she kept cool. Very disdainfully she got out of the car, removed her hat, took from it a long white feather. She went up to the young man.

"Permit me," she said, "this is for your sort of valor!"

He stared at her and turned pale. Then he bowed stiffly, removed his hat and thrust the white feather in the band. He bowed again and moved away.

Keith Mannering had come from the shop and witnessed the saving of the child and also Thelma's presentation of the white feather to the young man, who had stood and stared.

Costly Error

"Do you know who he was?" Keith asked.

"Oh, did you see? I am glad I do not know him or any like him. I detest cowardice."

Keith made no answer, but drove Thelma down to a tea house, did some telephoning, had some tea and took her home.

In the living room sat Mavis, snuggled up to a young man. He had a white silk handkerchief or muffler about his throat. Thelma stared at him and flushed.

On the table was his hat—with a long white feather in it.

"Permit me," said Keith, and he introduced them. The man was Norton Emerson.

"Miss Allison," Emerson said, arising and flushing, "I came on at Mr. Mannering's suggestion to surprise Mavis and to ask your permission, since you are her older sister and there are no brothers or parents living, to marry Mavis if she will have me. I saw that ladder accident and saw two men who were nearer rush to save the child. It will be a month before I can remove this steel plate from my neck and any sudden strain might have been fatal, that is why I considered it foolhardy to rush over there."

"Oh!"

Keith took Thelma to another room.

"What you did, without stopping to make sure if there was any excuse, is unbelievable. That you could so insult any person and hurt anyone's feelings like that is horrible, Thelma. I am afraid we would never be happy together."

Keith Mannering bowed himself out of the room and out of Thelma's life.

And when Keith married Cora Thurston Thelma quite lost control of her emotions. She wept and she swore horribly. She is quite successful as a portrait artist now, but the sight of a white feather makes her positively ill.

BIG IDEA DEPARTMENT

Congressman Frisby has asked us to give publicity to his proposed plan to restrict horse racing during the depression which the Democratic administration has brought upon us. Mr. Frisby wants to make it illegal for more than one horse to participate in any one race. This plan, he says, will conserve horse feed and make it possible for the leisure class to wager their savings with less risk to the country's economic structure.

An Open Letter to the Public Safety Director

To Director James M. Clark:

In an interview with a Sun-Telegraph reporter who called on you Monday to inquire what, if anything, you proposed to do to suppress the clearing house lottery, you said the only solution for the problem that you could see was for the newspapers to quit publishing the clearing house figures, on which the lottery is based.

Your answer was a subterfuge—another attempt to evade responsibility for your toleration of these gigantic gambling operations, which are ruining many of our citizens and only last Saturday caused the suicide of a man who had lost a large amount of money in the lottery. Your reply to the reporter's question was characteristic of the course you have pursued in dealing with vice in Pittsburgh. You have invariably tried to shift the onus upon someone else, this time upon the newspapers.

You told the reporter you planned to write to the publishers of the newspapers to request that they discontinue printing the clearing house figures. We have not received your letter, but will spare you the trouble of writing it by informing you that we will not accede to any such request.

The Sun-Telegraph will continue to publish the clearing house figures, because the figures are legitimate and important news, valued in financial and commercial circles as an index to business conditions. Furthermore, to stop publishing the figures would not end the lottery, and you know it. On the other hand, publication of the figures may help to prevent swindling.

We believe that you are well aware of this. We feel that you were insincere in your suggestion. You cannot be ignorant of the fact that baseball scores are also used as the basis for lotteries, and that in a lottery operated until recently on the North Side the winning numbers were determined by the throwing of dice.

It is not from the newspapers that the operators and heavy players in the clearing house lottery learn the winning number. They are not content to wait for the printing of the newspapers and their appearance on the street; they get the winning number from New York by telephone or telegraph. But the newspapers, by publishing the correct figures, prevent the operators from passing off a bogus number as the winning one. If the newspapers were to discontinue publishing the clearing house figures, some other kind of figures would be used, with probably less chance for the detection of fraud.

Director Clark, you cannot escape knowledge that not only gambling but other forms of vice are rampant in the city, operating openly without police interference. Bets on the clearing house lottery are taken in shoe shining shops, in small grocery and tobacco stores, in factories and office buildings. Even policemen "write numbers." Agents of the lottery operate in the City-County Building. The pennies of children are taken, for some operators accept a bet as low as one cent. Some grocers, it is reported, put the money owing for bets on the numbers in their monthly statements, just as if it were for food that the debt had been incurred.

You cannot convince citizens that you could not have prevented these things from coming to this pass. If you had been really anxious to stop the "racket" you would have found means to do so.

Your trying to shift the blame to the newspapers indicates pretty plainly that you have no desire to stop it.

Pittsburgh, it seems, has a racketeer government. The police force, which you head, is honeycombed with corruption. We feel sure that most of the officers are personally honest, and if they could depend on your support would gladly clamp the lid on lotteries, speakeasies, gambling dens and disorderly houses. But they are far from confident that they will have your support.

About the only prosecutions of the forces of the underworld that are now being conducted are those inspired by the jealousy of competing gangs of racketeers. Those that are on the outside, lacking police protection, occasionally proceed against their more successful rivals through the offices of friendly officials. But there is utter disregard for the welfare of the public.

If the City Council were not servile to the administration, it would exercise its power to correct conditions. The Council, utilizing its authority to conduct investigations, would put some pertinent questions to you and Supt. Walsh and your police inspectors. Council, by conducting such an inquiry, could at least enlighten you, if you are really as ignorant as you profess to be, concerning the prevalence of vice in its various ugly forms.

You, Director Clark, as much as any other man, are to blame for this shameful and dangerous situation. You cannot shirk the responsibility. If you are as incompetent as you try to make us believe, you should resign.

THE PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH

Rural Mail Carriers As Experts on Roads

The Pennsylvania Rural Letter Carriers' Association has been holding its twenty-eighth annual convention at Washington, Pa., during the last few days. As was to be expected, one of the principal subjects of discussion was roads. If there is one class of workers who, more than any other, should be authorities on highways, it is the rural letter carriers, who drive many miles of country roads six days a week throughout the year and in every kind of weather.

The unthinking city dweller perhaps imagines that pavement has now been constructed to almost every point, at least, to which Uncle Sam makes free delivery of mail. The rural letter carriers will bear witness how remote such a supposition is from the truth.

Even here in Allegheny County, with its many hundreds of miles of paved highways, there are rural free delivery routes that lead through roads that at certain seasons the ordinary city motorist would regard as impassable.

But the rural letter carriers drive these dirt roads day in and day out. They have to stop now and then to dig away snowdrifts or get themselves pulled out of mud holes, but it is surprising with what regularity they succeed in making their deliveries at the scheduled time.

The United States government has no more faithful employes and the country people no better friends than the rural letter carriers.

The Pennsylvania association's suggestions on roads merit the earnest consideration of our highway authorities.

A Standing Invitation -:- -:- By Nelson Harding

All our ancient jails and prisons
Ill constructed, overcrowded
Are a standing invitation
To the visitors most dreaded.

We've had warnings without number
We've had recent dreadful lessons.
Have we yet begun to learn them
Or must we have still another?

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Retailer Goes Wholesale

We agree with Cal Coolidge, recent lessee of the White House, that Americans should spend more money, but we also remember that Cal spent two administrations trying to stop 'em.

"Bugs" Baer

This sudden switch of traffic signs must be due to Cal's new job.

As head man of the works, he had to be officially cool. But working on a daily newspaper he is naturally fair and warmer.

Cal certainly worked hard to reduce the hips on the national budget and to prevent too much of Gen. Dawes' pipe from getting into the news reels.

His was a regime of economy. And the prescription worked very well until the drug clerk got hold of the wrong bottle. Then we slumped on a slow fuse.

The bottom dropped out of the market this summer. And there wasn't any top.

But like Gen. Foch at that Verdun turkey dinner, Cal pinned his napkin around his epaulets and said, "My left wing is gone. My right wing is gone. I shall reach for the wishbone."

We are indebted to Mr. Arthur Brisbane for the information that America is a nation that spends 60 per cent of its wealth on luxuries.

And when Mr. Brisbane says anything, it is so. And if it ain't so, it's going to be.

We buy radios, pianos, motor cars, beer trucks, graphephone records, go to the talkies, scramble into baseball games and theaters. We gallop to the beach on holidays, wear pearl button shoes and bet on Bobby Jones and Gallant Fox. We join golf clubs and replace one divot out of five. There is no luxury that is too good for any American family.

And when you grow accustomed to a luxury, it is no longer a luxury, but a necessity.

Therefore, Mr. Cal Coolidge sounds off a sweet bugle call when he tells us to spend our jack and we guess we can do it without a personal example.

Right now, business men are starting to take those parachutes off their backs and are looking around for the boom. Not that there ever was any fear of a star-spangled collapse.

As a nation we have always been free-handed and generous. We have eternally cast our bread on the waters. And if it sinks to the bottom it is up to the other guy to take diving lessons.

Looks like we should forget the oversized midgets of Africa and the marching Mongolians who suffer four abreast and concentrate on ourselves for a while.

INVENTION

By Archibald Henderson

As never before in the world's history, the leading figures in government, industry and science are utilizing, for the world's progress, the natural instinct of invention, which seems planted in the human intelligence by a beneficent creator. It is perhaps the most basic and extraordinary differentiating trait which sets off the human race from the animal kingdom.

Although animals have a considerable amount of intelligence, it would seem, and some animals an extraordinary amount, they lack one striking capacity, which has in it the germ of illimitable possibilities. No animal has ever been known to light a fire!

Necessity has been called the mother of invention. And this is a true saying, so far as earlier and primitive civilizations are concerned. But it can only be said to be strictly true of them. Countless inventions are made nowadays, in the course of pure investigation, and not necessarily because the world needs or demands certain things.

Governments and technical organization realize the enormous industrial value of practical research, or, as we might say, mechanical invention. The scientist makes a machine because he has figured out by signs and symbols on paper beforehand that the desired result can be achieved. Clerk Maxwell was this sort of scientist—although he lacked the higher mechanical faculty of invention. On the other hand, Faraday was essentially an inventor; he tinkered with equipment, devised and carried through ingenious experiments, was endlessly fertile in inventing ways and means for exhibiting new phenomena. Maxwell could work out the mathematical theory of Faraday's experiments, but he couldn't think up the experiment originally. Faraday could devise the experiment, but he could not work mathematically the scientific theory.

The great industry of radio or wireless transmission owes its origin to Maxwell, who never sent out a wireless message. Faraday actually discovered, by inventive ingenuity, the true correlation between motion, magnetism and electricity. As a result of this discovery alone, said Gen. J. J. Carty, probably more than 90 billions of invested capital has come to be actively employed.

The ideal of a great civilization is to free man from the accidental and sporadic results of genius, and to afford every facility for the true genius to function at the highest efficiency. He or she should be spared all concern for livelihood, and supplied with every facility for employing his genius to the fullest extent. In the past, an undue eminence attached to statesmen and warriors. Their work was often harmful and dangerous, destructive rather than constructive. The ideal of the scientific and power age is the engineer, the inventor whose work is definitely constructive, useful and beneficent.

It is toward this ideal that the world is now tending with rapid strides.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

They say that love is blind. I doubt it.

Lovers are my specialty. I get 'em in car load lots. But I have yet to meet a really blind one. I have, however, met thousands who deliberately donned blinders in order to kid themselves long.

Take Muriel. Muriel's a fine person. Dignified, intelligent, good-natured, trustworthy. Has been a buyer in one of our big book departments for the last six years. And for five of those years she has been engaged to Dan Collins. Dan's handsome, charming—but just about as reliable as a cockroach. Love Muriel? Sure. And some day when he gets around to it, he expects to marry her. But in the meantime, he should worry whether he keeps his dates with her or returns the money he borrowed from her last week.

And so the anxious, humiliated years drag on for Muriel. Doesn't she see the futility of it all? Is her love for Dan blind? Not a bit of it! She knows perfectly well what Dan is—every detail of his character. But she won't admit that he's hopeless. For if she does, she must lose the precious and precarious adventure of being Dan's sweetheart. And that's more than an adventure to Muriel. It's an addiction—and addiction she calls love. So—to protect her addiction, she turns her face stubbornly from reality and says that Dan will be different after they're married—love will change him.

Gene's another. Gene's engaged, too, to as pretty a little piece of fluff as you'd want to meet. As a bridge prize she'd be a wow—but as a wife she'll be the world's worst pain in the neck. Frivolous, flirty, lazy, dishonest, extravagant—you wouldn't even keep a pup around that had a character like that. And the queer part of it is that serious, steady Gene knows all about her. He rather prides himself on his knowledge of human nature and he wouldn't dream of tying up with a partner like that in business. Yet he kids himself that everything will be all right after they're married.

Why is divorce? That's why. It's the heavy price of kidding. Love didn't fool us. We fooled ourselves—deliberately, stubbornly fooled ourselves because we wanted something. We knew it wasn't worth wanting. We knew it violated every cherished standard. And our common sense yelled itself blue in the face, warning us to lay off. But we wouldn't lay off. For all this time there was this tugging, teasing tantalizing attraction we call love.

Actually it wasn't love at all. It was only desire. But never was it the desire of the MIND—for always the mind knew and feared the danger ahead. But we wouldn't listen to the mind's warning. So we went stubbornly, drunkenly ahead—

And then came the inevitable day when we said—"We never were meant for each other. I knew it all along but somehow I couldn't believe it. I thought if we loved each other enough, everything would turn out all right—"

Love isn't blind. But it tragically often puts on blinders.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

I reckon it's no good for me to tell you to quit saying things before the kids that you don't want repeated. Nobody does it on purpose to get the news scattered around, and still people ain't half careful enough.

There was a visitor at the home of the Leonards, and he was trying to be nice and sociable, so when he seen little George he says, "Well, George, you're growing up! I believe you're going to be just exactly like your dad!"

And George says, "Well, ma says that's just what she's afraid of too."

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS.

Song in Summer

When Summer's voice through the hawthorne calls
I wander down the narrow lane
In time to the linnet's madrigals
And the mocking bird's refrain.
I wander far by road and field
Where song and fragrance lead me on,
And still new beauty stands revealed
In every dusk, in every dawn.
At the edge of the world where palm trees rise,
Etched clear against the sea and sky,
I drink strange glamour with thirsty eyes
All night, as the stars wheel by.
When Summer's voice through the hawthorne rings
In silvery sweetness down the lane,
I turn from futile worldly things
To kneel at her shrines again.

SECTION 4. TRANSFORMATION OF TADPOLES.

Every spring tens of thousands of tadpoles become transformed into little frogs and leave the water for the land. This change, so trivial seeming, so familiar most of us do not even pause to think about it or its underlying machinery, is in reality pregnant with interest, and from its study far-reaching ideas have been born.

H. G. Wells

The tadpole's metamorphosis involves a radical change in the whole structure and working of the organism as it passes from one element to another.

To mention only the major alterations, gills and tail degenerate, intestine, brain and skin are remodeled and lungs and limbs, which have been growing slowly, come to full size. How is it that all these changes are so nicely synchronized?

This has only been found out in the last twenty years, beginning with Gudernatch's discovery in 1911 that tadpoles could be made to turn into frogs at any time by feeding them on thyroid gland tissue. The frog's metamorphosis is primarily due to the thyroid hormone circulating in its blood and so affecting all the organs of the body at once.

By dosing young tadpoles with thyroid bullfrogs no bigger than flies can be produced; by cutting out a tadpole's thyroid it can be made to continue growth as a tadpole form until it attains sizes previously unknown in tadpole annals and never metamorphoses at all.

Most spectacular of all, animals such as the Mexican Axolotl, which normally lives all its life and reproduces itself as a gilled eft in the water, can be made to turn into a land salamander at will by a single dose of thyroid.

On the arid Mexican plateau life in water is preferable, and axolotl has suppressed its metamorphosis and lived aquatically for thousands of generations. But a fraction of a milligram of thyroxin, even from a sheep or a fish, will bring out the long-lost salamander in a couple of weeks.

Other normally water-living amphibians, however, such as Necturus or Proteus, which also have lost their land phase, do not react to thyroid, but remain obstinately aquatic. Here we are introduced to an important principle.

As it takes two to make a quarrel, so it takes two to give a hormone reaction—the hormone itself and the capacity of the tissues to react. The gills and tail fin of the axolotl are sensitive to thyroxin; those of Necturus are not.

Similarly, although both frogs and toads on the one hand, and newts and salamanders on the other, are sensitive to thyroid, yet their tails differ.

Those of frog tadpoles shrivel up altogether under its influence, but those of salamanders lose only their fin-membrane. Some over-eager writers seem to think that more hormone-changes will explain evolution. Amphibian metamorphosis warns us against this too-facile view.

To return to the axolotl. Axolotls possess a thyroid which contains active hormone, for if engrafted into frog tadpoles it will metamorphose them at once. Why then do they not metamorphose themselves? It seems the axolotl has accentuated one of the peculiarities in which the metomorphosis of tailed amphibians differs from that of tailless.

Whereas in frog tadpoles some hormone is leaking out into the blood from the moment the tryroid begins to secrete, in salamanders all or almost all that is manufactured during larval life is stored within the little vesicles of which the gland is composed. Just before metamorphosis, however, the thyroid cells change their appearance, and the secretion is forced out into the blood.

In the axolotl, this final change never occurs; the thyroid cells remain indefinitely in a resting condition, the vesicles distended with an unused secretion. The nature of this "releasing factor" which acts on the thyroids of full-grown salamander tadpoles, but is lacking in axolotls, we do not know.

If we could find out, it would be of great importance, for in our own thyroids phases of rest and storage alternate with those of activity and discharge.

Subtler differences between tissues are revealed within the simple body of the tadpoles. The destruction of the gills and tail takes place only at the moment of metamorphosis; but the growth of limbs, though also dependent on thyroid, for it is enormously slowed down if the thyroid is cut out, begins from the moment when limb-buds first appear.

This is due to the fact that limb-tissue is sensitive to the least trace of thyroid hormone, while gills and tail do not react until a certain concentration is present.

The transformation of amphibians reveals other interesting secrets. Why is it that while ordinary frogs need almost three months to their metamorphosis, some toads take only a month, some bullfrogs over two years?

Abroad With A New Yorker

LONDON—Most wanderers in London make a bee line for the heart of green England—the highly publicized countryside with its beautiful Georgian estates and country taverns. I like to journey afoot in the deepening dusk through the wretched squalor of the glowering East India Docks Road.

Through Poplar, Stepney and Limehouse—the world of seafaring men glorified by Jacobs and the world of dank causeways glorified by Thomas Burke. There, especially in that part of Limehouse skirting the river, one finds a sort of underworld life rarely found in any other part of the world.

The street lamps gleam an indigo blue faintly and many paned windows of the motley array of shops are covered with dust. Chinese stand dully and unwinking in doorways. There is the musty odor of ale and the scraping of cheap gramophones. Everybody seems undernourished and life forms a thick green scum.

My wife and I were told by a hotel porter we should have a guide—it was dangerous—but somehow I have never feared the slums, although otherwise timid. We had tea and hot muffins, so British and unexpected, in Limehouse Court, a queer little chit of a street cluttered with lodging houses, ale and grocers' shops.

Poverty in Limehouse is accepted grimly, but not with resentment. The courtesy of Limehouse to me is expressed in that subaqueous roadway known as Blackwell Tunnell. A notice board asks drivers entering it to walk their horses. A notice at the other end anticipates obedience with: "Thank you, driver!"

The struggle for life here is always incessantly cruel and sometimes it becomes stealthy. It would be natural if inquisitiveness were regarded as impertinence but it never is. The children are sensitive and stop playing at the approach of strangers but they do not jeer or shout as they do in New York's Ghetto.

The cockney has a sullen exterior but he retains a good humor under all conditions. The slyest wit England produces is out of the mouths of cockneys. In Limehouse alone he remains unchanged. His flat bowler derby, amusing swagger and many pearl buttoned short coat are still his insignia—the true "limey."

Returning to London late we drove through Houndsditch—a hangout for cab drivers. The pubs were lined with those waiting for the afternoon theater rush. The comically bonneted women were haranguing their 'Arries and 'Alfs. Everybody was sipping ale and dipping heavily into the bar-lunch of the famous cockle, whelk, jellied eel and oyster patties. It was a jubilant din and typically London. I loved it.

The stones and bricks of Mayfair bespeak a royal eloquence. In almost every large American city there is now an exclusive social and dancing club called "The Mayfair." The aristocratic Park avenue is called Manhattan's Mayfair. London's Mayfair proper takes its name from the fair held there every May and is a lily growing out of the bog. It was once notorious as Whitechapel—a place far more convenient than holy matrimony. Fortunates who live in Mayfair usually have homes in the country or Scotland and it seemed desolate this morning. Mayfair's best known street is Curzon. Its dignified architecture has recently been augmented by one of London's newest and most striking temples—the Church of Christ Scientist.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Don't kiss babies on the mouth.

There are persons who never can resist kissing the little ones when they call at a home where there are children.

As mothers learn more about the care of children and how necessary it is to protect them against disease, they become more and more set against the adult who kisses their babies.

Old women are among the greatest offenders.

In their early life they never thought of the danger of communicating disease by kissing and they can't show their appreciation of the little ones if they don't kiss them.

Often they are offended by the mothers who ask them not to kiss the babe.

Some are angered to the extent that they want to argue how well and healthy their own children have been and that they themselves have no communicable disease.

Of course they show their ignorance.

Young mothers nowadays study and practice hygiene and look after their children's health with understanding, so help them protect the children by doing your part in refraining from kissing the babies on the mouth.
